

STATE TAXATION FOR THE SCHOOLS

In Address to Oregon Teachers Stanford Professor Cites New Tax Plan.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
University of Oregon, Eugene, June 26.—The real wealth of the nation is in its men, in their ability and steadfastness, and the manufacture of such men is the most worthy occupation in life, said Edward P. Cubberly, professor of education at Stanford university in the opening address yesterday of the eighth annual convention of the western division of the Oregon State Teachers' association. Five hundred zealous Oregon teachers listened earnestly, replying themselves to their work—the making of the children of Oregon into the men and women of tomorrow.

The theme of the address was "The Changing Conceptions of Education," and the speaker ended with a plea for the poor helpless children of the country, thought that every school should have manual training and domestic science.

Last night the teachers, 500 in number, from all over the state, were given a reception at the university by the commercial club. The visitors are enjoying free street car rides, and in some cases entertainment.

The corps of lecturers was perhaps the most distinguished ever gathered together in an educational meeting outside of Portland. Among the prominent educators of the state are: Superintendent Robinson, president of the association; Superintendent Egler of Portland; State Superintendent Ackerman of public instruction; W. J. Kerr, president of the Oregon Agricultural college; F. L. Campbell, president of the university; Professor L. R. Traver of Monmouth; Professor O. C. Brown of Drain Normal and Professor E. T. Moore of Salem.

Outside speakers during the convention are: Elwood P. Cubberly, from Stanford; Edward Hyatt, superintendent of public instruction of California; A. C. Nelson, superintendent of public instruction of Utah; Miss Effie B. McFadden of San Francisco State Normal and Dr. Albert B. Hart of Harvard university.

Yesterday afternoon, Professor Cubberly delivered his second speech on the theme, "The Principle of Taxation

RICH STRIKE IN COEUR D'ALENES

Diamond Mine, Formerly Abandoned, Yields Heavy Ore Deposit.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Wallace, Idaho, June 26.—One of the greatest ore strikes ever made in the history of the Coeur d'Alenes took place yesterday afternoon in the property of the Anchor Mining company, located between the Mammoth and Hecla mines at Burke. The strike consists of one foot of carbonates carrying enormous values in silver. Ordinary assays of this ore give a return of 1,250 ounces to the ton, and picked samples range all the way from 2,900 to 4,000 ounces to the ton.

In addition to this, two feet of crystallized lead ore has been exposed of an average assay value of from 85 to 90 per cent.

The strike was made on a claim known as the Diamond Hitch, at the bottom of a 35-foot shaft, and at a distance of only 75 feet north of the Northern Pacific track.

The claims of the company were operated about 19 years ago by the Diamond Hitch company and a little ore was shipped, but work on the property was given up owing to the difficulty of keeping the property clear of water.

The principal owners of the present company are M. Maher of Burke and Evan Evans of Spokane.

for Education." He advocated the taxes for education should be raised by state taxation, for unless this is done, certain communities own special privileges over others, in the way of the location of great centralized corporations at favored points. Such corporations do business all over a territory, and every outlying section should have some income from the taxes on its property, since the great corporation draws its wealth from every district.

Two hundred Lane county teachers are in attendance and about 50 from Douglas county, the meeting being to the teachers of these counties the same as a county institute.

"ROSE DAY" AT GRANTS PASS

Southern City Is Thronged With Visitors and Bedecked With Flowers.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Grants Pass, Or., June 26.—Today is "Rose Day" in Grants Pass. The First Annual Rose and Flower Festival is being given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Commercial club, assisted by the Commercial club members. No effort has been spared to make the event a grand success and the abundance of flowers and floral decorations in evidence are a happy surprise even to the people of this city. The festival is being shared by the people of the country and many visitors are here from distant points.

An automobile parade, with over a score of motor cars, beautifully decorated with roses, carnations, and evergreens, will be one of the features. The main flower exhibit is being held at the Coliseum rink. The big hall is a mass of flowers, roses being banked in profusion against the wall. The stores are splendidly decorated for the occasion, and the yards and grounds of the homes have been cleaned up and given an extra touch. The program will close this evening with a grand promenade.

It is the purpose of the Ladies of the auxiliary club to make the flower show an annual event. The main purpose of the festival is to encourage the cultivation of roses. Because of its mild climate, good soil and warm summer sunshine, this section of Oregon is well adapted to the growing of roses. As the winters are warm it is possible to have roses blooming in the open till late in November, and the early spring sunshine brings them out in April and May.

TRYING IT ON THE SMALL BOY

Railway People Show "Suction" Doesn't Draw Children Under Trains.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Milwaukee, Wis., June 26.—In order to disprove the theory of Matthew Schwind's parents that their little child was injured by being drawn under a train by suction, the St. Paul road risked the life of a little boy by placing him near to a rapidly moving train. The boy was not killed, and today the railroad got off with a verdict of $30,000 for not having guard fences, instead of $25,000, asked for in the suit.

The complaint charged that the Schwind boy was walking between two tracks and was sucked under an engine by the vacuum, caused by the engine rushing rapidly past a line of freight cars.

The boy put in this perilous position by the railroad told the jury, who witnessed the demonstration, that he only felt a breeze.
