PLEASED WITH JOURNAL CONTEST

Harlin Talbert Writes of His Pleasant Dealings With Contest Editor.

Newport, Or., June 22.—Oregon Journal, Portland, Or., Gentlemen—I see you are going to conduct an "Educational Contest" this summer, and I wish to state to all young people who are contemplating entering The Journal's "Educational Contest" that I was one of the successful contestants in last summer's contest, and for the benefit of those who may be hesitating about entering for fear that they may not be successful, that they can succeed in winning one of the scholarships if they go in to win and stay with it and work hard. It will be no easy undertaking, but with a little courage and determination and persistent systematic work, mixed with good common sense, I feel sure any young man or woman may secure one of the valuable scholarships offered by The Journal in their "Educational Contest." I was quite busy last summer and could not put in much time hustling subscriptions, but, however, managed to work about 20 days, without assistance, and for this time I secured a scholarship in the Western Academy of Music, taking a course in elocution, oratory and dramatic art, and as a result am now at Newport with a stock company for the summer, and I feel that I was more than repaid for my services to The Journal.

The Journal is a good paper to work for, as they conduct their contests in a fair manner, and it is a newspaper which takes well with the people, so I do not hesitate in recommending their contest plan to any young person who wishes to secure a higher education through their own efforts during the summer season, and of course the ones who work hard and come out in the lead will secure a cash prize which will help defray their expenses while at school, and those who do not secure cash prizes get a commission.

HARLIN TALBERT.

Letters similar to the above from former students who competed for Journal scholarships are simply expressions of appreciation for what The Journal did for them. Young Talbert worked about 20 days securing subscriptions for The Journal, and for his efforts he won a scholarship in the Western Academy of Music, taking up elocution, oratory and dramatic art. As he says, he feels that he is more than repaid for his services to The Journal. The benefits he will derive from his free scholarship will be lifelong. In years hence he will appreciate all the more the opportunity The Journal put in his way and which he seized. The young people who are not asleep to good opportunities will take advantage of The Journal's third annual contest and make an early start in soliciting orders for The Oregon Journal. Remember, that cash commissions will be paid on all new orders for the Daily, Sunday or Semi-Weekly Journal whether you win a scholarship and cash award or not. All who secure subscriptions will get well paid for their work and have an equal chance to win a scholarship besides a cash award.

NEWLYWEDS SUFFER PANGS OF PUBLICITY

If you happened to be in the neighborhood of Fifteenth and East Oak streets today you would perhaps have come to the conclusion that the second story window of an apartment house on that corner contained a magnet for the eyes of passersby or else that everybody you saw had an acute attack of "rubberitis."

It is doubtful if the flatiron building ever caused so many neck kinks as did that little second story window yesterday. If your neck doesn't trouble you this afternoon you will probably wonder what it was and unless you happen to meet one of the grinning pedestrians who passed that magnetic corner yesterday you will have to read to know what was the cause of so much mirth.

Nothing but a sign about four feet square on which was gayly lithographed the legend: "This flat will be occupied after June 28 by the newlyweds, Arthur and Maizie Kornahrens."

The blissful young people arrived home yesterday unexpectedly and perhaps are wondering why their apartments are the object of such admiration. They never knew they had so many friends in Portland. They don't know about the sign. It is rumored that some well known lawyers in the Fenton building could tell a little story about how that naughty sign came there, but of course rumor is so uncertain.

But there are other things that the newlyweds have seen—funny postals and solicitous telegrams and useful little presents. The givers of these presents, however, don't believe in advertising. They are of the philanthropic type that seeks not publicity.

FAST, FURIOUS WEEK OF EVENTS

Daylight Robbers Set Swift Pace but Come to an Abrupt End.

Sunday, June 21—Arrived in Portland.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Committed 70 burglaries.

Wednesday night—Arrested.

Thursday—Indicted.

Friday—Pleaded guilty and sentenced.

Sunday, June 28—Will arrive in Salem to spend four years each in the penitentiary.

Above is the record made in one week by C. Williams and E. D. Ferguson, known as the daylight burglars. During half the week they kept the police as busy as gophers. Then the big mill of justice began to grind, the "law's delay" being conspicuously absent. Judge Gantenbein finished his part of the work yesterday afternoon, and tomorrow morning, just one week after the young burglars set foot in town, they will view the scenery inside the walls at Salem. This is perhaps the quickest action ever secured in the criminal line in Portland.

When the young men stood up to receive sentence yesterday Judge Gantenbein asked Williams if it were not true that he has served a term in the penitentiary in Colorado. The court had received a letter to that effect, but Williams said it was a mistake. The burglaries here constitute his first crime, he asserted. He made a short plea for himself, repeating what he has told the officers. He looked for work Monday morning, he said. He had a skeleton key with him, and he used it to raise money to send to his wife. He wanted her to come from the east, he said, and then he intended to "settle down."

Deputy District Attorney Bert Haney, who appeared for the state, compelled Williams to admit that although he and Ferguson obtained valuables worth hundreds of dollars in their first burglaries, they did not stop. Detectives Tichenor and Jones were called on to give some details of the burglaries. They told the court that practically all the stolen property had been recovered on information given by the thieves themselves. Both men have apparently told the full truth regarding their operations.

The penalty fixed by law for daylight burglary ranges from one to seven years, in the discretion of the court. Judge Gantenbein said he would take into consideration the youth of the prisoners and their frankness, and sentenced them to four years each in the penitentiary.

This is to certify that my daughter was down for almost one year with a cold. The doctors finally pronounced it consumption. We had given up hope for her recovery. I was given a sample bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. I gave it all to her in about three hours. It stopped the cough, and gave her rest. I sent next day and bought a 50c. bottle and began giving it. In three month's time she was well. There can not be too much said in favor of Foley's Honey and Tar. It saved my child's life. Mrs. George Batson, Fountain Grove, Mo.
