

NO MORE 5 CENT STOCK AFTER MONDAY

AT 6 P. M.

The Books Will Positively Close at That Hour, and Tiger Butte Will be 12 Cents Again

A Nevada Man's Spirited Indorsement of Hornsilver's Most Promising Gold Producer

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

These days when the papers seem to be full of investment propositions in the way of mining, it is well for the public to thoroughly investigate the property in which they contemplate taking stock.

I wish to say for the Tiger Butte Gold Mining Company, of Nevada, that I have been intimately and actively connected with its affairs since the day of its inception. The property is practically owned by half a dozen business men of Goldfield. The records of the company show that over ninety-five per cent of the money derived from the sale of stock has gone into actual development of the property; the balance has been used in advertising, stationery and stamps. No officer of the company has ever drawn a five-cent piece for any service he ever rendered. The time the properties were purchased, besides the cash consideration, blocks of stock were given. Today every share of the promotion stock of this company is in pool in a safe deposit vault of a bank in Goldfield, and it has been there since the organization of the company three years ago. The understanding was when it was put in there that it would not be withdrawn until the mine was either on a dividend paying basis or has proved to be absolutely worthless. In the latter case the holders of this stock are the largest losers, but their unbending faith in the property makes them take this method of protecting the stockholders.

It is a common thing for a company to be organized and advertise the sale of treasury stock, and when it comes to be delivered to the purchaser promotion stock is substituted, with the result that the money goes into the promoter's pocket instead of into the ground.

I recommend the purchase of Tiger Butte stock on its merits. I believe it will be worth much more money in a very short while.

BERT D. WHITE,

Now of Portland, but formerly of Goldfield, Nevada.

The Shares of Tiger Butte Are Now 5 Cents Each

We have only a remnant of 25,000 to go at this price. There has been some lively buying the past few days. People have been taking this stock as if it were hot biscuits buttered and honeyed "to suit the taste."

AND THERE NEVER HAS BEEN ANOTHER MINING PROPOSITION ADVERTISED IN THE OREGON DAILY JOURNAL THAT, AS AN INVESTMENT, HAS EQUALED THIS ONE.

These shares are worth every farthing of 25c each, but we are selling for 5c because we MUST have a hoist to get the ore out of the mine, and we cannot get it without the money.

THIS IS THE REASON WE SELL THESE SHARES AT 5c EACH, BUT THE SALE WILL END MONDAY, MAY 18, AT 6 P. M.

Those who would double their money a thousand times ought not to delay another day in placing their orders. We cannot promise that we can fill them even late on Monday.

WE MEAN THIS, TOO.

DIRECTORS—Harry J. McNamara, M. A. Mahler, J. P. Cosgrove and Bert D. White.

Johnny Hobbs Secures a Part of the Frisbee Lease, Which Has Big Ore.

MEMBER OF GATES' PARTY WHICH VISITED HERE

Man Who Sells Interest is the One Who Sent Out First Ore From Cripple Creek.

Goldfield Tribune. An interest in the Frisbee lease on the Hornsilver King ground, at Hornsilver, was purchased yesterday by John H. Hobbs. The consideration could not be learned, but the fact that he has invested any money was the cause of general comment. It is known that any proposition he goes into must look pretty good to him. He is no small fellow, and when asked about this investment, indicated from his remarks that it was only a flyer on his own account. People who returned from the camp yesterday say that the find made on the Frisbee block of ground is immense. There is a little history connected with Frisbee that is interesting. The latter shipped the first carload of ore from the Cripple Creek district, and it came from the Gold King. The ore was sold at the rate of about $100 a ton, and the news of a shipment of that kind spread all over the state. Scores of mining investors flocked to the southwest slope of Pike's Peak, where the camp of Cripple Creek is located, and many of them approached the lucky owner of the mine. One of them got it, and the consideration was $25,000.

