AWFUL WALLOP IS HANDED TO HARDY

Beavers Make Everything in Hit Category—Rafferty's Fielding a Feature.

Oh, Rafferty, you noble son of Dea, old Boston, Mass. Come to our arms, we everyone Would kiss you ere you pass. —Irish giggle.

Home run, triple, double and single, the whole gamut of the batting ladder, was the awful record that confronted Pitcher Hardy, the Oakland slabster, after the Beavers were finally brought to in the biggest slaughter enacted at Vaught street in years. Every man in a white uniform unlimbered on one of Hardy's slants and when they didn't swing they trotted backward anyhow, through the generosity of the pitcher.

Fourteen runs off 13 hits and 10 bases on balls is a phantom which will haunt Hardy for the rest of his days. Kinsella outkicked the Oaklander and allowed but two runs, although the bunch from across the bay biffed him for nine bluffs.

The stand was filled with femininity and this probably spurred the home guard to do its best. While the game was interesting from the point of clean baseball there were enough features in Danzig's home run, Cooney's triple, the three doubles by Kinsella, Johnson and Madden, the lightning double play by Rafferty's great catches in the center garden to keep the crowd on edge.

Hardy got off wrong at the outset. After retiring Ryan by holding a grounder to Danzig, he walked Rafferty, who promptly stole second base. Both were brought in by Danzig's sacrifice and Cooney's triple. The center garden in the open space between the lower and upper sections of the right field fence. Rafferty's trick of stealing second on the astute Mr. Slattery. He scored on Tom Madden's single.

Portland was cyphered successfully until the fifth inning. Then Danzig walked, went to second on Bassey's sacrifice, stole third and scored along with Ote Johnson, who had been given a free pass, when Cooney tripled to deep center. Cooney is trying to stretch the hit into a four-bagger was caught at the plate on a swift relay from Van Halgren to Esagian to Slattery.

Portland put another quartet over in the seventh, McCredie, Bassey, Cooney and Madden scoring on four singles, sacrifice and Kinsella's double. The same number of runs resulted in the eighth when Rafferty, Bassey, Johnson and Cooney went across the plate on a single, a pass and two two-baggers.

Oakland made its first run in the third inning. Altman singled, went to second on Cook's infield out, to third on Hardy's hit and scored on Haley's single. Slattery made the other score in the fourth on his own single and hits by Hogan and Cook.

The score:

Portland was cyphered successfully until the fifth inning. Then Danzig walked, went to second on Bassey's sacrifice, stole third and scored along with Ote Johnson, who had been given a free pass, when Cooney tripled to deep center. Cooney is trying to stretch the hit into a four-bagger was caught at the plate on a swift relay from Van Halgren to Esagian to Slattery.

Portland is nothing if not cosmopolitan, and that the Rose City should have a cosmopolitan baseball team is fitting and proper. There are descendants of the Celts, the Teutons, the Norsemen and even the red man of America in this league, but it remained for Manager McCredie to import a player whose blood tingles with his Roman ancestry. John Bassey, whose nickname is "Marquise," was born in New York, but Bassey's pere was a native of the realm ruled by Victor Emmanuel.

Bassey has made a wonderful showing this season. He has clearly earned the right to the title of best left fielder in the league. He is a terror with the stick, leaning harder on the ball than any man on the coast. His legs are shorter than any other player, but he can cover ground like a hare.

While the sea was surging through Helgate and the bleak blasts were whistling over Manhattan island in the gray dawn of November 13, 1884, the stork alighted upon the Bassey household. "It's a boy," announced, Dr. Large, who attended.

Well, events moved rapidly for young Bassey and the first thing Gotham knew he was playing a star game on one of the crack amateur teams around the metropolis. Then he moved to St. Louis and put in his spare moments with the semi-pros. His first professional engagement was with the Springfield team in the Missouri valley league in 1897. The next year he went to Boone, Iowa, in the Iowa state league. Then Omaha took hold of him by purchase in 1905 and he remained there twenty-four rounds.

Thinks He Saved His Life. Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think I saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would go no more without a bottle than I would without food. For nearly 40 years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at Rikind's Drug Company, 1111 Broadway, New York, and all first-class drug stores. Use and it will save your life."

Young Corbett has surprised his friends by announcing his intention of reentering the ring. He is now getting himself into condition and is confident that he can train up well enough to beat the present crop of lightweights.

FEE DOLLARS TO SEND MAN ABROAD

Fund to Send Forrest Smithson to London to Hurdle Inadequate.

Outside of $200 raised among members of the Multnomah club, nothing has been contributed by the business men of Portland toward defraying the expenses of Forrest Smithson, national hurdling champion, to London this month. Edward E. Morgan, who is directing the athletic affairs of the Multnomah club and the Amateur Athletic union in Portland, addressed cards to several hundred Portland business men several weeks ago, but with one exception there was no response. Being occupied with the P. N. A. games, Mr. Morgan was unable to make a personal canvass for funds to defray expenses.

