OLYMPIC CANDIDATES TAKE WORLD'S RECORD

GILBERT BEST WORLD'S VAULTER

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—Superb work was done by the candidates for the American team that is to be sent to the Olympic meet in the tryout contests on Franklin field here today. No less than six world's records fell by the wayside, while the marks made in all the other events were excellent, to say the least. No one can have any doubt now that they will be fitly represented at the coming world's championships.

Five of the records were Olympic, and it was almost a foregone conclusion that they would be eclipsed. But few expected one of the old-time hard marks, such as in the pole vault, would go. In this event A. C. Gilbert of Yale, A Portland, Oregon, boy, got over the marvelous height of 12 feet 7¾ inches, beating the world's record of his college mate Dray by 1¾ inches. Dray tied with Nelson, another Yale man, at 12 feet 7 inches. This was the greatest performance of the day.

The meeting was replete with surprises. The greatest came in the 100 meter event when Lawson Robertson of the Irish-American Athletic club beat the southern flyer, Rector, by a yard in 11 seconds. Rector, who has been credited with 9 2-5 seconds for 100 yards, took his heat in 10 4-5, equaling the world's record for 100 meters. In the final affair a false start caused him to be penalized a yard. He got off like the wind and drew even with Robertson at 75 meters. Then the Irishman pulled away.

Forced to the Limit.

Shepherd smashed the record for 800 meters after a fearful race. He won five yards from J. Bromlow, but it was Sheehan of Boston who forced him to the limit for two thirds of the contest. Bacon got a record in the 400 meters hurdle, beating Hillman out after the last jump had been cleared.

Sheridan was beaten in the discus throw by Dearborn of the New York Athletic club. The latter made a toss of 139 feet, 11 inches. Sheridan threw 139 feet 6½ inches. Both excelled the former world's figures. Sheridan turned the tables by winning the discus throw, Athens style, with a toss of 116 feet, 7½ inches.

J. B. Taylor had the race of his life in the 400-meter, only beating Atlee of Princeton by three inches. Halsted of Cornell smashed the record for 150 meters by 4 1-5 seconds. In the absence of Shaw of Dartmouth, Howe of Yale easily won the high hurdles.

Dan Kelly Out of It.

Dan Kelly did not take part in either the broad jump or the 100-meter contest, owing to a recent strain. He would have had a hard time in the broad jump, which was won by Cooke of Cornell with a jump of 23 feet 2½ inches.

Eisele, of New York Athletic club, won the 3,200-meter race by a lap. Cartmell, of Pennsylvania, landed the 200-meter contest in fast time. Ewry, of the New York Athletic club, won both standing jump contests.

Porter, of the Irish club, took the high jump with a fine leap of 6 feet 3 inches. Coe won the shot put with 45 feet, 5 inches. Platt Adams was another double winner, taking the javelin and hop, step and jump contests. Talbot, of Cornell, won the hammer throw, with a toss of 166 feet, 9 inches.

HARDY'S PUZZLERS BEWILDER SEALDOM

Oaks Move Up in Percentage Column by Winning Easy Game.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

San Francisco, June 6.—At Recreation park today the Oaks won the game from the Seals by a score of 9 to 1. The batting of the Oaks came in bunches and was the feature. The San Franciscoans got away with a few bingles but they were scattered too widely to be effective.

Hardy pitched a fast game for Oakland and to him is probably due the credit for the victory. He had splendid control and had it not been for a bad throw in the first he would have probably blanked the Seals. Jones was in the box for San Francisco, but the Oaklanders slugged him early and often.

FREEWATER-MILTON FIGHT THROWN OUT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Or., June 6.—The Freewater-Milton school district fight was thrown out of court today as it was discovered that both carried bonded indebtedness. They had been fighting for years for separate districts. Freewater, it seemed, was about to win out and have a slice of Milton district added, when the discovery was made. Both sides were represented by attorneys today.

