

CHEESE SUPPLY NOT SO GREAT

Although Output Equals That of Last Year Demand Is Much Greater.

Wholesale market features: Dairy season is held back. Weather affects fruit trade. Onion market going down. Steelhead salmon disappears. Blueback salmon is coming. Egg market quoted firmer. First local bell peppers are heavy. Potatoes are lower. Old potatoes in heavy demand. Egg plants coming from Cochella. Dressed meats moving at the...

Cheese Production Is Held Back.

According to W. G. Dwight of the Dairy section of the Oregon Agricultural Experiment Station, the production of cheese in this section thus far this season equals that of a year ago, but the demand is much greater. The reason for this is that the population of the state is increasing and the demand for cheese is increasing. The dairy industry is also being affected by the weather, which is not giving as much as it should. The result is that the supply of cheese is not keeping up with the demand.

Cheese Market Holding Well.

While this is usually considered the flush of the season in the cheese industry, the market is holding well. The price of cheese is not giving as much as it should, but the demand is still strong. The dairy industry is also being affected by the weather, which is not giving as much as it should. The result is that the supply of cheese is not keeping up with the demand.

Weather Affects Fruit Trade.

The cool weather is having a serious effect upon the fruit trade. The price of fruit is not giving as much as it should, and the supply is not keeping up with the demand. The dairy industry is also being affected by the weather, which is not giving as much as it should. The result is that the supply of cheese is not keeping up with the demand.

Steelhead Salmon Disappears.

While the run of salmon in both the Columbia and Willamette rivers is nominal, the greatest shortage is in steelhead and practically no arrivals were shown in that line by the local market during the past 24 hours. A few bluebacks are arriving from the Columbia and are finding a ready demand at 9c a pound, the same price as on chinooks.

Brief Notes of the Trade.

While the run of salmon in both the Columbia and Willamette rivers is nominal, the greatest shortage is in steelhead and practically no arrivals were shown in that line by the local market during the past 24 hours. A few bluebacks are arriving from the Columbia and are finding a ready demand at 9c a pound, the same price as on chinooks.

TAKE HALF A LOAF THEN WANT ANOTHER

According to Sam Broadus, the potato growers of Oregon, who are holding out for $1.25 a bushel, potatoes will be scarce for the season and that they do not sell at the recent advance in price. "The demand for potatoes is on now," says Mr. Broadus to The Journal this morning, "and producers should take advantage of the situation, for it will not remain with us for more than two or three weeks."

This morning and were quoted at 15c a bushel. A car of Cochella Bermuda onions arrived in this morning. The Produce Merchants' association will close their places of business at 2 o'clock every Saturday afternoon. Dressed meats are finding a steady call at the quotations now ranging: Front street sells at the following prices. Those paid shippers are less regular commissions:
