President Has Announced Names of Renowned Specialists Who Will Compose Four Great National Commissions.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., June 19.—Governor Chamberlain has received from President Roosevelt a letter under date of June 18 with the information that all the appointments have been announced that were recommended in the declaration of the conference that met at Washington May 14. Much matter of interest is included in the communication besides the announcement of appointments.

The commission on the conservation of natural resources has been organized in four sections. One is the commission on the conservation of water resources, another is on the conservation of forest resources and the others are on the conservation of land and mineral resources.

The president points out that the resources of the country are so closely related that their uses may be and should be coordinated. Thus, the development of water transportation will reduce the draft on the mineral resources because water transportation requires less fuel and less power than rail transportation. Again, the judicious development of the forests increases the navigability of streams and the control of streams will reduce soil erosion and permit American farms to increase in fertility and production.

There is an infinity of inter-relationships which the president brings to the attention of the governors of these United States, all tending to brighten the prosperity of the country and maintain a healthy and beneficial foreign commerce. Each separate commission has been made by President Roosevelt cannot be separated in its effect from the others.

The Four Commissions.
Those who have been appointed on the water resources commission include the following: Theodore E. Burton, chairman; Senator William B. Allison, Iowa; Senator Francis B. Newlands, Nevada; Senator William Warner, Missouri; Senator John W. Baker, Alabama; W. J. McEwen, secretary; F. H. Newell, reclamation service; Clifford Pinchot, forest service; Herbert Knox Smith, bureau of corporations; Joseph E. Ramsdell, Louisiana; Professor George F. Swain, State of Tennessee, Missouri; and the chief engineers of the United States army.

The forests commission is made up of the following members: Senator Reed Smoot, Utah; chairman; Senator Albert Beveridge, Indiana; Senator Charles A. Culberson, Texas; Senator Charles L. Pack, New Jersey; Gustav Schwab, national council of commerce, New York; Overton C. Price, forest service, secretary.

Those who have been placed on the lands commission are as follows: Senator Knute Nelson, Minnesota, chairman; Senator Francis E. Warren, Wyoming; John Sharp Williams, Mississippi; Swager Shirley, Mississippi; Albert Parsons, New York, ex-governor N. B. Broward, Florida; James J. Hill, Minnesota; ex-governor George C. Peck, Colorado; Charles C. Colver, aid, American society of civil engineers, New York; Murdo MacKenzie, Colorado; George C. Colver, Colorado; George Woodruff, interior department, secretary.

Those who will comprise the mineral resources commission are as follows: John Daisell, Pennsylvania, chairman; Senator Joseph M. Dixon, Montana; Senator Frank D. Flint, California; Senator S. Overman, North Carolina; Philo Hall, South Dakota; James Slayden, Texas; Andrew Carnegie, New York; Professor Charles Van Dine, Wisconsin; John Mitchell, Illinois; John Hays Hammond, Massachusetts; Dr. Irving Fisher, Yale university, Connecticut; Holman, geological survey, secretary.

Grand Scheme of Cooperation.
No Oregon man has been given a position on these commissions. Governor Chamberlain, however, has already complied with the recommendations included in the declaration of the governors and appointed a commission for the state of Oregon. It was announced some time ago. Communications will be addressed to the governors of Idaho and Washington at once to solicit the cooperation of the executives of those states.

The states will cooperate not only with the federal government, but with each other in groups of three or more as their physical resources may be related. Not only will the commissions be cooperated with but all other agencies, including societies that have for their object the conservation of the great natural resources of the country.

President Roosevelt says the natural resources of this country are being conserved and conserved at a rate which threatens them with exhaustion and upon the conservation of these resources depends the future improvement of the people of the nation.

"It will be the duty of the president," says Mr. Roosevelt in his communication to lay before the nation the information and recommend to their consideration necessary and expedient legislation. It will be the duty of the federal government to accept and cooperate with the states to cooperate with them.

"It should ever be kept in mind that the life of the nation depends absolutely on the natural resources that have already made the nation great. We intend to use them, but so no use them as to conserve them. No effort should be made to limit wise and proper development and application of these resources; every effort should be made to prevent destruction, to reduce waste and to distribute the enjoyment of our natural resources in such a way as to promote the greatest good to the greatest number for the longest time.

The conference of governors brought together men who are the best sponsors for the well being of the states. The dignity and autonomy of the states should be preserved as well as their independence. There should be no break between the interests of the state and the nation. Heartly cooperation between the state and national agencies is essential to the permanent welfare of the people.

The commission is requested to report before January 1, 1909. Two meetings of the Oregon state commission have already been held and the work is already well under way. The governor has received reports of work and will attend to the necessary cooperation of the Idaho and Washington executives as quickly as possible.

PRINCIPALS DEAD BUT SUIT GOES ON

Ukiah, Cal., June 19.—Interest was revived in an ancient lawsuit between Moreau Sleeper and T. W. Polk, two old settlers of Lake county, which began in 1869 when new maps were filed in the case today. Although both of the principals are dead, according to the instructions in their wills, the battle is to be fought out to the last court.

The suit began over some swamp land in upper Lake, which had scarcely any value at all, but neither would give up the fight.

NEW PLANS FOR ALBANY COLLEGE

Changes Will Be Made in Faculty and New Buildings Will Be Erected.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Albany, Or., June 19.—The forty-first annual commencement season of Albany college was brought to a successful close last evening at a reunion of the alumni held in Tremont hall. Since last Thursday evening the city has been given over to college affairs, and the citizens generally have encouraged the students and faculty in the various exercises as scheduled.