San Francisco has sent over $700 to the fund to send the American team abroad and is raising more to assist in the big enterprise. Several cities on the coast which have no representation are raising money for the proposition.

Two years ago when Bert Kerrigan went from Portland to Athens, local business men subscribed $1,000 for his expenses toward Smithson's trip as they can possibly do in view of the heavy expense incident to the reconstruction of the athletic field.

Smithson will leave for the east about the 19th or 20th and will be ready to sail with the American squad on June 25.

SQUEEZE PLAYS.

Rafferty's long, one-handed catch yesterday provoked more applause than has been heard at Vaught street for many summers.

Danzig gets a new pair of kicks and a new lid. This ought to prove an incentive for more homers since he has tasted the benefits.

If the slaughter of the Oak slabsters continues throughout the week every one of the Beavers will be batting in the 300 class.

Inside ball is not new with the home talent any more. They have played more of this article than any team seen on the field.

Oakland closes Sunday afternoon and both teams will go south to Oakland to fight the Beavers. They will not be seen again until July 7, when Frisco opens for two weeks.

WEST SIDE LOOKS WINNER ON TRACK

Crack Athletes Certain of Enough Firsts to Cinch School Pennant.

Saturday afternoon the long delayed interscholastic track meet will be held on Multnomah field. The meet was due to come off Saturday, May 31, but was put off time and again owing to the work being done on Multnomah field. But Saturday things will hum.

Five and possibly six schools will be entered in the meet. West Side High, East Side High, Portland academy, Columbia university, Hill Military academy and possibly Allen Preparatory school will be entered. This will make somewhere in the neighborhood of 100 young athletes competing for the places.

On past records West Side High school should win first place, with either Portland academy or Columbia second. West Side has a number of strong men on her team, all of whom can be counted upon as point winners.

Dart in the 100, McGuire in the high jump and high hurdles, Latourette in the low hurdles and Meier in the 440—all have a cinch on the first place while Meier is good for second place in the 100 and third in the 220. Latourette will be good for second in the high hurdles.

Big Jack Hickson may prove a surprise to the other teams and take first place in the 400 yard dash, but to do so will have to do some tall jumping. Then Jamison is to be figured on in the pole vault and high jump. Olsen and Turfa in the distance and Starker and Runyon in the weights.

With five firsts and the large number of second and third places which they expect to carry off, West Side should be able to make at least 51 points. This will easily carry the meet. Columbia and Portland academy should have a hard fight for second place with the winning team having about two points the better of the other. Hill and East Side high will make but little. Graham and Huston are practically the only point winners which Hill has, while Munley may win a point or two for East Side.

CANBY MAKING GREAT PLANS FOR RACE TRACK

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Canby, Or., June 11.—Definite plans have been made for the construction of a half mile race track at Canby by the Clackamas County Fair association, which will hold its second annual exhibition here next fall.

Secretary T. J. Gary of the fair association was in Canby today with specifications for the track, which will be laid out in the next few weeks. The course will occupy a level piece of land on the West tract, which has been tenanted by the fair association. A large grandstand will be constructed and an effort will be made to make this the chief racing center of the state.

On account of the peculiar quality of Canby soil, races can be carried on here at any season of the year. The ground is firm and compact, and by a natural drainage it can be used after the heaviest rains. The tract is near the Willamette and boat landing on the Rajahamette river. A beautiful forest joins the tract, which is crossed by a fine, perennial stream, affording an abundance of good water. The location is 23 miles from Portland and commands a fine view of Mount Hood and the Cascade range.

SMITH WILL WRESTLE SCHOLTES NEXT WEEK

Stranger Smith will meet William Scholtes of The Dalles in Hood River, June 16. His broken hand has been bothering him considerably, but he believes that he will be able to throw Scholtes three out of five falls, regardless of the number of falls. Smith will wrestle Scholtes in Astoria, provided he loses to the Dalles champion at Hood River. Should he succeed in tipping the east Oregonian it will be their last match.

Frank Kelly, boxing instructor at the local Y. M. C. A., will accompany Smith on the trip, meeting all corners at 155 pounds.

HAYWARD MAY HOLD LAST CLASS MEET

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) University of Oregon, Eugene, June 11.—At the request of several of the track men, Hayward has decided to hold an intercollegiate track meet next Saturday if enough men will enter to make it interesting. If it is given it will break the monotony of examination time and will prove a great relief to all.

Next week a force of men will be put to work plowing the football field up in order that it may be gotten into the best of condition early next fall, as practice will begin as soon as the men return to college.

OREGON'S PROSPECTS

For prosperity has never before been so bright as it is at the present time, and in order to enjoy it, you must have good health, which means good digestion, good nerves, refreshing sleep at night, good eyes, every organ of the body performing its functions as it should, but if anything is wrong, you fall to be able to GET UP AND HURDLE, as you have no ambition, you get up tired, your brain is dull, your work in the house and at the office is anything but pleasant, therefore
