

POINTS OUT MURDERER IN COURTROOM

Widow of Murdered Chinaman Leaves Witness Stand and Bursts Into Tears as She Points Stick at Husband's Slayer.

Threat of Death Stops Trial—Malarkey Declares to Court Tong Members Are Preventing Orientals Acting as Interpreters.

Fear of another outbreak of the war in the Bow On Tong has come to such a point that this morning the prosecution had to ask for an adjournment of Judge Bronaugh's court while they endeavored to find a Chinaman who would risk serving as interpreter during the trial.

It is claimed by the state that one of their most important witnesses has been either kidnaped or induced to leave the city by the opposing faction in the tong, and the court subpoenaed five Chinamen at noon today to explain what they knew about the whereabouts of Lee Hong, the witness.

All Refuse to Serve.

When court was opened at 9:30, Mr. Malarkey, for the state, asked the court to appoint an interpreter, saying that he had been unable to secure one.

The defense offered its San Francisco expert, Sam Ah Tye, but Mr. Malarkey declined to accept him, and asked that an official interpreter be appointed by the court.

Subpoenas were issued for nearly a dozen interpreters and court adjourned while deputies went out to get them. All refused to serve on one pretext or another.

Big Beck Jr. of the United States immigration bureau said he would come if subpoenaed but would not act as interpreter as he did not want to mix in the case in any way.

Two of the Christian preachers were brought in and both said they hadn't time to act. Others said they didn't know enough English.

Orientals Threatened.

"It's an outrage," Mr. Malarkey told the court. "These Chinamen are so badly cowed by threats of death that they don't dare to take part in this case. Everything possible has been done to intimidate them, and an attempt was made to burn down the house in which the widow of this murdered Chinaman lives."

At length a Chinaman named Mow Hiam was brought in and consented to act as the official interpreter.

While the deputies were out hunting for interpreters, Sheriff Stevens and Deputy Sheriff Leonard brought in five Chinamen, Lee You, Lee Yee, Lee Linn, Lee Lung and Lee Hien, who are supposed to know something about the whereabouts of Lee Hong, the missing witness for the prosecution.

Hong was in the hospital when the prisoner, Lem Woon, was brought there and identified by Lee Tai Hol, and he acted as interpreter, while Attorney Ralph Wilbur took the re-mortem statement. He was in Portland until last Friday, when it is claimed by the state that he disappeared. When the five Lees were examined by Mr. Malarkey they said that Hong was in Walkin Walla, and that they would send for him to come back at once.

Widow Points Stick at Murderer.

Chan Gun Yook, the widow of the murdered Lee Tai Hol, was the state's star witness and told a dramatic story in spite of the fact that everything was spoken in Chinese. When asked who had killed her husband she seized a pointer, walked over to the table behind which Lem Woon was sitting and pointed the stick at him, at the same time bursting into sobs and almost falling to the floor. She was helped back to the witness stand, but court had to be adjourned for five minutes before she could proceed with her story.

Lem Woon, the little hump-backed Chinaman who is accused of being one of the three murderers, sat chewing his gum placidly while the re-mortem went on and even when the woman of his own race stepped up to him and cried out that he was the murderer he only smiled in the direction of City Sheriff Beatty who was watching him.

Scenes Dramatic Story.

Mrs. Lee Tai Hol, or Chan Gun Yook, as her maiden name is, is a little woman with very black hair and a perfect nose and mouth, the only features on a porcelain saucer. Her black hair was done up in a net and fastened with one heavy silver pin, and she was dressed entirely in black. She held her husband's hand in a death grip and made a most excellent witness for the prosecution.

She said that she heard the first shot fired and rushed out of her room on the second floor of the building at Fourth and Pine streets to see the men standing on the landing of the stairs. Creeping back up the steps she looked down the peephole in the stairs and saw her husband huddled in a heap at the bottom. Then five more shots rang out and she heard the men retrace their steps to the rear of the building, where a little door opened onto a dark stairway, leading to the ground.

Saw Faces of Assassins.

Then she said she went to her husband and he told her that he was shot and would have to die. Frequently as she referred to her husband she wept loudly, but she was able to give an account of the murder and the arrangement of the lights that enabled her to see the faces of the three men on the stairway. Her cross-examination will begin with this afternoon's session of the court.

The other witness called by Mr. Malarkey this morning was City Physician Ziegler, who explained how he had found Lee Tai Hol, and that the Chinaman had been shot five times, each arm being broken by a revolver bullet, and there being three shots through her back. He also had a cut between the eyes, evidently received when he fell back down the stairs.

WANDERLUST DOES FOR FELLOWSHIP

New Order Organized by Officers of Fleet—Candidates Must Visit Three Continents Before Eligible to Membership.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Navy Yard, Puget Sound, Wash., June 17.—A fellowship order which promises to become world wide in its membership has just been organized by officers of the Atlantic fleet and world travelers of note who have visited the fleet since its arrival in Pacific waters, under the suggestive title of the "Order of the Wanderlust."

