

FASHION HAS RETURNED TO THE FRENCH CAPITAL

Two Pretty Dresses Seen in the Champs Elysees Described by Countess Carlo de Carle—Some Timely Comment on Latest Parisian Hats.

By the Countess Carlo de Carle.

Paris, May 25.—That fashion has indeed come back to Paris one can see any day in the Rue de la Paix, the Avenue de l'Opera, and the Champs Elysees. I have chosen two of the pretty dresses worn at the latter named resort to describe to the readers of The Journal.

The first is a white spotted tulle trimmings with a white ribbon, with a white embroidered batiste trimmed with lace and frills, which form the upper part of the skirt. The high bodice, also richly trimmed with lace, opens over a guipure design with two frills of lace to match the skirt. Over this is thrown a lace hat in beige tulle, thickly embroidered with a white and a pretty flower pattern, the long pointed ends at the back and two sides are finished off with a black and white feather.

The second is the newest shape soutache coat with the long knotted ribbon at the back. Plain black skirt, trimmed with buttons up each side. Hat in black with feathers.

Black silk and satin jackets, with beautiful passementerie buttons, richly embroidered and trimmed with frills and the high waisted effect over pretentious waist coats with basques in Louis XV style, are much met with in the Bois in the afternoons or in the fashionable tearooms of the gay city. They are worn with plain black skirts, very long at the back and trailing in the front, with two side stripes at the back and white stripes and checks.

I have already described the "absorbent" dresses which have agitated Paris, let me now describe the very newest style of making long skirts, whether for afternoon dresses or for costumes. It is to have the front and two side stripes quite unlined, which allows them to fall quite flat, while the back goes and with the long train lined with heavy silk and the inside of the train is lined with thin flounces. This light pulls all the fullness of the skirt to the back. With these skirts no undergarments are permitted.

But if skirts are so made as to reveal the contours of the hips and lower limbs, the state almost bordering upon the sweet style bodices. These are still worn short waisted, that is, where the waist is indicated at all, for in most cases the draperies at the waist are loose, the fronts are much draped, waistbands are draped and the armholes are loose and undetermined. By these means the lines of the bust are quite hidden.

With the advent of spring days and bright sunshine the Parisienne has appeared with her sunshade.

In the Bois, at the race meetings, as well as in the best shops, I have seen some very beautiful specimens. Great luxury is shown in the handles, many of them being veritable works of art. There are handles with lovely little miniatures let in at the top, or composed of small pearls forming a design, and handles in gold, others are in painted or enameled enamel or porcelain, in carved ivory in beautifully carved wood, in malachite, not to mention tortoise shell, chased silver and gold; in jade, onyx or other precious stones. The handles are not decorated with either tassels, "choux" or ribbon, but are quite plain.

The cover is made in all kinds of materials. The very rich ones are much embroidered and trimmed with frills and tiny tufts, encrusted with motifs of lace or embroidery, or richly accented to match the long soutache jackets.

The ruffles made in tulle tied at the back of the neck with a large satin bow of the same color as having an enormous volume. This has given rise to a new invention, and we now see large ruffled ruffles in soft liberty or taffetas of the same shade as the costume, or the dominating tone of the hat. These are not tied at the back, but at the side.

Very pretty are the new styles of "Charlotte" hats to be worn with the coming of the summer. Many of them are to be seen already, but at present they are being made in black or dark colors, while later on they will be made in lace and embroidery. They bear no resemblance whatever to the old baby shape of Charlotte. Very full, and with the ruffled crown bunched over a series of lace edged brims, they are finished off with a band of black velvet ribbon so long that it falls almost to the edge of the skirt.

This style of hat is particularly effective if worn with an entire dress dyed in the same shade.

COUNTESS SZECHENYI'S JEWELS REACH HER ADOPTED LAND

Budapest, May 25.—Countess Gladys Szechenyi's jewels have at last arrived here from New York. They were sent in two strong boxes, addressed to Count Ladislau Szechenyi. The customs house valued the larger box at 2,000,000 crowns, the smaller one at 1,000,000 crowns—$600,000 in all. The smaller box contains diamonds only, many of them unmounted.

The jewel caskets are of a highly monumental design and were enclosed in steel boxes lined with purple velvet. One of the younger brothers of Count Ladislau, armed with the latter's power of attorney, examined the jewels in conjunction with the customs people and finally carried them off in an automobile.

They are now deposited with the Szechenyi's local bank, as it would be unsafe to ship them to, or keep them at, Szechenyi's country seat.

For the first time Countess Gladys Vanderbilt Szechenyi's name appears in the real estate records. In conjunction with her husband, Count Ladislau, she has bought the castle and landed estates of Remete-Vagydar from Count Marffy paying $500,000 in cash ($1,000,000). The estates are rich in wood, and the castle is far more lovely than the Szechenyi homestead.

She will rebuild the old residence and make it her country home.