Forrest Smithson, the national hurdling champion, who would have lowered the world's 120-yard high hurdle yesterday under favorable track conditions. He topped the sticks in 15 2-5 seconds, being compelled to come almost to a stop after he had finished the last hurdle so sharp was the turn to the finishing line. He knocked down the second hurdle and the new coast time will not stand as a record.

FRISCO ON EDGE FOR BIG FIGHT

Freddie Welch May Meet Packy McFarland in Sam Berger's Place.

WINNER TO MEET BAT NELSON OR JOE GANS

But Two Stars Will Remain After Quartet Finishes Its Scraps and World Will Soon Know Who Real Champion Is.

By Will J. Slattery.

San Francisco, June 6.—The fight fans of San Francisco will have their first look at Freddie Welch, the English boxer in action on the evening of June 24, when he goes against Packey McFarland of Chicago in a 20 round bout before Sam Berger's Occidental club. Billy Nolan, Bat Nelson's old time manager, is responsible for the match. He invaded Chicago at the eleventh hour just when Jeffries had all but clinched the McFarland-Welch mill for his Los Angeles club on July 4 and beat the great champion to it. Now there is weeping and gnashing of teeth in the southland, and big Jeff is vowing vengeance on the local fight promoters.

Berger had all but given up hope of landing a live card till Nolan went to the bat for him. The boy promoter was stalling around and passing out conversation and falling down right along, and finally as a dying effort to do some good for himself he appealed to Nolan. The latter must have stung Sam for a good sized fee, but at all events, he went right on to Chicago, and before he had been there 24 hours he made the match and everything was lovely for the local fight trust.

• •

Welch invaded Los Angeles on Decoration day and entered the ring with Phil Brock of Cleveland in a 25 round mixup. Phil was known as an awful tough nut in the south, and consequently, the fans went to him strong and made him a 2 to 1 favorite over the Britisher. But what Welch did to Brock was something terrible. For 20 rounds he danced around and peppered the Cleveland whirlwind at will. In the last five rounds the little Briton fought Brock at his own game and nearly murdered him. He was the class all the time, and since that time the Los Angeles fans declare that he is the best lightweight they ever saw, barring Joe Gans.

Welch and McFarland hooked up at Milwaukee last winter in a 10 round go, and the Chicago lad was awarded the decision after one of the liveliest mills that the beer town ever knew. The verdict, however, did not meet with popular approval. The sports of the middle west all agreed that the worst Welch should have received was a draw. He was fighting all the time, and proved a far more clever man than McFarland. It was his first start in this country, and he did not have anybody to go to the bat very strong for him, and therefore it looks as though he got a shade the worst of the deal.

• •

The winner of the McFarland-Welch affair will undoubtedly be matched to meet the man who emerges victorious from the Gans-Nelson set-to at the Mission street arena on July 4. It has come to a point now where the light weight class is about played out, and when the next two mills have been settled there will remain but two stars who really have a license to lay any claim to the championship title. Naturally the public will be anxious to see them in action, and as there will be a barrel of coin in sight for the meeting, the fighters are not at all liable to overlook a live bet. As San Francisco is the place for the money in the fight game at the present time, all indications point to the great mill being pulled off here, probably on admission day, September 9, one of the greatest holidays in the state.

For the month of July the local sports have a tempting looking match in store for them if Abe Attell and Owen Moran, the British featherweight champion, can be brought together. The wily Abe is now on his way to New York to get hold of Moran and induce him to sign up for the meeting. Moran is expected to arrive from the other side of the pond within the next few days, and he likely will see his way clear to take another flyer at the little Hebrew.

Attell and Moran furnished a grand 25 round exhibition here on New Year's day. It resulted in a draw, but proved to be one of the best mills that has been brought off here since the recent disaster. Moran went in at 120 pounds, and was weak at the weight. He vowed that he would never fight so low again, and Attell, evidently fearful of the little fellow's prowess, said that he would have to make this weight if he wanted a return match.