FRISBEE'S STORY. Frisbee felt good, as he was able to square all his indebtedness and buy a home at Colorado Springs. He even went to the extent of investing in a diamond and a fur coat. Within a few months the Gold King was sold for $180,000, and in less than a year it changed hands again at a basis of $180,000, and it could not be bought today at that figure, after being worked for 16 years. Then Frisbee wandered all over the United States and Old Mexico in an effort to find another mine. Nearly four years ago he came to Goldfield, and after looking around a little was induced to go to Lima and until the Hornsilver excitement broke out he has been diligently at work in an effort to open up a mine. That little known expert, Lime Point may give him another King. John Hobbs, whom everybody calls "Johnny" for short, and who has a smile as willing and broad as any seen on the faces of Benny Rosenthal or Joe Hutchinson, started into the mining business some 12 years ago, and he has made it a success. His address at the present time is No. 1 Wall street; at least, there is where his business office is, but his home is where he hangs up his hat. He came with the Gates party, V. Z. Reed, and also Thomas Fitzgerald, the well-known mining expert, were mixed up in the crowd. They were not here for their health. Big propositions and proven ones are what they were looking for, and whether they have found anything to suit them will not be known until the deeds are recorded. That "flyer" of Mr. Hobbs' Hornsilver may lead up to the big deal.

WATCHED WIFE GRUB STUMPS FOR NEW HOME

Palmer Decorated Fence With Himself, and Though He Made Wife Cut Family Wood, She Could Not Do So for Mother—Seven Decrees Granted.

Judge O'Day's courtroom took on the appearance of a flower garden and fruit emporium this morning. It was divorced day, and seven fair ones, each accompanied by witnesses to corroborate their unhappy stories, were more or less concealed under the sea of headgear that topped this way and that as the court took up the work of unshackling. It was exclusively a ladies' day, for there was not one complaining man in the multitude. Decidedly unchivalrous was the conduct of Charles F. Palmer, according to the testimony of Doris D. Palmer, who said that he sat on the fence and looked on while she grubbed up the stumps on their lot in St. Johns. They were married in the peninsular town in April, 1906, but in a few months moved to Benton county, where Mrs. Palmer cleared away the timber and fashioned shakes for their house. In December, 1907, the witness stated, her father was accidentally killed, and her husband refused to allow her to go home and console her mother. He objected to her cutting wood for her mother, she said, but he was perfectly willing to have her chop the wood at home. She said that he would not work, made false accusations, and once stole a plow from the road, where the road overseer had left it. She was granted a decree. Edward Burke left Marie Cecile Burke to join the navy, she said, remarking to her that he ought to kick the lungs out of her before he went. She told of several occasions when he abused her when he was drunk, the most exciting being one night when they were living at Holbrook. He went to Portland to get some money, she said, and came home about midnight with $0 cents. He choked her until the blood ran from her face. She managed to escape, and ran in her nightgown for a mile to the nearest neighbor for protection. They were married in Vancouver, Washington, in 1902, and Burke left to be a sailor on September 4, 1907. She has not heard from him since. Husband too stingy. George F. Ritter was so stingy that he made his lunch, bought his own nuts and sour wine, without inviting his wife to join in the feast, according to the testimony of Mrs. Gladys Ritter. She said he sometimes munched his frugal meal on the front porch and sometimes in the kitchen. He would not buy potatoes because they cost too much. Once when she was sick, she said, Ritter purchased a bottle of medicine, but would not give it to her until she had paid him 60 cents for it. Besides the starvation treatment, Mrs. Ritter stated, she was occasionally kicked and abused. Once he locked her in a room and stole her clothes, finding this an effective way of keeping her prisoner. Because he gnashed his teeth like a wild beast, called her a grafter and a bluffer and pounded the dinner table at which they were seated until the hot coffee flew into her face, Mrs. Charlotte Nordman found life with John Nordman unbearable. His rage was provoked because she asked him for money. He offered to give her an order on one of his friends, but she refused to accept it. Bad names and desertion. "Liar," "fool," "hypocrite" and "heathen" were some of the pet names used by Julius F. Prohl in speaking to his wife, according to the testimony of Mrs. Clara S. Prohl. She said he also assaulted and choked her. They were married in St. Helens, Oregon, in 1904. Mrs. Lulu Luckey made an unlucky choice when she was tied to Jesse Ray Luckey, for only a few weeks after they were married her husband sent her home and never returned to her. He promised to follow in a few days, but she has waited ever since, 1905, and he has not come. Desertion also the charge in the complaint of Emma Scheurer to William M. Scheurer to whom she was married in Portland in 1901. She testified that he left her without cause on November 11, 1906. Judge O'Day decided that all seven of the plaintiffs who testified in speaking to be free, and all were made happy by the granting of decrees.

