SOCIETY

by Drusilla Drew.

The opening reception last night at the Art Museum, given by the Arts and Crafts society, was largely attended. This exhibit promises to enlist a great deal of attention and by its close handicraft work will doubtless have a much larger following than now. No effort has been spared to make this affair a success. Mrs. Hugh Hume on her recent trip east spent most of her time in picking up interesting bits of work for this exhibit. Many prominent society folk are interested in the society and have given their support. The reception last night, which was invitational and included the members of the society and their friends, was informal. The officers acted as reception committee in an informal manner. They are Judge C. H. Carey, president; Mrs. H. C. Wortman, vice-president; Mrs. Stewart B. Linthicum, secretary, and several prominent people are on the board of directors.

The art galleries have been made most attractive. Large jars of flowering hawthorne stand in the corners and ropes of cedar are festooned in a frieze about the walls.

Miss Myrtle Schaefer of Irvington entertained yesterday afternoon at bridge in compliment to Miss Helen Brigham and Miss Grace Nicholson, two brides-elect for next month. The rooms were charming with dogwood and Scotch broom in the corners and hanging baskets of pink sweetpeas. The prizes at cards went to Miss Brigham and Miss Nicholson. The hostess' little nephew, Grennell Green, made a pretty picture as a Cupid, who admitted the guests. Hearts predominated in the service of refreshments. Miss Schaefer's sister, Mrs. Hazel Green, assisted her.

Those present besides the two honor guests were Miss Grace Dalrymple, Mrs. Ben Gadsby, Miss Anne Ditchburn, Mrs. Henry Frank, Mrs. George Peters, Miss Eleanor Rothernel, Miss Ethel Wentworth, Mrs. Lloyd Wentworth, Miss Mamie Dunne, Mrs. William Harold Staiger, Miss Lou King, Miss Irene Higgins, Miss Aileen Davis, Miss Sophie Beck, Miss Maud Howell, Mrs. David Jordan, Miss Mateel Howe, Miss Margaret Boot, Miss Mary Gray, Miss Jeannie Gray, Mrs. F. H. V. Andrews, Mrs. George Hazen, Mrs. William J. Warren and Mrs. Hazel Green.

Miss Schaefer, by the way, will leave tomorrow for Eugene to be there for junior week end at the University of Oregon. She is to be a guest of Miss Vivian Holmes at the Tau Pi house. Other guests at that house will be Miss Winnie Abbott and the Misses Frances and Louise Bradley. Miss Gladys Ross is to be the guest of Miss Clara Wold and Miss Lela Goddard will be at the Beta Epsilon house. Mrs. H. W. Goddard and Mrs. W. D. Fenton will go up to Eugene with her. Miss Clementine Cutter will stop at Eugene on her way from California, where she has been attending college. Miss Queen Moreland, who was such a popular Portland academy girl but is now living in Salem, will be at the Beta house.

A large number of people accepted Miss Marion Jackson's invitation yesterday afternoon to a tea given for Miss Lillie V. O'Ryan. Miss Jackson and Miss O'Ryan received. The flowers used in the reception room and the dining room were yellow broom and yellow roses on the tea table. Mrs. J. N. Teal and Mrs. T. T. Strain poured tea and Miss Barbara Crocker served punch. Assisting about the rooms were Miss Dorothy Morrison, Miss Hazel Crocker, Miss Grace Warren, Miss Inez Barrett and Miss Katherine Sitton.

The portraits and miniatures displayed attracted much favorable comment, for Miss O'Ryan has done some beautiful work with Portland subjects. Especially attractive were a portrait and miniature of Miss Jackson herself. There were besides a miniature of Mrs. David Honeyman, a portrait and a miniature of Miss Margaret Montgomery, a miniature of little Katherine Ainsworth, portraits of C. E. S. Wood, Dr. A. A. Morrison, the late Captain J. A. Brown, an oil and a pastel of Miss Liela Shelby, miniatures of Miss Cornelia Cooke and Miss Culiy Cooke, a sister of Miss Janice Meredith and of several pretty San Francisco girls. Miss O'Ryan lived in San Francisco before the earthquake and had established an enviable reputation there. A beautiful pastel of Miss Dorothy Morrison is one of her latest bits of work.

Mrs. Charles T. Whitney entertained at her Willamette Heights home yesterday with a cafeteria luncheon. There were 16 guests and they were served at small tables. Bridge followed and Mrs. Herbert Holman and Mrs. William Hathaway were the prize winners. This was the third of a series of small affairs Mrs. Whitney is giving. She expects to leave in a day or two for Hood River for a few days of rest.

