IN THE SCHOOLS

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., May 26.—Every pupil in the public schools of this state who took the state examination in May had to tell what is meant by Statement No. 1.

That was one of the questions sent pull to all the schools in the state by Superintendent Ackerman and every child who expected to graduate from the eighth grade in the public schools was confronted with that question.

The question was presented in the examination on United States history, which embraces to a certain extent the study of government. Usually 10 questions are propounded, from which the pupils may select any seven or eight. This time however the instructions were explicit: "Select the tenth and any seven of the others."

Following is the tenth question, as every eighth grade pupil in the state ho has taken the state examination in history this month will remember: "(a) What is the direct primary law? (b) What is the direct primary law? (b) What is meant by Statement No. 1.

Who is the choice of sach political party of Orekon for United States senator."

the effect of the Oregon railway commission's order would be in reducing the present distributive rates, and in that manner show whether such reduced rates would still be remunerative to the company. The contention of Portland commercial interests has been, and still is, that the distributive rates are excessive and unjust. The railroad company claims they are only fairly remunerative.

Following out these lines of argument in the various rate cases that have arisen in the Pacific northwest in the last two or three years, attorneys for the state and commercial organizations have placed the railroad attorneys in a position that is now proving embarrassing. The railroad people, in defense of their policies, have gone on record with official statements that the transcontinental rates on merchandise westbeund to Portland and other tidewater terminals are already so low as to be unremunerative, because of water competition. They have also shown that the rates eastbound on Pacific coast lumber products are unprofitable and have attempted to raise these rates as they say, in order that the railroad companies can pay the expense of hauling the lumber.

Surplus in Spite of All. In the face of these recorded asseverations, they have piled up a huge surplus in the treasury, besides paying for an immense amount of track improvements, and some extensions, all paid for out of the receipts from freight and passenger business over the O. R. & N. lines.

WHY LOWELL IS FOR REPUBLICAN SENATOR

(Specia! Dispatch to The Journal.) The Dalles, Or., May 26,-Stephen A Lowell of Pendleton spoke last evening at the opera house to a small audience on reasons why a Republican should be sent to the United States senate from Oregon. He argued the advantages of belonging to the party in the finajority, as it controlled all the committees. He attacked the arguments obtained by Governor Chamberiain wherein the governor had cited instances of Democrats securing large appropriations for their states. He appropriations for their states, He appropriations for their states, He also regulation of railroads. He said also regulation of railroads. He said structured in the governor beautiful that argued that a Republican senator would be for the best interests of the state.

A movment is under way in Vancouver, B. C., for the couver, B. C., fo said this was due to other states being included in the measure. He referred to appropriations secured for public to appropriations secured for public buildings, the harbor of Galveston and the mouth of the Mississippi river. Further, he said, a Republican should be sent on account of Republican principles such as those relating to the fariff and the Philippines, while a strong central government was needed, also regulation of railroads. He said principle should prevail over personality. He did not attack the governor but argued that a Republican senator would be for the best interests of the state.