Commencement proper took place at the United Presbyterian church yesterday morning and consisted of the graduating orations of the seniors. Diplomas were granted to the following: Classical, Frederic W. Neal; bachelors of pedagogy, Gladys Hyde Easton of Sitkum; Phisara Lovell Gilman of Giesdale; Miss Anna McKnight of Albany; Elsie May Thayer of Selc; bachelors of accountancy, Charles Curry of Corvallis; Blanche Lemoor of Albany; shorthand, Jeannette Bounds of Baker City; Minnie Halsey, Cecile Knox, Eulah Wright of Klamath; Bertha Newton of Molalla; William J. Patterson of Oakland; Nellie Thompson of Lebanon.

Medals Awarded.
The medal for best work in all the various college activities and general loyalty was awarded to Frederic W. Neal by Hon. F. J. Miller of the board of trustees of Albany college. The medal for the best junior oration was awarded to Katherine McMillan of Portland. Professor Zugs of the college presented William E. Steele, John Leggett and Wilma Galnes with books as an appreciation of the excellent work done in the Bible department of the school.

Several changes will be made in the faculty. Professor Peacock of the department of science has resigned his position and will not return. He expects to take up work in the Yale law school this coming winter. His successor has not been selected. Two instructors have been added to the conservatory of music, as follows: Miss Emily Hansen of Parkville, Missouri, was elected director of the entire musical department. Miss Lena Tawney of Portland and a graduate of McMinnville and Pacific university of San Jose was chosen to take up the work of instructing new beginners. Miss Cone will remain and have charge of the advanced pupils on the piano. Professor Palmer will return after a season's work in Chicago and remain at the head of the vocal department of the college.

New Buildings.
It is intended to have a new home for the conservatory of music. Tremont hall will be devoted entirely to housing the girls' club of the college. A separate boarding and dormitory hall will be obtained for the boy students. Miss Elizabeth Irvine who, for three years,

HIGH LICENSE IN LINCOLN COUNTY

Newport to Make It $1,000—Council and Brewers for Laws' Strictness.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Newport, Or., June 19.—By an ordinance introduced in the city council Wednesday and which passed its first reading, the license for the sale of liquor in Newport is fixed at $1,000. The council was divided as to whether or not a high license should be imposed, but when a vote was taken four members favored a thousand dollar license against three who were in favor of a license fee of not to exceed $500. The ordinance will undoubtedly be enacted with the higher figure included, as the four members of the council who favor it declare that they will not consent to a lower figure.

Ever since June 1, when the county went wet, saloon men from counties that went dry have been flocking into Newport looking for locations. It was the apparent danger of having the town filled up with low-class saloons which actuated the council in fixing the license at a figure which will not only increase the city's revenue but will limit the number of saloons.

The council insists that the state law regarding Sunday closing must be strictly complied with; that saloons shall close at one o'clock at night, and that there shall be no gambling or riotous conduct. The license fee is made a bond, forfeitable, together with the license, for the slightest infringement of the law.

The Oregon Brewers' association is backing the council up in this. In a letter read at the council meeting the association says this is the only county in the United States that ever went wet after having once gone dry, and they realize that this is their chance to demonstrate that the saloon business can be run decently, which is their only chance of stemming the tide of prohibition which promises to sweep over the entire state.

MARION BARNES MYSTERY DEEPENS

Letter Purporting to Be From Him Authorities Consider a Fake.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Walla Walla, June 19.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Marion Barnes, brother of Bud, who is notorious through his trial on the charge of murdering Mrs. Anna Aldrich, is deepening and the authorities consider that evidence against Bud as the murderer of the missing boy is gathering. Bud told people, on the disappearance of Marion, that he had gone to Hoopner. A few days ago a letter was received by Frank Loungrain, purporting to be from Marion Barnes, but the sheriff at Hoopner cannot locate him and says he has not been at that place. The letter was written after the search for Marion began, much as were the letters Bud tried to get written after Mrs. Aldrich had disappeared and the search had begun. His sister, Mrs. Jane Black, who has arrived from California to testify in the Barnes case next Wednesday, says she knows nothing of Marion except what Bud has told her. The authorities regard the letter as a fake and additional suspicious circumstances are that Marion has not been seen since he went up the creek on September 25 with Bud, that he and Bud had had trouble over the latter's wife and that Bud had warned him to leave the country.

DURING VACATION

Repair and refinish the piano during the vacation while the family is away and the teachers are on their vacation. In order to keep the Ellers Piano House repair shop running all summer, thereby retaining the full force of expert and competent workmen, we will send for your piano, give it the necessary repairs—just as you want—finish the case over like new if you like—take care of it during the time you're away and place it back in your home when you return, about, if not just, as good as new—and the cost will be very reasonable, especially if we can do the work during the summer months. Think this over—examine your piano—how about the action? Do your people complain of its being too hard or uneven? Strings in bad shape? Case scratched and marred? If so, call us up—we'll do the rest. If you merely want it moved, stored or tuned, Ellers Piano House, 353 Washington street, are better prepared to do your work than any house on the coast.

Drops Dead in Yard.
G. C. West, aged 61, father of Charles E. West, a lumber cruiser, residing at 923 Grand avenue north, dropped dead of heart trouble yesterday. He was at work in the rear yard of his home at the time he was stricken. The remains were taken to Vancouver and the funeral will be held tomorrow.
