

PORTLAND, OREGON, SATURDAY EVENING JUNE 20, 1908

1. Vacation's over. What a pity!
 John takes the Teds back to the city.
 See the nice gifts from Uncle Ben—
 A big-tame pig and nice fat hen.

2. You can imagine the surprise
 That here meets the conductor's eyes.
 The Teds are scared, and Johnny, too,
 While piggy hides himself from view.

3. Then biddy hen, scared to a fit,
 Makes up her mind it's time to flit.
 Conductor reaches for her fare,
 And suddenly finds she is not there.

4. Old biddy hen, with one fell flop,
 Has signaled for the train to stop.
 This scares the pig beneath the seat,
 And he leaps forth with all his feet.

5. He rushes wildly down the aisle,
 And the conductor rides a while.
 Of course, at such a funny sight,
 John and the Teds howl with delight.

6. Just how this happened we don't know,
 But down the track they madly go.
 The papers said in letters big,
 "CONDUCTOR'S KIDNAPPED BY A PIG!"
