Beavers Kill Ball and Take Easy Game From Van's Team.

"Curses on them," muttered Pop,
"Will those Beavers never stop?
They have hounded me, begob,
Till I feel just like a lob."
Then stroked he his scrawny 'stache
In pensive thought of winter hash.
—Pangle's Pange.

After having struggled faithfully for six weeks, during which they won 20 out of 28 games, the Beavers yesterday stepped to the head of the percentage column by their defeat of the Oakland crew, 5 to 1. Just six weeks ago today Manager McCredie's men came north, occupying the cellar, a very poor fourth in the running. Today they are on their way south again 19 points to the good and with an aggregation that will probably never be headed again in the race.

Getaway day brought out a crowd that filled the grandstand and bleachers and surged out onto the left side of the field. The game itself was the best of the series. Bingles were pretty scarce but those of the home guard were prolific. Four-swats netted the Beavers 10 bases, Raftery and Johnson pocking out triples and Cooney and Johnson sneaking over a couple of doubles.

Outside of the hard hitting of the local talent, the great running catch of Pop Van Haltren in center field was the feature. Had Happy Hogan of the Angels heard the demonstration when Van Haltren came in he would get down on his knees and beg Portland's pardon for that roast he handed out down south. Hap never did anything to merit applause on this diamond. But Van made a great catch.

With three men on bases Ote Johnson leaned on a Hopkins slant that soared toward center with terrific velocity. Both Cook and Pop scooted after it. After a long run during which he raced parallel with the horsehide Pop gathered it in. It looked for all the world like a three-bagger and might have been stretched into a home run.

Johnson All the Candy.

Johnson was the candy kid with the ash. If Johnson had been criticised for his poor hitting qualities previous to yesterday's game, his critics were willing to retract everything unkind they ever said about the Viking. He hit like a fiend and had not Van butted in at the psychological moment he would have gone south with the record for long hits in a single game.

Two of our scores came with the opener. Cooney was walked and stole second and Buddy Ryan bunted safely, putting Cooney on third. With matters in this state Smiling Tom Raftery stepped to the plate and swatted out a three bagger. But the Bostonian himself died where he landed.

In the second inning Oakland got busy. Truck Eagan ripped off a double. Truck reached third on Slattery's single and scored on Kinsella's wild pitch, Slats going to third. Altman connected safely, scoring Slattery.

With the score tied in Oakland's half of the second Ote Johnson came up. He punched the first ball delivered square on the snout, sending it to the boards in deep center. While Haley and Van Haltren were frantically trying to dig it out from under the fence Ote got to third. Cook shot the ball to Altman but it went through the third baseman's hands and Ote romped home. This quick circuit cinched the game for the locals.

Johnson also put over the other two runs Portland made in the fifth. Danzig was safe on a fielder's choice, when Eagan erred in trying to catch McCredie at second base. Bassey drew a quartet of wide ones and both men scored on Johnson's corking two bagger.

The score:

Gilbert Loses Record.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Danbury, Conn., June 15.—A new record for the pole vault was established Saturday by W. R. Dray, of Yale, who cleared the bar at 12 feet 9¾ inches. The record was made at a meeting held under the auspices of the Danbury Gymnasium association. A. C. Gilbert of Yale held the former record at 12 feet 7¾ inches.

GRILLEY LEARNS WAY OF THE EAST

Saw Gilbert Break World's Pole Vaulting Record at Philadelphia Games.

Despite a few reports to the contrary, Physical Director Grilley of the Y. M. C. A. declared yesterday that he had it on the excellent authority of Coach Stagg that both Kelly and Smithson would cross over to the Olympic games. Mr. Grilley made a brief stop in the city yesterday, being en route to the conference held at Long Beach, Wash., of the northwestern physical directors. Despite the arduous attendance required at the conference at Atlantic City, N. J., Mr. Grilley was able to see the try-outs on Franklin field, Philadelphia, and spoke enthusiastically of the performance made by a Portland boy, A. C. Gilbert, in breaking the world's record with a pole-vault of 12 feet 7¾ inches, as the jump was found to be when measured with the aid of a tape and spirit level. Kelly just warmed up at the meet. He was unable to run owing to his leg being hurt.

As regards the conference, Mr. Grilley was very enthusiastic. "It is a revelation to a man," he said, "to see in how many ways he is being beaten by superior men in his own line of work, and for that, if for nothing else, I am glad I was able to go to the conference. With a broader vision of the work others are doing, one is able to work with a greater idea of the possibilities that lie in men. And in no instance did I get a greater lesson than on Franklin field, Philadelphia, where I saw athletes, though hopelessly beaten, plug right along to the end. That is something we have to learn out here.