One of Mrs. Walter Reed's delightful recitals will be given this evening at Ellers hall. She will present Miss Delta Watson, soprano; Miss Petronella Connolly, contralto, and Dr. George Ainslie, tenor. Mrs. Reed's musicales are always delightful affairs largely attended by fashion.

Mrs. R. P. Graham is a hostess at cards today.

Out of door sports are demanding some attention in spite of the weather. Every day there is a goodly representation at the Waverly links and enthusiasts put in much of their time getting in form for the state tournament which opens there next Wednesday. There are also a good many tennis players practicing between showers. The Irvington club handicap tournament will open there Friday week and the northwest tournament will open at Multnomah club July 14.

The American Woman Should Never Grow Old

The ancient magicians spent their lives searching for "The Fountain of Eternal Youth," but the American woman of today has come nearer to discovering this mythological spring than any of the wise men of old.

The true secret of youth can be disclosed in the two words, "care" and "attention." A woman is as old as she looks and all the birth certificates and family records can not change this estimate of her age.

Now, my dear, old-looking young woman, if you will give just a little care and just a little attention to a few simple rules, your complexion worries will soon be things of the past.

In the first place, use lots of water. Wash neck, face and arms thoroughly each night and morning in warm water to which you have added a handful of oatmeal. After your skin is thoroughly dry apply liberally a wash made as follows:

Obtain at your drug store rose water, two ounces; cologne spirits, one ounce; eppotone (skin food), four ounces. Put the eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the rose water and cologne spirits.

Drink three or four glasses of water as hot as you can stand comfortably during the day and just before retiring.

It is just these simple little things, if they are done regularly (and that's what is meant by "care" and "attention"), that make possible the many handsome, young looking old women we see in America today.

SAYS RAFTS ARE WITHOUT LIGHTS

River Captain Complains of Lack of Protection in Harbor.

OLD COAL BARGE REMAINS ON BANK

Harbormaster Says He Lacks Authority to Remove Ugly Wreckage While Dispute of Ownership Is Before the Courts.

River steamer captains complain that log and lumber rafts are permitted to remain moored in the river and in the harbor during the night without proper lights to warn navigators of their presence.

Captain E. W. Spencer is one of those complaining, and he stated last night that for the past two days there has been a lumber raft alongside the oriental liner Alesia with no lights to mark it after dark. The raft contains lumber to be shipped to the orient. The lumber is hauled on board while cargo is being discharged from the forward hatches.

"The port authorities are ever ready to raise a loud and long howl if anybody attempts to please the public by giving them fast transportation," said the owner of the steamer Charles R. Spencer, "but when it comes to protecting the interest of shipping, those expected to attend to that kind of work fail to appear. Now, that raft alongside the liner Alesia has been without lights for two nights, and since it extends quite a distance into the river from the side of the steamer it is a wonder to me that some small craft has not been rammed by it before this."

Another thing that operators of small craft in the harbor complain of is the old hulk of a barge left stranded on the east bank of the river near the Victoria dolphins. Ownership of the barge is disputed between the O. R. & N. company and the Oregon Round Lumber company, and neither side to the controversy will attempt to remove it. The barge turned turtle one night while coal was being transferred from it to one of the Harriman San Francisco liners, and one of the coalheavers lost his life. The barge had been rented from the Oregon Round Lumber company, and so that concern holds the navigation company responsible. Hence, the suit.

Harbormaster Speier says he is unable to do anything towards the removal of the unsightly wreck until a decision in the case before the court has been handed down.

COAST FREIGHTERS ARRIVE.

Steam Schooners Northland, Johan Poulsen and Olson and Mahoney.

The steam schooners Johan Poulsen and Olson & Mahoney came up the river last night from San Francisco to carry away return cargoes of wheat and lumber. The Johan Poulsen came to the harbor to load wheat and the Olson & Mahoney stopped at Rainier to take on a shipment of lumber before coming here for grain.

The steam schooner Northland arrived in the harbor this morning to load lumber at the mills of the Portland Lumber company for San Francisco. She was here about 10 days ago, having made an unusually quick round trip for a lumber drogher.

The Olsen & Mahoney is a sister ship of the steam schooner St. Helens which has been plying between Portland and Columbia river and California ports for several months in the grain and lumber trade. They both came out from the Atlantic coast early last fall, after having been sold to different San Francisco concerns, the St. Helens being owned by E. J. Dodge & Co., and the Olsen & Mahoney being owned by the Olsen-Mahoney Lumber company. This latter concern owns a number of new steam schooners, among them being the Jim Butler, Helene and others, equipped last summer with machinery by the Willamette Iron & Steel works of this city.

HEAVY CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

Collector's Cashier Shows That Average Collections Will Be Beaten.

Collections at the custom-house this month will be heavier than the average because of a large shipment of gunnies on the oriental liner Alesia which arrived a few days ago from Hongkong. So far $85,000 have already been taken in by Cashier Merriman.