Moran went back to England shortly after, and since then Abe has been thinking the matter over very seriously, and has finally come to the conclusion that the only way to get another crack at Moran is to allow him two more pounds. Realizing that there will be a lot of money in sight, Abe has at last come off his high horse, and now if Moran is willing to take the chance, he can come in against Attell at 122 pounds.

There is no question but that Attell is one of the greatest little fighters the American ring has ever seen. He is certainly the king pin of them all since the passing of the only George Dixon. During the last six months, Attell has been taking on all comers, most of them lightweights, and the only men who were able to make any showing against him were Moran and Battling Nelson, who outweighed him 10 pounds. Now Nelson is hooked up with Gans, so there is nobody in Attell's class outside of Moran. The battle between the pair should determine once and for all who is the greatest little fighter in the prize ring today.

• •

Now that he has grabbed off the last golden egg that the little hen will lay for him around San Francisco, James Edward Britt has kindly consented to retire from the ring here, and while away his time in travel. In a couple of weeks, James will beat it to Europe. Once there he will stroll around the leading cities, take the waters at the various health resorts and hobnob with the few stray king and princes who may happen to cross his path.

It is coming nice and soft for James. Since turning professional fighter about seven years ago, he has cleaned up, saved and invested something like $100,000. Most of this is invested in San Francisco realty, which brings the ring champion an income of several hundred dollars each month. All he has to do is to stick around with a look of wisdom on his face and watch his collectors gather in the rents. He is after a good time now, and as he is there with a few stray thousand, he argues that he may as well make the sail over the water and get the lay of the European land.

While James claims that his trip is for pleasure exclusively it looks as though he may turn a few soft pounds or francs while on the other side. The recent triumphs achieved by Tommy Burns and Sam McVey, the Yankee heavies have caused James Edward to sit up and take notice. He figures that if the big fellows in Europe are so handy to trim, there must be a few lightweights who will prove easy money. Therefore, it will not be at all surprising if the news of Britt's sucker victories comes flashing over the wires a couple of weeks after he sets foot upon European soil.

• •

The local baseball fans are all awaiting the return of the Portland ball team to this city. The way the Beavers have been trimming the California nines within the past few weeks has made them great favorites with the admirers of the game here, and they figure to break all attendance records when they come back next week.

The fans have seen so much of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland for the last six weeks that they are actually tired of gazing upon the same faces from one week to the other, and then the results of the games have been about the same. Both the Angels and the Seals invariably trim the Commuters every time they hook up. Oakland seems to have about reached the end of its string for the present time at least, and unless the team takes a sudden brace and shows a bit of speed against the others it will be out of the running for fair.

The Seals are all hollering hard luck since their return from the north. Each man on the team declares that he never heard of any ball team losing so many extra inning games as the Seals did to the Beavers. The local boys have a whole lot of respect for the Portland pitching staff now. They claim it is the pitchers and not the heavy hitters who are keeping McCredie's gang right on top. Be that as it may, Portland is winning the games, and this is what counts more than anything else in the world of baseball.

• •

Rough house tactics are beginning to make themselves felt in the state league, and unless some sort of discipline is soon brought into effect, the league likely will be killed off by the hoodlums. On Decoration day at Stockton, Bill Devereaux started a riot by making a pass at Umpire Jack Flynn after a close decision. In a moment the entire field was in an uproar, and Sheriff Sibley had to interfere in order to preserve order. The umpire put so many of Devereaux's Santa Cruz players off the field that the team did not have enough men to continue the game and thereby lost it by default.

"If you want to, dear," replied her mother. "But why do you want it to rain?"

"Annie Uppson is going to have a lawn party and I wasn't invited," explained Susan.

WHITMAN MAN WINS

One of the men who helped Multnomah win the meet yesterday by an overwhelming majority was George Philbrook, the Whitman athlete. Philbrook fell across a hurdle in the short hurdle race and did not finish. But he captured second place in the discus and shot put. He holds the coast record in the discus, but was off color yesterday.
