

FINE SCHOLARSHIPS WITH YOUR REACH

Grand Opportunities for Students to Obtain Tuitions of Their Own Choice Free—Journal's Third Annual Educational Contest to Open Next Monday.

All those who intend to participate in the Oregon Journal's third annual scholarship contest are invited to make inquiries of the contest manager, who will be pleased at all times to explain fully all about the rules and conditions. Ask all the questions you desire until you thoroughly understand how to proceed in the competition which means to you a free scholarship worth up to $175 and a cash award of $150, besides a cash commission on every new subscription you secure for the daily, Sunday or semi-weekly Journal. Many inquiries are now coming in from different quarters and the interest already shown indicates a lively battle between a large number of energetic young people of both sexes. It will be a battle royal and kindred to the Pacific coast and the enthusiasm will be at its height. Unlike most contests which are entered for the glory attached to the championship, the real value in this contest is the real intrinsic value in valuable schol-ships in leading institutions of learning, besides big cash awards and cash commissions. The mere distinction and honor of being clever enough to win in such a contest is glory enough in itself for the pleasant work during the holidays. The value of the scholarship is a big consideration and the cash awards of $150 and lesser sums are too valuable for enterprising young people to let go by. Big prizes like these are not offered often and no boy or girl or young man or young woman between the ages of 15 and 25 should ignore such an opportunity to acquire free tuition of his or her own choice, besides substantial monetary awards and commissions. The cash awards and list of scholarships will be found on another page. As the contest opens next Monday, June 22, contestants should lose no time in preparing their vigorous campaign for Journal subscriptions which alone will determine the winners of the scholarships and cash awards. The cash commissions for new subscriptions, of course, will be paid to the competitors, whether they win scholarships or not.

STAMPEDE FOR NEW OREGON CODE

State Bar Association Will Demand That Legislature Appoint Commission.

Oregon is to have a new code revised and annotated and brought up to date, together with the constitution printed in the front as it now is and not as it was a half century ago. At least that is the plan of the lawyers of the state who contend that the statutes have come to such a tangle that it is becoming practically impossible to tell what the law really is without long and laborious search through session laws, antiquated code and initiative enactments. Goaded by the condition which confronts them daily in their practice of the law the members of the state bar association, and of the Multnomah County Bar association, are planning to advance upon the legislature next January and demand redress and success from unnecessary tribulation, worry and work. The state association will have an annual meeting some time during the late summer and fall and then the matter will be given full discussion and a plan of campaign will be mapped out. According to the present program the association will ask the legislature for a code commission to revise the laws of the state and put them in good and convenient form. It is probable that to make sure their wishes and ideas are carried out they will draft a bill for submission to the legislature providing for the commission and its work. Then committees will be appointed to bear the bill to Salem, present it to the legislature and stay by it until it has been given the seal of the legislature's approval. Present Code Antiquated. The Bellinger & Cotton code is antiquated and not only that but it is out of print. Outside of a few copies in the possession of the secretary of state for the use of the next legislature there are no copies to be had owing to the fact that the plates of the Oregon code were destroyed in the San Francisco fire with the plant of the Bancroft-Whitney company. At the time of the last session of the legislature it was said that there were less than 50 new copies of the code in existence besides those furnished to the members of the legislature for their use during the session. It is a question therefore whether there will be copies enough to go round at the 1909 session, owing to the fact that the members of the legislature, the majority of whom took their books home instead of returning them to the secretary of state. Many New Laws. Aside from the fact that the code is out of print in the further argument in the hands of the attorney that the Bellinger & Cotton edition is antiquated. Since it was compiled five or six sessions of the legislature have intervened.

S. P. TO INJECT SOME GINGER INTO C. & E.

Effective June 22, the Corvallis & Eastern, under Southern Pacific management, will put on an exclusive passenger train, leaving Albany daily, except Sunday, at 7:15 o'clock a. m. and arriving at Yaquina at 1:30 p. m. Eastbound the train will leave Yaquina at 7 a. m. and reach Albany at 11:35 a. m. Heretofore the road has operated only mixed trains, and a very poor service has been given the public along its line, retarding development of the country. The territory tapped by the Corvallis & Eastern road ranks among the most beautiful and productive in America. Splendid ranches all but abandoned exist in the foothills of the Coast range, but the country has had practically no railroad transportation facilities, so poorly equipped and operated has been the Corvallis & Eastern.

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW TRANSPORT DOCKS

(United Press Special Wire.) San Francisco, June 19.—Official advice received here today from Washington state that the contract for the construction of three immense government transport docks near Fort Mason, has been let to T. J. Carlin, a New York contractor.

