

GREAT CROP OF WHEAT EXPECTED

Fall Grain Heading Out in Walla Walla Section—Need More Men.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Walla Walla, Wash., June 10.—Fall wheat is heading out all over the valley and farmers are beginning to think seriously of harvest and its many problems. Usually harvest begins about July 4, but this year a delay will occur unless warm weather ripens the grain too fast. Already the fields are waist-high and the heads are appearing above the boot, where fall grain has had a good chance, and in grain that the growth has been phenomenal since the rains of last week. Everywhere prospects are much better than they were two years ago.

More Men Needed.

From 1,500 to 2,000 men from outside this valley will be needed to harvest the crop during July and August, and just where the men are to come from is the problem that farmers are trying to solve. Usually farmers from the Palouse, miners from Idaho and homesteaders from the newly settled districts make up most of the large number of men who come and stay through the season, but this year the report is that men are short in the mining sections because of the closing down of the mines last fall, and the harvest in the Palouse will be nearly as early as that in this section, while usually there is about a month difference in the time of ripened grain. There is but little reason to fear a shortage from the sections where men are building homes on government land, but the two other sources are sure to be short of the usual number of men supplied.

Like Harvest Work.

On the coast there are idle men, left without employment by the closing down of mills and by the discontinuance of work on buildings and streets, but it has been the experience here that sawmill men seldom come to the harvest fields and work satisfactorily. Miners seem to enjoy the change from underground to surface work, even with the increased difficulty, and many of them increase in weight and recuperate perfectly in the grain fields of Washington and Oregon. While the hours are long, the wages are correspondingly high. Men usually draw from $1.50 to $2 a day, with board, and lodging is always provided in tents and in strawstacks, which furnish open air enough to cure tuberculosis in one season. The industrious harvest hand leaves the harvest field with a few dollars in his pocket, as he has practically no expense from the day he starts work until he leaves the harvest field. The independent hand always spends his money in riotous living as fast as he earns it, or a trifle faster, if the "boss" will advance the cost.

Labor Question Solved.

Last year, in order to secure men, free employment offices were opened in this city, where men could secure employment and be taken to the country without delay or expense. The plan proved successful but expensive and it is doubtful if the same plan will be adopted this year. The Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union is planning to solve the problem this year, and perhaps a new idea will be evolved in time to try it out well this season. In handling the sack problem and in many other ways the union has been successful and the result of its efforts in controlling the labor situation will be weighed closely by farmers all over the northwest.

FIRST SENIORS OF KALAMA SCHOOLS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Kalama, Wash., June 10.—The Kalama public schools were brought to most successful close Friday evening, when the first senior class was graduated from the high school. The class, which consists of two girls, Miss Myrtle Schulz and Miss Ethel Goerig, is a very strong one, and the work done by each is of the highest order. Dr. Albert Hatten of Whitman college delivered the address. His topic was "Education the Best Defense of the Nation." A reception was tendered the graduates, and also to the eighth grade graduates, who had their exercises Thursday evening. The eighth grade stands at the head of that grade in the county, as it was the only class all of whose members were successful in passing the state examinations. Professor Ernest Crowe, the principal, after a most successful year's work, will leave the profession to enter the realty business at Spokane. He has been one of the most prominent principals of the county.

COMPANY BLAMED FOR CAR SMASH

Railroad Commissioners at the Scene of Troutdale Traction Wreck.

(Special Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., June 10.—Railroad Commissioners Clyde E. Aitchison and Thomas K. Campbell, after visiting the scene of the wreck of June 2 on the Troutdale division of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company's line, have prepared a report of their findings and placed them on record. The company is found generally to blame, while the motorman is excused.

On Tuesday, June 2, a car with four passengers plunged over an embankment from going over the tracks at Troutdale. The car was under the control of a motorman who had not been over the line before, and who did not know where the end of the track was until he was within 200 feet of it and going at a rate of 15 miles an hour. All efforts to stop the car were in vain and the four passengers and the conductor were injured.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Nampa, Idaho, June 10.—The Nampa ferryboat on Snake river capsized yesterday evening while attempting to cross with a load of cattle for Adam E. Hart, who was driving the cattle. The ferryman, M. H. Brown, was thrown into the water in mid-stream and narrowly escaped drowning by catching hold of the boat gate. Three other men clung to the boat and were saved. One of the 30 head of cattle was drowned. The boat was carried down the river two miles and drifted into the great of men are busy being in the boat back, and it is probable that traffic at that crossing may be resumed tomorrow.

The eastern Washington hospital admitted 18 new patients and now has an enrollment of 417. The daily average number of convicts at the Walla Walla penitentiary was 94. The penitentiary late mill manufactured 173,656 grain bags and 191,758 yards of burlap.

MARION'S VOTE ON MEASURES

Some Comparisons Made and Especially of Sundry Related Propositions.

Salem, June 10.—While Marion county turned down the university appropriation by a plurality of 2,518, at the same time the voters of this county declared themselves in favor of keeping all the state institutions at the seat of government, which is Salem, by the decisive plurality of 3,070. The official count on the amendments has been completed, and shows some peculiar workings of the popular legislative principle.

A measure that was hit hard by Marion county voters was that which provided for increasing the number of justices of the supreme court. The majority against was 4,127. Judge Burnett of the Marion county circuit court is probably responsible, because he took so decided a stand against the bill in the public press. At the same time Judge Burnett just as strongly opposed the measure proposing to take the power from the district attorney that now enables him to sit as a grand jury, and that measure carried in Marion county by a majority vote in favor of it of 222.

The bill that had the narrowest escape was the upper river salmon bill, which carried this county by only 93 majority. The other fish bill carried by a majority of 1,063. Proportional representation carried by only 187, the result by 425 and the corrupt practice act by 225. The measure instructing legislators to vote always for the people's choice for United States senator was carried by a majority of 2,720. The measure changing the June election to November was carried by a majority of 2,446. The measure giving the care of county prisoners to the sheriff carried by 1,047. The armory bill was lost by a majority

Wicked City Gasps When Mrs. Clarence Mackay Lights Cigarette.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Reno, June 10.—Wicked, wicked Reno was so shocked it could hardly eat breakfast today, and the thrills came from one of the tenderest tenderfoots that ever got within a mile of Commercial street, Mrs. Clarence Mackay, member of the "400," who resides in New York, London and other world capitals.

The excitement is the result of Mrs. Mackay's "brass" action in smoking a cigarette in the presence of men at a banquet given last evening in honor of her husband by the upper social set of the city.

When the time came for the men to smoke, Mrs. Mackay calmly lighted her cigarette and complacently puffed it, while the ladies of Reno sat stiff and astounded.