MAKE THE STOMACH WORK

Indigestion Can Never Be Cured by Mollycodding. Don't try to cure your stomach trouble by coating, fusing, dieting and mollycodding. Make the organ work. If it cannot take care of the mass of food, without complaints such as flatulence, indigestion, headache and the feeling of fullness or distress, make its muscles work by using M-I-O's stomach tablets. These little tablets, taken with regularity for a few days, will soon strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach so that it will take pleasure in working to digest the food you eat, and there will be no further suffering with indigestion, flatulence or distress after eating. The time to treat a disordered or weakened stomach is when you begin to suspect that you have indigestion, for the suspicion will turn to certainty very soon. The heart-burn, the flatulence, the coated tongue and heavy and dull feeling after eating that come occasionally after you eat too much of something that does not agree with you, will show themselves after nearly every meal unless the stomach is put to work with M-I-O's. There is no need of special dieting if you set the stomach at work with M-I-O's. Eat what you want and when you want it and believe that you are going to be well and you will see relief from the first dose and complete cure in a few days. For a 50-cent box of M-I-O's on Woodland, Clarke & Co.'s guarantee of money back if you do not do all that is claimed for it.

TWO BALLOT BOXES AT ROCKWOOD-FAIRVIEW

Difference in Port and Precinct Lines Requires Special Equipment.

County Clerk Fields this morning reached a decision to use a double set of ballot boxes in Fairview and Rockwood precincts at the coming election, this being the only way to overcome the difficulty in the conflict of precinct and Port of Portland lines. These precincts are partly within the Port of Portland boundaries, but mostly outside, and it would be illegal to allow those living outside to vote on the Port of Portland appropriation measure that is to be on the ballot. By the method adopted each voted in the two precincts named will be asked where he lives when he comes to vote. If he is inside the port boundaries he will be given a ballot containing the port proposition, but if outside this will be omitted from the ballot that is given him. The ballots will then be deposited in separate boxes and the judges will be able to keep the vote straight. This morning County Clerk Fields had not yet decided how he would arrange the names of the candidates for justices of the peace on the ballot. Three of the candidates consulted with him this morning, but they did not agree in their views. E. H. Cahalin, the Democratic nominee, contends that the grouping should be alphabetical, instead of by parties. If his idea is adopted he will be second on the ballot, coming after J. W. Bell, one of the Republican nominees. Fred L. Olson, the two Republicans, will precede him under the party designation. Mr. Fields will decide this afternoon.

PALOUSE FARMER INSTALLS OIL RIG

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pine City, Wash., May 15.—For 19 years oil and gas prospects have attracted much attention in this district. A. J. Smith, a pioneer, is so confident of finding gas and oil that he has purchased a large oil drilling outfit, once used in Texas, and has it now on his farm here and will begin drilling at once. In the past decade numerous companies have been formed to prospect the district thoroughly, but in each instance financial difficulties have counteracted that good work. Mr. Smith is a wealthy farmer and has decided to take his own chances, and is able to sink several thousand dollars in experimenting. Oil has been found on the waters of the creek here for many years. The people of the entire Palouse have great faith that oil and gas underlie this region.

THREE-YEAR-OLD BOY MAKES LONG JOURNEY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) New York, May 15.—Wilfred Stevens, 3 years old, who lives in Southampton, Long Island, has arrived in New York, having traveled alone all the way from Capetown, South Africa, where he lived with his mother until she died, two months ago. Wilfred had been six weeks in completing the 11,000-mile voyage, and in that time he had not seen a face that he knew until his father greeted him at the pier.

BOARD MAY DEAL IN GRAIN FUTURES

Committee Appointed by the Grain Department to Make Investigation.

