Government Sends Agents to Gaviota to Await Arrival of Pinna.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, June 18.—It was learned here today that agents of the United States government have been dispatched secretly to Gaviota, a lonely landing place on the coast near Santa Barbara, to await the arrival of the British steamer Pinna, under charter by the Japanese line Toyo Kisen Kaisha, from Yokohama to carry oil. It is understood among revenue officers who permit themselves to whisper of the case, that a cable from the special agent of the government at Yokohama saying that the steamer had contraband opium and silk and several Japanese coolies aboard, is the reason for the action of the government and that a revenue cutter will be sent to Gaviota later to await developments. The Pinna is chartered to carry oil. It was reported when she last landed at the lonely port that several Japanese without papers had been put ashore. Just why the liner should clear from Gaviota is a mystery and the collector of the port at Los Angeles will be asked why permission was given the Japanese boat to clear from there.
