PORTLAND MAN DELIVERS SPEECH. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Chicago, Ill., June 12.—J. P. Pilkington of Portland addressed the Nursery-men's convention at Milwaukee today.

It is rapidly becoming quite generally understood that there is a tremendous difference in the quality and actual value of musical instruments.

There is probably not an article manufactured about the actual value of which the great mass of people has been less informed, than about pianos.

Under the claim that it was "mis-shipped" it was offered "at half price," $250, delivered in Idaho.

Upon investigation at Eilers Piano House it was found that such instruments did not cost within $120 of the amount stated.

Other instances have been brought to the notice of Eilers Piano House, where pianos bearing the names of makers, practically unknown, were offered at "wholesale cost" for over $240.

A piano of magnificent design was found at Eilers Piano House brand new, for $156, which in every point far exceeded the kind these people were asked "wholesale cost," or $240 for.

It is a fact that the so-called $225 styles of new pianos which are found at Eilers Piano House for $125 were deemed by all callers every bit as good as the kind offered in the "at cost" sales for $237.50.

We are positive that instruments regularly sold by Eilers Piano House for $137 or $148, according to case, are superior to any $127.50 "at cost" proposition that may be obtainable elsewhere.

For fear of being misunderstood, let us say it again: We deny no one the right to do a straightforward honorable business. But we shall certainly defend Portland and our own state from being made the dumping ground for all kinds of more or less obscure makes of pianos at big prices, under the plea that they are to be had "at cost."
