THEY WILL FIGHT FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

DOWNING TRYOUTS HELD SATURDAY

Local Oarsmen Will Determine Who Goes to Lake Washington Regatta.

Saturday afternoon is the time set for the tryouts for the junior crew which will represent the Portland Rowing club in the annual regatta on Lake Washington, July 3 and 4. Two sets of four will determine which is the better crew, and it is likely that members for the junior four will be picked from both crews.

Portland will be represented by a double this season. There was no senior double in the club, but it was almost a foregone conclusion that the junior double would win that event, which would entitle it to row in the senior championship the following day.

These two great fighters, representing the white lightweight champions of England and America, will battle for the white championship of the world in Jim Jeffries' arena at Los Angeles on the afternoon of July 4. Both men are expected to put up a great battle and the winner will meet the winner of the Gans-Nelson fight at Colma the same day for the undisputed title.

FARMER GOES TO SEE BALL GAME AND LANDS IN ASYLUM

(Salem Bureau of the Journal.)
Salem, June 16.—A farmer of Stayton, a town about 16 miles east of Salem, whose feeling in the matter forbids mention of his name, came to Salem last Saturday to take in the town. Instead of landing in the city, he landed in the insane asylum, and the story of the ending is strange and new, but a very serious one to the Staytonites. There was a game that day out at the Tri-City league grounds between the insane patients and the Chemawa Indian training school. The man from Stayton, in order to pass a few idle hours went out to see the game. He entered one of the two grandstands and took a seat. Everything was lovely. Nobody said a word to him. His neighbors in the grandstand were seriously intent upon the game, and were busy calling the umpire a horse thief and a robber and applying other baseball epithets to the players.

After the game was ended the Staytonite filed out of the grandstand with the rest, paying little attention to what was going on. He walked out the gate and started to turn away and go down town. "Get back into line there!" cried a stern voice. At first he thought somebody was merely talking to hear himself, and he walked on.

"Get back into line there!" cried a stern voice. At first he thought somebody was merely talking to hear himself, and he walked on. "Now look here, you will never again be allowed to see a baseball game if you don't behave at once," was the admonition. Still the youth argued and pleaded that he was a plain every day citizen with all his senses. It was no use; he was taken to the asylum and locked up.

After the patients were all in and counted it was noted that there was one more than had been taken out. All wards were communicated with and a count made. All were present, and there was one over.

The protesting patient from Stayton was brought forth and allowed to prove his identity. He sent for friends and gave an affidavit that satisfied the authorities, and he was allowed to go free. The Stayton farmer saw very little humor in the situation. His resentment against the asylum authorities was so great that he was almost ready to start suit for damages on the ground of false imprisonment. Only the fear of needless notoriety prevailed upon his better judgment.

It was in vain that he protested. He attempted to run, and the guards overtook him. "Now look here, you will never again be allowed to see a baseball game if you don't behave at once," was the admonition. Still the youth argued and pleaded that he was a plain every day citizen with all his senses. It was no use; he was taken to the asylum and locked up.

PEERING MALE EYES BAFFLED BY CO-EDS

Girl Athletes of Old Willamette Hold Track Meet in Early Dawn.

(Salem Bureau of the Journal.)
Salem, Or., June 16.—Some new records were established at Willamette university yesterday morning before breakfast. The annual class field meet between the co-eds of the college was held on the university field, and the first race was called at 4:30 a. m. sharply. Nearly all were on hand, and the announcer pulled off the first event. The object of the early hour was to prevent any spectators from attending the meet.

Alma Haskins was the star athlete, taking six firsts. Her record in the 50-yard race was 12 seconds. She ran the 100 in 21 seconds, more or less, and won out over all competitors in the 200-yard race in 53 seconds.

The meet was won by the freshmen, who scored 43 points. The senior prep team was second with 37 points. The other points were divided among the other classes. Next to Miss Haskins was Selma Norberg, who came out of the tournament with 13 points, and Hattie Beckley with 12 points.

The "pole-vault" was captured at the great height of 3 feet 8 inches. The high jump was won at exactly the same point. One fair contestant heaved the shot 40 feet, and another threw the discus almost 20 feet. The hammer-throw proved too difficult and many of the records were not kept, because the places, so that the score could be counted.

SMOKER'S CLEVER RUSE DEFEATS MINISTER

Personates That Official to His Face and Imposes on Station-master.

Vienna, June 16.—An amusing railway carriage joke is being told here at the expense of M. Derechatta, the Austro-Hungarian minister of railways. The minister does not smoke, and has a perfect horror of tobacco. What was his chagrin on seeing himself in a non-smoking carriage in a train near Vienna to see a fellow passenger light a large cigar.

The minister coughed inauspiciously, without effect. The minister coughed, more loudly, and then as violently as he could. All in vain. "Oh, you're a smoker," well, it doesn't matter." "But, sir, the authorities..." "The authorities? Oh, they don't matter. Forgive me, sir, in the name of the minister of railways. Let me give you my card."