Only those who, through spirit of adventure, scientific research or voluntary military service, have visited three continents are eligible to membership. Any army or naval officer who has attempted to escape foreign service is barred from membership.

On June 15 each year the members pledge themselves to report to the pathfinder of the order their travels during the year. The adventures of all those engaged in interesting or hazardous enterprises are to be published in a year book. The objects of the order are to promote fellowship among those fond of travel and adventure and to assist explorers in their undertakings.

Colonel W. J. Cotton of New York, a famous globe trotter and until recently secretary to John D. Rockefeller, was elected pathfinder; Surgeon Percy Crane, U. S. N., a member of the Lambs club, and one of the most widely known officers of the navy, was elected guide; Paymaster Richard Hutton, U. S. N., a well known authority on Asia, Crouper, and H. Lee Clotworthy of Los Angeles, recorder of the trails.

The badge of the order is an enameled first badge made in its presentation to Commander Robert Peary before his departure for the Arctic regions.

KEADY, DEMOCRAT, IS G. O. P. COMMITTEEMAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Newport, Or., June 17.—William F. Keady, who recently ran for county commissioner on the Democratic ticket and was overwhelmingly defeated, has just been elected Republican state committeeman by Buker, Bessell and some of the other members of the county central committee. This is regarded as a peculiar action on their part, but is in line with the statements made by Keady before election, that he had been promised by Calk that after the campaign was over he should be appointed state committeeman. Although he is elected by the county central committee, it is well known that Buker and Bessell follow the dictates of Calk in all matters.

ROSES FOR ALASKA FAIR

Oregon Building at Seattle to Be Made a Bower of Beauty With Growing Blooms and Cut Flowers Sent From Portland.

Roses as they are grown in Portland, roses of various kinds and hues, roses shipped from the Rose City of the Pacific coast every few days for the interior decorations, are to be one of the features of the Oregon building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle next year.

W. H. Wright of Union, one of the committees having the exhibit in charge, is at the Corneliuss, having just returned from Seattle. The rose display is to be decided upon by the commissioners and is to be made a special and distinct feature of the show which Oregon will put on display for the pleasure of the world.

The yard surrounding the Oregon building, which lies in one of the most commanding positions on the grounds, is to be planted with rosebushes, all from Portland, and they will be plentiful enough to make the place look like a veritable bank of roses, always in full bloom. This is to be arranged by planting certain roses according to the season, and in order that they will be in blossom continually during the entire summer.

On the interior of the building, Mr. Wright says, preparations are to be made for the exhibit of cut flowers. Every inch of available space not used for other purposes is to be converted for the display of cut flowers which are to be sent from Portland daily. With the yard full of growing roses and the building decorated with the cut varieties, the commissioners believe that the sight will be one of the prettiest and attractive on the grounds.

Mr. Wright says that the Oregon building as well as all of the other buildings are rapidly being constructed and that the exposition will be in readiness to open on time next spring.

HEROIC POLICEMEN SAVE 25 PERSONS

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, June 17.—Policemen Michael Bain and Tom Conley saved 25 persons from death in a lodging-house fire early today, at the risk of their lives. A high wind was raging over the city and had not the policemen worked quickly and heroically every one in the place would have been burned to death.

When the two officers saw the flames issuing from the burning building they turned in an alarm and dashed up the burning stairs to awaken the lodgers. The blaze had smoldered for some time before the fire was discovered and many of the people in the place were nearly asphyxiated with smoke when the policemen arrived. It was necessary to force many of the doors and drag the dazed people to the windows before they were revived. When the lodgers found their exit cut off by flames, a panic ensued and the two policemen had hard work to save the lives of the crowd.

They broke in the door of a room leading out to a fire escape and nearly all climbed down in safety. The firemen put out the blaze and saved several more people who had run to the roof of the building. Fireman Mike Hanson was badly burned while assisting in the work of rescue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Treat, of Meriden, Conn., both suffered from severe stomach trouble. Both are completely cured and restored to health and strength by the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Read what they say: Mrs. Treat in a letter March 30, 1908, wrote: "I take pleasure in informing you of the great benefit derived from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Before using this grand medicine I suffered from severe stomach trouble, could retain no food on my stomach, and was subject to vomiting spells. I had no strength in my limbs and was much discouraged."

"I began to improve after using the first bottle, taking same in small doses as per directions, and now, after three months' use, my stomach is all right, I have a good appetite and have regained my health and strength entirely. My husband also suffered with his stomach, had no appetite and was so weak and run down that he had given up his work. He was induced to use your Malt Whiskey, with the result that he is now able to attend to his work every day and has a hearty appetite."

"We do not approve of the improper use of any liquor, but Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, used as directed, has done much for us, for which we are extremely grateful.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Treat, 91 Camp St., Meriden, Conn."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach. It cures nervousness, typhoid, malaria, every form of stomach trouble, all diseases of the throat and lungs, and all run-down and weakened conditions of the body, brain and nerves. It is prescribed by doctors, and is recognized as the great family medicine everywhere.
