WAR AGAINST WHITE PLAGUE

States' and Nations' Representatives to Meet in Washington.

The International Congress on Tuberculosis which is to be held in Washington September 21 to October 12 meets every three years, and this is the first time it has come to this country. The last meeting was held in Paris, France, in 1905, and three years before that the gathering took place in London. It is not likely that the congress will convene in the United States for a great many years, as the honor of entertaining it is eagerly sought by the countries abroad.

Preparations for the gathering are engaging the attention of every enlightened nation. The white plague is no respecter of persons or of races. It is not limited to any quarter of the globe, and the common ground on which Europe, Asia, Africa and North and South America, are meeting, is the belief that this disease may be brought under as complete control as smallpox, plague, yellow fever and other infectious diseases have been by wide-awake peoples. Committees of arrangements for the congress have been organized in every foreign country and in every state in our own land. In every section plans are being perfected for representation in the congress. A number of the foreign governments have already announced to the state department at Washington the names of their official delegates, others have acquainted the secretary general of the congress with their plans for participation in the congress and in the great exhibition that will be held in connection with the gathering. The exhibition and the congress are to be housed in the National museum, adjoining the Smithsonian. The exhibition promises to be practically a world's fair on the subject of tuberculosis. It will show what is being done around the globe in the fight against tuberculosis, from Alaska down to the Cape of Good Hope, from the Steppes of northern Russia to the diamond fields of South Africa.

Every state in the Union is expected to be represented in some way at the congress. The governors of 40 states have authorized the secretaries of the state boards of health, the heads of institutions, or other officials, to arrange for participation in the gathering. In a number of states traveling exhibitions that show the conditions in the respective states, and the measures that have been taken to correct them, have been on view in the home states during the winter, and will be displayed in the exhibition at the congress in Washington.

Interest in the International Congress on Tuberculosis is not confined to physicians. Every phase of the scientific study of tuberculosis as it affects human beings will be discussed by physicians, surgeons and specialists in every field. But equally important places on the program have been assigned to the men and women who are taking some part in the preventive work that is being carried on along social, economic, or industrial lines. There will also be a section of special interest to veterinarians, and that will discuss tuberculosis in animals and its relation to man.

President Roosevelt has accepted the presidency of the congress, and the governors of the states will serve as vice-presidents. Dr. Edward L. Trudeau of Saranac lake is the honorary president. Dr. Trudeau has had tuberculosis himself for many years, and over 30 years ago, when it first became apparent that he had the disease, instead of composing himself to die, he went up to the Adirondacks. The outdoor treatment was just beginning to be advocated by German specialists, and Dr. Trudeau tried it on himself. He passed on the gospel of the method of others, and the great improvement in this country in recent years for the outdoor treatment of tuberculosis is generally attributed to his initiative. It has been his inspirational influence in this direction that has won for him the affectionate title of the "Father of the Open-Air Treatment in America."

COMMISSION FIXES RAILROAD VALUES

State Body Will Have Figures Upon Which to Estimate Freight Rates.

The result of the first day's session of the Oregon railway commission yesterday to fix values of railway properties in the state was to determine the values of rights of way and station grounds of three of the subsidiary companies of the O. R. & N. parent company. The lines passed upon were the Columbia Southern, the Columbia River & Oregon Central or Condon branch, and the Umatilla Central or Pilot Rock branch.

The commission summoned J. W. Morrow, tax and right-of-way agent of the O. R. & N. company, and A. C. Spencer of the legal department, to furnish information that would assist the commission in its labors. Mr. Morrow's testimony showed that he was familiar with land values, having purchased most of the rights of way and lands in connection with construction of these lines.

Value of the Columbia Southern's 69.46 miles of right of way and station grounds was fixed at $147,869; Columbia River & Oregon Central, $97,351; Umatilla Central, $22,551. The Pilot Rock branch is 14.21 miles long, and the Condon branch is 45.31 miles.

The commission will from time to time continue its work of determining the valuation of Oregon roads, during the year. The purpose is to arrive at a basis for estimating a fair rate of freight charges.

DR. RILEY EXPOSES "UNKNOWN TONGUES"

A large audience was present at the White Temple this morning to hear Dr. W. B. Riley's sermon on "Speaking in Unknown Tongues." At noon today he spoke at the Baker theatre on the subject, "The Asininity of Atheism," and this afternoon he addressed a meeting for women only at the White Temple on the topic, "A Wife and Mother—A Model in Both." Tonight Dr. Riley's theme at the White Temple will be "The Shameless Scoundrels in the Church."