The bid was $1,197,000. The three docks will be begun at once. The contractor is expected here Monday to look over the ground. The docks are to be 1,500 feet long and two seawalls 1,000 to 550 feet long are included in the contract.

DONALDSON'S AX READ TO DROP

Street Superintendent Files List With Chief of Merchants Violating Law.

Superintendent Donaldson of the city's street cleaning department has nearly completed the first list of names of merchants who have been violating the city ordinance respecting the throwing of refuse in the streets and will send it to Chief of Police Gritzmacher in a day or two. The names will then be distributed among the patrolmen and if they find the merchants repeating the offense will swear out complaints for their arrest. Mayor Lane is in hearty sympathy with any plan whereby the city streets can be kept clean and neat that if there is any way in which the people can be brought to understand that they have a duty to perform in keeping their clean streets and the city has, he will endorse it. For a long time Mayor Lane has been urging clean streets and in interviews and by conversations with residents has sought to impress upon the people the necessity of keeping their streets clean. At present, however, the people seem to think that the street is the proper place to throw refuse matter and are brought to realize that such is not the case the sooner we will have clean streets.

"Store sweepers" are to be thrown into the streets. That is one of the things that must be understood at the start by the merchants and residents who sweep their sidewalks in the evening the street sweepers would pick it up on their rounds. But the people do not seem to understand this until the morning when they get out with their brooms and throw the refuse into the already clean streets where it remains all day. If they were only to exercise a little judgment in this matter they would soon have clean streets which would result in much cleaner streets. The city officials are determined to stop the practice of throwing their store sweepings into the street gutters. They have repeatedly warned the offenders to stop their practice but the warnings seem to have done little good and more drastic action will be taken to stop the nuisance.

SUES FOR DAMAGES GETS EVERY CENT

Rarely does a plaintiff in the circuit court gain from a jury verdict for as much as he claims. Yesterday there was an exception in the case of Dr. J. Allen Gilbert, who secured for his services a Cleveland department for $523.50 against the Standard Box & Lumber company. In May, 1907, A. W. Frazee, an employee of the company, was severely injured at the mill and taken to a hospital. Dr. Gilbert was called in and found the patient in a critical condition, with loss of blood. He sent a telephone message to the company, telling of the man's condition, and was told that the company was willing to pay a reasonable fee. Frazee remained in the hospital five months under the care of the physician, who then presented a bill for $500 for his services. The company refused to pay on the grounds that the injury was unreasonable. The jury took the other view, however, and gave Dr. Gilbert all that he asked, with interest.

Novel Hat Display.

All day yesterday a crowd lingered around the windows of the United Hat Store, at Washington and Seventh, looking at the go fit the swimming suits and hats. It was a novel sight. The water and fish were real and it was a real treat to read the inscriptions on the cards. One said: "These are live fish. Are you? If so, wear a Mallory cravat. Are you? On a jar of dead fish standing near the head rest. These are dead ones." Several who looked at them when the writer stood near seemed to wake up and wonder if they were just a little too sluggish. This is but one of many unique window displays made by this enterprising hat concern.

Old Age of Content.

B. F. Giltner, an Oregon pioneer, yesterday celebrated his 75th birthday. He came to Oregon 50 years ago, and became widely known as a merchant and citizen. He is today as active and apparently in as perfect a state of health as when he came to the state a half century ago. He resides with his son, E. C. Giltner, secretary of the Portland chamber of commerce, and spends his old age in peace and content. It is said that the secret of his physical preservation is that he has always observed regular habits and avoided worry.

WIVES TO HAVE PROPERTY RIGHT

Senator Beach to Introduce Bill Providing Division of Husband's Holdings.

Should a wife have an absolute right to one half of the community property after the death of her husband where she has assisted through years of hard work and toil in the accumulation of that property? State Senator S. C. Beach believes that she should and with that belief will introduce a bill in the next legislature seeking to change the existing law as it stands. At present a wife has no protection under the law, or practically none, Senator Beach has been driven to the serious consideration of the subject by instances of this fact which have come under his observation. In one case a couple had grown old in Portland and were well known to the senator. For years they had struggled and saved until they had accumulated a goodly competence, and this was done in large part through the wise management and foresight of the wife. The husband died and left a will which divided the property among his brothers and sisters, leaving the aged wife with a bare pittance. As a result of the injustice and the worry over it, the woman lost her reason and is now confined in a California asylum. Other instances, perhaps not so pathetic, but still unjust, have been observed by the senator, and as a result he expects to introduce the bill and make a hard fight for it during the 1909 session of the legislature. For some reason the chief opposition to the bill comes from the lawyers of the state, many of whom urge the peculiar objection, for them, that the passage of the bill would cause much litigation. The senator, however, will make an effort to secure its passage and enactment into law.