Run Things Differently.

"They run the Y. M. C. A.'s differently in some respects, too. Take Fifty-seventh street, New York, where they have a fine athletic field. The best possible training is given the men there, but the only club they may represent is the Y. M. C. A. Any attempt to run under any other organization meets instant dismissal. They say they will not train men for other organizations to get credited with. And the training at Fifty-seventh street is so good that the New York Athletic club would willingly pay the subscription for each of its men to have the use of the training regime.

"Interested as I was in meeting the men, there were one or two papers at the conference in which I felt there were points that we might adopt here. By using a sybygmomanometer—an instrument formidable only in name—we can get the blood pressure of a man and thus ascertain his phyhical condition. And it is in obtaining ideas such as this that I feel the attending of the conference enables us to do better work and gives us more faith in our self-reliance."

The conference duly approved the constitution of the Athletic League of North America and the formation of a distinct branch for the northwest was favorably commented upon.

Mr. Grilley was accompanied by I. B. Rhodes, Idaho-Oregon state religious secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Three double plays were pulled off—two by the Albina team and one by the locals. Three hits and a couple of misplays on the part of the visitors' infield netted Vancouver three runs in the fourth, but Nelson, who relieved Crosby on the slab, held the locals safe after that. HAYWARD WILL TRAIN SMITHSON AND KELLY

University of Oregon, Eugene, June 15.—The associated students of the University of Oregon will send "Bill" Hayward, Oregon's famous trainer, east this summer.

Hayward will take six weeks in the Yale summer school, perfecting himself in the most approved methods in training and physical culture and studying the best forms of gymnasium apparatus and equipment, and will also inspect a large number of the most prominent university and other gymnasiums of the eastern states.

Hayward will be away from Oregon for a couple of months or more, and will have charge of the training of Dan Kelly and probably Forrest Smithson for the Olympic games. He will accompany the American team to London.

Chehalis Wants Games.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Chehalis, Wash., June 15.—Little Falls was outplayed in Saturday's ball game with Chehalis. Osborne and Doerr were the Chehalis battery and Coleman and McFadden the battery for Little Falls. The final score was 20 to 4. Chehalis has an exceptionally strong team and is anxious to secure some games with some strong teams that will make the game worth while. Any club managers who think they have such will be accommodated by writing the local management, Chehalis.

BASSEY LEADING BEAVER BATTERS

Portland Team Has Strong Combination Hitting Above .280 Mark.

Marquis Bassey, the hard-hitting left fielder of the Beavers, is now in second place among the regulars in the batting averages, being led only by Slattery of the Oakland crew. Gray of the Angels and Wright of the Oaks, two pitchers, also outrank the local swatter. Bassey is the only Portland player above the .300 mark. Above .280 there are McCredie, Madden, Dansig and Raftery, a pretty nifty hitting aggregation. Casey, Johnson and Cooney are the only three regulars below .250.

JOE GANS WILL TAKE LITTLE OF HARD WORK

San Francisco, June 15.—Joe Gans disappointed the fight fans today by announcing that he will do nothing but his regular road work and some light bag-punching until the last week before his fight with Nelson July 4. He will not begin boxing until next Sunday, and hard work is to begin as late as June 29.

"I don't want to take any chances with my hands," said the champion. "I am weighing 137½ pounds now, and I don't need the extra weight."

Gans will do all his boxing with Jack O'Keefe, the Chicago lightweight.

Battling Nelson is expected to return from his mountain trip next Thursday and begin work in earnest.

Sellings Win Again.

The Ben Selling ball team again showed its superiority by defeating the Goodyear Rubber company team in one of the finest amateur games ever seen on the Vaughn street grounds by the close score of 6 to 5.

Stutt's long drive for three bags brought everyone up to his feet. The Rubber company had the lead up to the last inning, when Polits started the fireworks with a nice single. He tied the score on Michaels' two bagger. Stutt drove in the winning run.

Polits had great control, and his fast playing helped his teammates out twice. Watrus' pegging to second stopped many from getting there. Michaels at the third station played his usual good game, stopping many a fast one.

You procure 1,000 shares for $100 that is worth today, if sold as professional mining promoters sell shares, $250, and the price would not be exorbitant.