ARE SENATORS' BRAINS ONLY SWEETBREADS?

The President Said So, They Declare—Hence Opposition to His Policies.

Washington, May 25.—President Roosevelt is accused of charging one of the members of the United States senate with having sweetbreads for brains. Whether the president really made the assertion makes no difference. He is reported to the senate as having made the statement, and the senate has been in state almost bordering upon hysteria ever since.

This is the real reason for the recent outbreaks against the president upon the Republican side, and the talk of a conference to administer some sort of rebuke.

The senate was willing to stand almost anything else from the president, but when he took an entire dress of some of the members they decided something should be done.

It is now understood to be only the fact that the public may be in the language of the president was justified in using the language attributed to him that withholds them from extreme action.

North Carolina May Go "Dry."

Charlotte, N. C., May 25.—Whether North Carolina will join the ranks of "dry" states, which now include Maine, Georgia, Oklahoma, Kansas and North Dakota, will be determined by the prohibition election that is being held throughout the state tomorrow. The election followed a spirited campaign that has been in progress ever since the legislature decided upon the election last winter.

MARSHAL GOT DRUNK

Jersey Saloon Keeper Says Executive Had Officer Go Through Window.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 25.—Mayor Joseph Mark of South River, near here, boasted one of his borough marshals through a saloon window on Sunday to get him a drink of whiskey, according to testimony taken in the Middlesex county common pleas here today.

The mayor said he wanted to drink the health of the saloon-keeper's newly arrived baby, and when the proud but discreet father, in lively appreciation of the bishop's law, refused to let Mr. Mark into the barroom in spite of the declarations of the chief magistrate and his friends proceeded to get the liquor by force.

All this came out in the hearing on the application of Joseph Olchefsky for a renewal of his saloon license in South River, before County Judge Booram, who has the license granting power of the whole county, except the cities. A remonstrance against granting the license was filed at the opening of the term, and Olchefsky and his friends say the mayor is responsible for it.

Edward Gardner, upon being called, swore he was a special marshal in South River from September to December last. "One Sunday last October," he said, "while I was patrolling in the vicinity of Mr. Olchefsky's place, I saw the mayor and Mart Herrman go by that place and the mayor told Mrs. Olchefsky they were going to see Mr. Sheek's baby, and when they came back they were going to see hers. Well, a lot of us went to Sheek's and saw the baby, and Mr. Sheek gave us whiskey and cigars. Then the mayor, John Graham, William Sepp, and I went back to Olchefsky's and saw the baby and the mayor asked if we could get something to drink. Mrs. Olchefsky said she didn't have the key to the barroom and her husband was downtown.

"Then it was proposed that I go through the window to the barroom."

"How was the proposal made?" asked Judge E. W. Hicks, who was examining Gardner for the applicant.

"Unanimously, I believe," replied Gardner.

Mayor Mark on the stand denied that he got a drink in the place for any purpose other than obtaining evidence against the place. He denied that he helped Gardner through the window.

Judge Booram granted the Olchefsky application.

CRIME MUSEUM BEING ORGANIZED

Paris Municipal Council Appropriates $4,000 for Collection of Data.

Paris, May 25.—A museum of crime is now being organized by the prefecture of police, the municipal council having voted a credit of 20,000 francs ($4,000) for the purpose. It will be under the direction of M. Bertillon, head of the anthropometric service.

A wing of the Palais de Justice has been set apart for the identification service and the museum, which will contain all the articles and papers remaining in the hands of the police which possess permanent interest, not from the point of view of morbid curiosity, but as studies in crime investigation. The police archives, which date back to 1871, the previous ones having been destroyed during the commune, will be searched through for material for the museum.

There exists already a small museum in the bureau of the head of the department of service, but it has no official standing. The museum will not be open to the public, as it is merely intended to provide elements for study. It will open near the end of the year.

USED RUBBER HOSE TO WHIP A CHILD

Teacher at Wallowa Acquitted of Assault Charge—Undue Severity Alleged.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Enterprise, Or., May 25.—Miss Eva Applegate, a teacher in the public schools at Wallowa, indicted by the grand jury for alleged assault and battery inflicted upon Eliza Workman, one of her pupils, aged about 10 years, was acquitted by a jury in circuit court.

Last November Miss Applegate had occasion to punish the child and in doing so whipped her with a piece of rubber tube about three inches in circumference. Some of the witnesses testified that at least a dozen large welts were made on her lower limb by the whipping and that the child was unable to walk from the effects of the whipping the next day. About six weeks after receiving the whipping the child died from appendicitis and it was claimed the marks of the whipping were still visible at that time.

Change Your "Night-Cap"

Try a dish of delicious, delicate malted-wheat—

with cream or milk just before going to bed and see how peacefully you sleep.

It means stomach comfort. That means tranquil nerves. That means sound, refreshing sleep. The strengthening elements in the whole wheat combined with the soothing tonic of pure barley-malt.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "just as good."