Tomorrow morning at the 8 o'clock service he will speak on the subject, "Divine Healing vs. Christian Science." At the Baker theatre tomorrow noon the subject for discussion will be "The Theory of Evolution Untenable," and tomorrow night he will speak on "The Man Who Is Afraid to Make a Start." In speaking this morning on "Unknown Tongues," by way of introduction, the speaker reminded his audience that Athens was no longer distinguished because "her citizens and the strangers sojourning there spent their time in nothing else but either to tell or hear some new thing." Almost every American city in the capital of a new cult. Such men as Sanford in Maine, Russell in Allegheny, Dowie in Chicago, and such sisters as Mrs. Eddy in Boston, have made themselves famous, if not immortal, by publishing fads of faith. However, every new faith is not to be condemned simply because it is new. This supposed gift of the tongues ought to be subjected to Bible study and either received or rejected according as approved or disapproved by the word. The Old Testament knows no gift of tongues. The express promise of the New Testament appears in a disputed passage, and yet for one I believe that the passage is genuine and that the promise is genuine. However, Paul gives it a place of minor significance. Of all the gifts it is the last mentioned, and, according to his own teaching in the 14th chapter of I Corinthians, of least significance. Many people who profess it do not possess any tongues at all. What they have is a peep and a mutter. An old man in Spokane professes to have 85 tongues and dialects. That is the only instance of prodigality on the part of the spirit which I have ever known. Not one of these is he putting to any special use. A woman in Seattle got up in one of my meetings there and professed to have been given the gift of the Chinese and Japanese tongues, and yet, inasmuch as the Chinese and Japanese pastors were present, she was unable to give a solitary word of either. There are people professing to have new tongues who never had the old one. What on earth folks who will not bear witness to Jesus Christ in English want with a new tongue I can't imagine. I am extremely anxious that the devil should not palm off on God's people a spurious article as from the spirit.

CAMERON SOON TO ASSUME NEW DUTIES

District Attorney Manning will leave Wednesday for Denver, where he will mix in the excitement of the Democratic national convention. For several days thereafter Deputy Adams is expected to be the head of the district attorney's office, as George J. Cameron will not assume his new duties until July 6, the legal day for the inauguration of the new administration.

Interest centers around the appointment of a municipal judge to succeed Cameron. It is generally considered that Mayor Lane will name John Van Zante for the place, though it is also reported that Isaac Swett, an attorney of whom the mayor has always had a good opinion, stands an equally good chance for the position.

The judgeship pays $150 a month and the clerkship $100. Deputy District Attorneys Haney and Stevenson will be free when the Cameron administration begins in the district attorney's office, and it is intimated that the latter will be made clerk of the municipal court.

ORDINANCE WILL DEFINE AMUSEMENT

Deputy City Auditor Joe Hutchinson is preparing a defining ordinance classifying theatres and amusement parks which will be presented to the council shortly. At the present time the amusement places are jumbled into several classes with the result that there is always more or less difficulty in collecting the city licenses. As contemplated at the present time the defining ordinance will divide theatres into about three classes and the amusement parks into about four classes. Steps are also being considered by City Building Inspector Dobson as to the best way to revise the present fire ordinance regulating the construction and operation of theatres.

Deer Island Man Dies.

St. Helens, Or., June 30.—Patrick Hughes, 70 years of age, a resident of Deer Island for more than 30 years, died today after a short illness. He was a member of St. Helens Lodge No. 32, F. & A. M., which will conduct the funeral at Deer Island Wednesday at 1 o'clock. Mr. Hughes was unmarried and had no relatives on this coast as far as is known.

BEAUTIFUL NEW HOME OF MUSIC

GRAVES MUSIC CO. HAVE PROBABLY ENJOYED THE MOST PHENOMENAL GROWTH OF ANY INSTITUTION OF ITS KIND.

Fred W. Graves, president and manager, less than 10 years ago started in business about one block from the present location—at 285 Alder street—in a room 13x45 feet. The stock at that time consisted of less than $200 worth of small goods and a few pianos.

After being there a year, a larger store was leased at 128 Sixth street to accommodate the fast-growing business.

Seven years ago while conducting the Sixth street store Mr. Graves bought out the entire stock of the Wiley B. Allen Co., consisting of sheet music, band instruments, etc.

In 1903 on account of the erection of a new building he was forced to move to the then only available location at 328 Washington street. Three years ago Graves Music Co. was incorporated and a limited amount of stock was sold.

Upon the completion of their splendid new quarters in the Couch building, 111 Fourth street, about a month ago, they moved from the Washington street location and are now firmly established in their new home.

A visit to Graves Music Co., 111 Fourth street, just north of Washington, will convince the most skeptical—if indeed there are any who doubt—that Portland enjoys the distinction of having the largest and most beautiful, most convenient and best equipped music store in the west. Situated as it is just a few steps from the main thoroughfare of the city—Washington street—it would be the height of folly to have any less pretentious quarters.

MAGNIFICENTLY FINISHED.

One is at once favorably impressed upon entering the store by the genuine beauty and tasty arrangement, as the color scheme is splendidly worked out, the ceiling being tinted a beautiful cream frescoed in gold. The wainscoting and woodwork is of select Oregon fir highly polished. The offices and store throughout is newly furnished in weathered oak fixtures.