The Poticie Mining Company's Shares Will Sell at $5 Each

Before the mine has been producing six months. When the Bunker Hill & Sullivan was at our stage of development its shares sold at 50 cents each, and could not be had today for $1,000 each. In fact, we are not aware that there is a price placed upon them, because the property is paying $180,000 in dividends per month, and nobody wants to let go. But the persons who own its stock did not wait until it was shoveling out its treasures before investing. They bought at the beginning—bought when it was in our stage of development—and it has made hosts of them independently rich.

Our Mine Will Make You Rich on a Small Outlay, if You Get In with Us Now

In our last advertisement we mentioned the fact that Robert F. Scott, of the First National Bank, Portland, Oregon, invested $150 in the first shares of the Mohawk Mine at Goldfield, Nevada, a property not a whit more promising than ours, and that he sold out after two years at $105,000. Had he held that stock one more year he would have disposed of it at over $250,000, but when he sold he considered he was doing pretty well, and would take a sure thing when he had the opportunity. Perhaps he was wise, for he so invested that $105,000 that he never will have to work another day, his income property affording him more money than he needs to maintain himself.

Stock Investments in Our Mine Today Will Pay Just as Largely as the Goldfield Mine Has Paid, and When Mr. Scott Sold

$5 invested in Mohawk shares, when first put upon the market would have brought him $3,400; $10 worth of the first issue of stock was then worth $6,800; $20, $13,600; $40, $27,200; $80, $54,400; $100, $68,000; $150, $105,000; $200, $136,000; $400, $272,000; $500, $340,000; $1,000, $680,000; and $2,000 put in when Mr. Scott started would have been worth, when he disposed of his holdings, the enormous sum of $1,360,000!

It Is the "Gold Mine Habit."

No other business has a record at all its equal. John Lockhart, owner of the celebrated Florence ground in Goldfield, Nevada, was a poor prospector nine years ago. He is rated at $9,000,000 to $10,000,000 now. What other calling would have treated him so kindly?

A Thoughtless Proposition.

Some one has said that "if gold stocks are so valuable, the wonder is that the banks do not buy them, or that they do not all go into the hands of the capitalists," as if there could be no good thing left in the world for those of moderate means—aye, even for the very poor. As if the banks must gobble up everything there is big profit in, and the poor man remain in his poverty and the rich man grow richer still. Certain banks are prohibited by law from investing in securities not immediately available as an instantaneous colateral for loans, and, of course, before the mine is developed to the producing point its shares are not. But today banks own large amounts of mining shares, bought when the mine has reached its profitable period, and no one knows anything about it. Banks do not advertise this fact any more than they do the notes, mortgages and bonds their vaults conceal, but the wise man who finds a mine is not looking for the rich man to "skin" him out of his possession. He prefers as his partner, one hundred, two hundred, three hundred or a thousand partners like himself, not rich, and who, like himself, will be satisfied with an honest distribution of the net proceeds of the property.

Real Gold Mines Are Certainly Profitable Enough to Satisfy Any Reasonable Person.

When faithfully and honestly worked and as faithful and honest distribution of the result is made, among the great masses, there is boundless satisfaction with the profits, hence it is that these enterprises, their shares broadly scattered throughout the country and owned by all classes, are contentedly prosperous and free from internal dissensions. But let the "capitalist" step in, and if his profits be 100 per cent he wants 200, and if 200 he clamors for 300; strife is engendered, lawsuits are instituted, and, in the end, the original finder or owner of the mine is landed high and dry—and the "rich" man gets it all. None of that experience for us. We have a great mining property up there at Murray. We have spent $50,000 in its development. Just a few more thousand and

The Mine Will Turn the Tables and Pay Us Back.

It will pay back thousands of times and over and over to each stockholder every dollar invested in it. Those who own any considerable block of shares may feel confident that they will have an income sufficient to maintain them in independence for a lifetime, and the larger and smaller owners will fare as well in proportion. Up at Murray it is a common expression that

"The Poticie Will Be a Whale!"

Meaning that this mine will develop into a rich producer, and around the mine, where the miners take more than half their pay in stock, it is freely predicted that "The Bunker Hill & Sullivan will not long soar very much above us up here at Murray. We'll be just as big a mine as that one ever dared to be."

Poticie at 10 Cents Is a Monumental Snap!

But we are not going to fuss much about selling our shares. If they don't go quick we'll pull 'em off the market. As we have already stated, every share is worth a quarter. They will be worth 50 cents by Christmas. The day is not far distant when the mine will be a great dividend-payer, and its shares at $5 and upward. This is the judgment of the best miners of the camp, and we believe it, too, and one of these mornings readers of this advertisement will wake up to hear that the mine is a prolific payer and its stock withdrawn.