The average collections and fees from all sources amounts to about $100,000 each month, and with more than two-thirds of that amount already taken in, the prospects for a big month are good.

THE PLAY

Lyric—"Nell Gwynn."

Nell Gwynn, with her graceful poses, her sweet voice, her uncouth manners and her naughty back-talk, is being surprisingly well portrayed at the Lyric theatre this week by Miss Verna Felton. The young star is, it must be admitted, somewhat handicapped by her age. Seventeen can't comprehend Nell Gwynn. But although Miss Felton's youth may interfere somewhat with the accuracy of her performance, it in no way detracts from its pleasure-giving powers. Most people prefer to see a sprightly and comely young woman than an old and wise one.

Besides Miss Felton there are an unusual number of players in the cast this week, and they all do pretty well. They are quite elaborately costumed. The stage settings are good, and include a very imposing sedan chair, while the production is historically correct. One feature of the playing of the company that detracts from their success is the total lack of regulation of the tempo. There is a tendency to allot the same time to every sentence and every situation. This proves somewhat confusing, as when, for instance, some one steps to the window and remarks: "Ah, there in the distance comes a sedan down the street. It is to stop here. It is Lord Lovelace, and here he is," Lord Lovelace meanwhile precipitating himself upon the stage some 80 seconds before his announcer has finished speaking. But tempo is something that much more experienced and better-known players than the Allen company utterly disregard, so it's by no means a serious drawback.

"Nell Gwynn" is probably the best production for the price that the Allen company has given. It is really an event in the history of popular-priced play-giving in Portland.

AT THE THEATRES

"Secret Service" at the Baker.

There are few more interesting plays on the stage than Gillette's famous drama, "Secret Service," which the Baker stock company is presenting all this week. Action, intense and interesting, from rise to fall of the curtain, is its chief characteristic.

Photographing the Bride.

An exceedingly funny moving picture is flashed at the Grand this week by F. F. Montressa. It is the story of newspaper photographers and artists trying to take pictures of the bride and groom at a fashionable wedding. Harrigan, the tramp juggler, is the headliner with his tricks and monologue. Robert Henry Hodge and three actresses have a merry sketch.

Burlesque Bull Fight.

The storm center of fun this week is "The Toreadors" at the Star theatre. Magdaline Holly, the prima donna, appears as the toreador. The show is the best the Armstrong company has yet given at the Star. Two supplemental vaudeville features are offered. Three performances daily. The night shows start at 7:30 and 9:15.

"Nell Gwynn" Tonight.

One of the biggest hits ever scored by the Allen Stock company was in that beautiful spectacular, romantic drama, "Nell Gwynn," and this week the organization is again presenting it in revival in response to numerous requests. It is in every respect a better performance and the public has decided that it is one of the best bills of the season. Moving pictures between acts and no long waits.

DR. PERKINS' SANITARY REFRIGERATORS

Embody the most perfect and sanitary principle of food preservation, which is at all times forcing fresh, pure air into and expelling impure air from the refrigerator. No other refrigerator can show such a positively pure, fresh air circulation, and it is from this principle that the "Sanitary" derives its name. The common-sense simplicity of these refrigerators is clearly shown in the accompanying illustration. Fresh air enters the refrigerator at the intake "A." The air chamber, "B," being constantly filled, acts as a tempering chamber. The forcing of fresh air into this chamber expels a proportionate amount of partially cooled air into the chamber "C," where it is further cooled and immediately drops to provision chamber "D," where the warm and impure air is forced through outlet "E." Dr. Perkins' Refrigerators cost no more than ordinary refrigerators and are far more efficient, sanitary and economical. We offer any of the many styles and sizes on liberal payment terms.

DRYS LOSERS IN STAYTON CASE

Judge Galloway Reverses Judge Scott and Priority Rule Prevails.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., May 20.—Judge Galloway, in department No. 2 of the circuit court, yesterday afternoon reversed the recent decision of Judge John Scott in reference to the local option fight in Stayton and Sublimity, in which County Judge Scott had decided that the petition absorbing a smaller district had preference over the petition from the smaller district though filed later. Over 100 women and other ardent local optionists attended the hearing.

The wet people were anxious to have Stayton and Sublimity vote on the local option issue separately, while the drys wished to combine Stayton with a larger district and vote the whole district dry.

County Clerk Allen said last night that there was a great deal of doubt in his mind whether the prohibition question would be voted on at all in any of the precincts involved in the fight, for Judge Scott had delayed the order to place the question on the ballot until now it was too late. The question will be voted on in the whole county at any rate, so that the district fights amount to very little beyond being a last resort for the drys should the county as a whole go wet.
