STOPS AT ROCK TO LEAVE NEWS

Steamer Alliance Delivers Papers to Isolated Light-house Keepers.

HAS STORMY RUN FROM COO'S BAY

Captain Olson Says Northwesters Blew So Hard at Times That it Was Difficult to Keep Under Headway—Breakwater Sails.

On her way up from Coos Bay the steamer Alliance stopped at Tillamook Rock and threw a lot of newspapers to the keepers, who seldom have the opportunity to get the world's news excepting when a kind hearted and thoughtful mariner takes the notion to toss them a little reading matter. Captain Olson of the Alliance says the men had heard nothing from the outside world for several weeks, and they were therefore anxious to get whatever reading matter was available on the coast.

TORPEDO BOATS BUCK SEAS.

Flotilla Should Reach River by Tomorrow at the Latest.

A mine driver was put to work this morning at the foot of Stark street to drive dolphins to which the slip will be moored. Two new floats have been built to extend from the old floating slip and pontoon to the board walk that was laid up the incline yesterday.

TUG DAUNTLESS ENGAGED.

British Logging Company Will Soon Send Log Raft to Sea.

The Benson Logging company has chartered the tug Dauntless of San Francisco to tow its log rafts from Stella, on the Columbia, to San Diego this summer. The raft will be sent to sea about the first of June. The company has three rafts ready to be towed away, and has another one being constructed and sent south this summer, although the intention at first was to send only four.

CHARTERED FOR LUMBER.

J. J. Moore & Co. have chartered the British steamer Dulwich to load lumber at this point for Australia, and she is expected to arrive here in a couple of weeks from Guaymas, Mexico. The Dulwich was here several months ago. She is smaller than the average tramp steamer coming here in the lumber trade, her capacity being only about 2,500,000 feet, whereas the ordinary tramp carries away close to 3,500,000 feet.

MAIL CARRIERS WILL CONVE

Rural Route Men of State to Hold Sixth Annual Meeting in Albany.

Tomorrow Albany will entertain the men who deliver letters and newspapers to the people of Oregon. The Oregon Rural Letter Carriers' association will hold its sixth annual convention in M. W. of A. hall, and at the county convention. There will be band concert, street parade, and refreshments interspersed with the sessions. The convention will open with an informal reception Friday evening at Woodmen hall, where J. S. VanWinkle will give an address of welcome, and William H. Boyd, first vice-president of the association, will respond. Professor Kendall will contribute a reading, and there will be quartet music. The regular sessions will open Saturday morning. Tom Richardson, manager of the Portland Commercial club, will give an address on "Organization." Bury L. Dasset, manager of the Albany Commercial club, will talk on a selected topic. An address on financing the association will be given by Alfred C. Schmidt, state president of the Y. M. C. A. The use of and expense of operation of the motor cycle in mail carrying will be discussed by R. G. Allen of Silverton, and a demonstration of use of the vehicle will be given during the day.

CALIFORNIA PIONEER PASSES AWAY IN EAST

(United Press Lined Wire.)
Washington, May 22.—Another California pioneer of the days of '49 has passed away in the death of Levi Hanford, who, for more than a quarter of a century, had been a clerk in the pension bureau. He was 86 years old and the father of Charles B. Hanford, the actor. On the ship Orpheus, Hanford sailed for California on January 1, 1849. He went around Cape Horn, arriving at San Francisco on July 2. After accumulating a small fortune as a placer miner at Amador, he opened a store there with Robert C. Downs as a partner. Prospecting, the firm took over stores at camps at Sutter Creek, Upper and Lower Rancheros and Volcano. Twenty years later he returned to the east, and since 1883 had been in the government's service.

Unattila Pioneers Meet.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Weston, Or., May 22.—The thirtieth annual reunion of Unattila county pioneers began here today, and it will continue through Saturday. Unattila is a political day, which is being looked forward to as a very important feature. Prominent speakers will be here from all parts of the state, among them being Hon. H. M. Calk. Today nearly 100 pioneers sat down to a grand banquet prepared for them by the Women's Civic Improvement league of this place.