The minister took the card, read it, and quietly put it in his pocket. "So you're the minister for railways?" he said, "oh, well, that doesn't matter."

At the next station the minister called the station master, and requested him to take the smoker's name. The smoker produced a card. The station master instantly became apologetic, "I'm sorry, your excellency," he said, "I did not know to whom I had the honor of speaking. If this fellow—pointing to the minister—bothers you, I will make him get out." The smoker gave a condescending gesture, and the train started again.

After a few moments of utter amazement, M. Derechatta realized that the smoker had given the official his (the minister's) name in his pocket. "So you're the minister for railways?" he said, "oh, well, that doesn't matter."

HAS SMOKED 1,000,000 CIGARETTES, NOW QUITS

Sixty Coffin Nails a Day Is the Remarkable Record of Isaac Manhoff.

Lake City, Iowa, June 16.—With a record of nearly 1,000,000 cigarettes at an average of 60 a day, Isaac Manhoff, a pedler of this place, 40 years old, has decided to renounce the weed. The habit had such a hold on him that it was necessary to awake at all hours of the night and roll a "coffin nail" before he could be lulled to sleep again. When a pedler in Russia he began the habit which he found so hard to shake off. Despite this fact, he will devote his days to trying to convince men and boys that they should cease the practice. Manhoff was in the habit of smoking 16 cigarettes before breakfast, and the rest of the day a cigarette was out of his mouth only a few minutes at a time.

For a man who has inhaled the fumes of so many cigarettes Manhoff is a strong man. He weighs about 175 pounds and has a massive chest and square build. For cigarette paper he used the Russian rice paper and not the rag paper used generally in America. Manhoff estimates the cost of his smoking at $1.19.

ROSEBURG MERCHANTS SEEK GULEFUL MAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Roseburg, Or., June 16.—A man named Mansfield, a plasterer, is being sought by the officers here. He came to Roseburg several weeks ago, worked at his trade and made over $100. He won the confidence of several of the merchants and had obtained goods on credit to the amount of $125 or $150. Friday he rented a bicycle of C. Althaus and departed from the city and has not been seen here since. When last heard of he was at Madford. The wheel was a Rambler and had the name Clemens on the inner tube of the front wheel. The wheel was second-hand and valued at $20.

The motive of the murder is believed to be vengeance. The dead woman, some eight months ago, was engaged to be married to a youth named Portner. A second young man, named Scoppi, who had also sought Julia Portner's hand in marriage, was jealous of Portner's success in wooing her, and he threatened to be avenged. One night in November last all three met on the Promenade near Angliana. A quarrel ensued between the two men, the upshot of which was that Scoppi drew a revolver and shot his rival dead.

The woman, who was the only other witness of the deed, gave evidence against Scoppi. He was convicted on her uncorroborated testimony, and was sentenced to eight years imprisonment. Scoppi totally denied his guilt, and his friends always maintained that he was innocent of the crime. Now that the woman has been struck down by the hand of an unknown assassin, the police think that some of Scoppi's partisans are responsible for the deed.

JEALOUSY LEADS TO TERRIBLE CRIME

Body of Young Woman Is Found Hacked to Pieces in Suburb of Town.

Nice, June 15.—A terrible crime has been committed in the neighborhood of Nice. Two boys, while walking along a wooded slope on the outskirts of the city last evening, came across the body of a young woman. She had been literally hacked to death with a knife, there being no fewer than 25 wounds on the body. The doctors found that four of the stabs had penetrated the heart. The victim, it was evident, had fought desperately for her life. Some distance away were found her hat, some hatpins and a "transformation."

The murdered woman has since been identified as a dressmaker's assistant named Julia Portner, who resided close to the scene of the crime. On Tuesday evening she went out in order to meet a friend, and she was not seen alive afterward.

WIFE'S VENDETTA HAS RIVAL FOR VICTIM

Deserted She Follows Girl Who Supplanted Her and Kills Her on the Street.

Toulon, June 15.—A real Corsican vendetta yesterday threw the population of Pont Dulac, a suburb of Toulon, into the wildest commotion.

The wife of a tailor named Rizzi, who had taken under his protection a pretty dark-eyed Corsican girl of 19, named Annaclette Paolotti, formerly in his service, smarting under the jeers of the guilty pair at herself and her children, followed them into the city with a revolver and discharged five shots, one of which passed through the girl's body. Annaclette expired shortly after receiving the fatal wound.

Mme. Rizzi, who is also a Corsican, when arrested, made desperate efforts to assault her husband, who had escaped the bullets aimed at him.

Later on, the father and mother of the murdered girl, on going to the police station to identify her body, met Mme. Rizzi emerging from the examining magistrate's room. Both at once attacked her, the father with a revolver which he snatched from his wife, the latter with a pocket knife. Five shots fired by Paolotti threw her effect, and the woman is not expected to live.

It is reported that her relatives will now pursue the vendetta and avenge her death.