The grain department of the Portland board of trade has met with such success that a committee was appointed at the meeting of the grain interest today to report upon the advisability of dealing in future deliveries as upon the leading exchanges of the world. Of this committee, Messrs. Lombart, Berg and Murphy were appointed and they will report at the next meeting whether the new feature is advisable. From the present prospects, however, the new movement will be made. A permanent committee on grain rules was appointed and consisted of Messrs. Sanford, Fattala, McKey, Shull and Swanson. Mr. Sanford is chairman of this committee. Rules governing the inspection, selling and delivery of grain sold on the exchange were finally adopted. Hereafter all transactions made on the board will be cash on delivery.

Meter Case Postponed.

The case of J. L. Smithson, charged with destroying a meter belonging to the Portland Gas company, was called for trial in the circuit court this morning, but the defendant's attorney secured a continuance until June 6.

McMenagle Held in Jail.

C. A. McMenagle is still in the city jail in default of $1,500 bail. His hearing on the charge of larceny by bailee will come up before Judge Cameron on Monday.

ROSE PARADE IS CERTAIN

Regular School Drill Will Not Prevent Participation in Demonstration.

East side citizens are jubilant over the prospects for taking a brilliant part in the Rose Festival. The success of the children's parade is now an assured fact. Superintendent of Schools Rigler yesterday told President Bigelow of the East Side Business Men's association that the school board would not let the athletic exhibition on Multnomah field interfere with the festival parade, but would postpone it to give teachers and pupils now enrolled on the parade register a chance to drill. This was one of the suggestions offered by Mr. Rigler. The other was to permit to those who wish to participate in the proposed east side parade to drop out of the affair to be given on Multnomah field. The former proposition will be the more acceptable to the east side. Preparations are now again under active management. The children's parade will be thoroughly trained when the day for the parade June 4 arrives. A committee of business men went out this morning to complete the work of getting subscriptions for the carnival and flatterer success was won on every hand. The generosity of public spirited citizens of the east side will come possible to have a display of choice roses, and streetcar tickets will be made all arrangements with an other feature of the parade. The committee to the city will be presented with choice roses, and streetcar tickets will be made all arrangements with an other feature of the parade. The committee to the city will be presented with choice roses, and streetcar tickets will be made all arrangements with an other feature of the parade.

Shows Great Vitality.

Millie Watkins, who was removed from the city jail Wednesday afternoon in an apparently dying condition, will be brought back in the near future. Mrs. Watkins has been addicted to liquor for several years past, and Wednesday afternoon stagnation of the blood occurred which had the effect of transforming her complexion to a yellowish black. Simultaneously she had an acute attack of rheumatism of the heart, and was thought to be near death. At St. Vincent's hospital this morning, however, her condition was said to be free from danger. Physicians say the woman's vitality is remarkable.

Attends Sister's Funeral.

Clerk F. Block of the Oregon hotel left for Bellingham yesterday to attend the funeral of his sister. In his absence E. G. Bates, recently of the Hotel Lenox, has charge of the day desk in the Oregon.

LOVE AFFAIR ENDS IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

(United Press Landed Wire.) Paris, May 15.—A love affair at Boisgrentier has ended in a double tragedy. Auguste Chevaissier, the son of a wealthy land owner, had for some time been secretly engaged to Lucille Bourlier, who was as poor as she was beautiful. His father, however, intended otherwise for him and informed him that he had made all arrangements with an other friend that Auguste should marry his daughter. All that remained for him to do, he was told, was to win the affection of his fiancée. The young man protested that he could not fall in love and finally declared that he would never marry anyone but Miss Bourlier. His father replied that he could choose between obeying him and starvation, whereupon Auguste left the house. Shortly afterward Auguste and his

DEMOCRATS SPEAK IN WOODSTOCK TONIGHT

In Woodstock hall at Woodstock tonight the candidates on the Democratic ticket will speak under the auspices of the Democratic county central committee. Throughout the campaign so far the different candidates on the Democratic ticket have been meeting with enthusiastic receptions from the voters of the different parts of the city where the Democratic meetings have been held. Tonight's meetings will be the last of this week, but for the coming week a series of meetings in different parts of the county are being arranged.