SECTION OF SMALL GOODS DEPARTMENT GRAVES' MUSIC CO.'S NEW QUARTERS.

Here probably more floor space is devoted to the sale of music and musical instruments than anywhere west of Chicago. The store has a frontage on Fourth street of 50 feet and is 100 feet long. This in itself makes 5,000 square feet, but it is not all, as a mezzanine floor containing nearly 3,000 square feet has been built for the main office, talking machine rooms and classical music room. The main ceiling is 20 feet high, and from the mezzanine floor it is nine feet high.

SPLENDIDLY VENTILATED.

The ventilating and lighting of this splendid musical Emporium is one of its attractive features, nothing having been spared to insure comfort to customers and employes. It is indeed a treat to step in from the heat of the street to the cool and inviting salesrooms and talking machine parlors.

30,000 STOCK OF CLASSICS.

The classical music department under the supervision of Miss L. Townsend contains a stock of 30,000 sheets—both vocal and instrumental—besides the complete Schirmer library, John Church library, Woods library, Oliver Ditson musicians' library, Presser's library and in fact almost every known musical library of any consequence. Here can be found Birk's Books complete, and every system of teaching used by all successful music teachers in every branch. This room is 35x40 feet and is equipped with a splendid grand piano for demonstration purposes.

The popular music stock is situated on the main floor to the left of the entrance, and contains thousands of the latest hits of the day. It is agreeably surprising and pleasing to note how quickly a sheet music order is filled here—no waiting—no delays—the alphabetic compartments, of which there are about 2,500, do away with the tedious sorting and subsequent confusion.

PHONOGRAPH ROOMS.

One room on the main floor is devoted entirely to the sale of the famous Victor "Red Seal" Records, hundreds of which are constantly in stock. Another is used exclusively for the latest and greatest disc talking machine on the market—The Zon-O-Phone—and the matchless "scratchless" Zon-O-Phone Records, declared by experts and connoisseurs to be the height of perfection and about 15,000 of which are always in stock.

On the mezzanine floor are the individual record rooms, where hundreds of Edison and Victor records are played daily. These rooms are large enough to accommodate a number of people comfortably, and are elegantly rugged and tinted. Here will be found probably the largest stock of Edison Records outside of the Edison factory—300,000 being the estimated stock—embracing everything known to the Phonograph world—vocal and instrumental—classical and popular—dialect and impersonations.

A complete catalogue of Victor Records is insurance against the annoying "sorry but we are just out of that number," which is so often heard in stores with a smaller stock. This department is under the direction of Mr. H. F. Bendix, late of New York City.

PIANO STOCK.

The Piano stock is one of which any store might justly be proud. It includes the matchless Sohmer, New York's greatest piano, the old reliable Hallet & Davis, the genuine Smith & Barnes, and other makes of equal merit—grands and uprights. Some of these have individual display rooms, one of which is devoted entirely to second-hand pianos—pianos which have been out on rent or slightly marred in some way, many of which can hardly be told from new after coming from the polishing and repair department. A number of Players are also on exhibition, including some of the famous "88" Note Players. Mr. Chas. A. Eyles, one of the foremost piano salesmen in the country, but lately from St. Louis, has become affiliated with this company as manager of this department.

SMALL GOODS.

It is doubtful if in all America can be found such a varied and complete stock of high-class small goods. The famous C. F. Martin Guitars and Mandolins, the standard of the world, which are always in demand, are here in every grade. The Mayflower guitars and mandolins are a line less known but nevertheless much in demand, as also are the Rex and Del Monte lines. Here also is a complete stock of the world-famous S. S. Stewart Banjos, universally pronounced the best. Graves are the direct importers of the famous Buffet and also Kohlert Clarinets and needless to say, their stock of these instruments is all that could be asked for. The C. G. Conn line of band instruments, which is one of the leaders, needs no introduction to the Portland public, as they are probably the most talked of instruments in America. The Brisson & Cie Band Instruments of Paris, while not so well known, are nevertheless equally meritorious. They are the jobbing importers of the world famous Hohmer Harmonicas and Accordions, also Gundel's Excelsior Accordions. As in the past, Mr. Perry C. Graves continues to be associated with Mr. Graves Sr. as vice-president and assistant general manager and his attention will probably be devoted largely to their very extensive wholesale interests. Mr. Seth J. Story, who has charge of this department, is a well-known thorough musician and his connection with it insures a first class complete stock and expert attention.

Space will not permit a more detailed description of this splendid musical emporium nor could all the facts be impressed upon you. The best and most satisfactory way is to see for yourself—call during the grand opening, which will be held Thursday and Friday, July 2 and 3, when useful and appropriate souvenirs will be presented to the ladies and children and a welcome extended to the men as well. Orchestra from 2 to 5 o'clock.

PORTLAND 4TH HEADACHE CURE

City Will Be Quiet as Graveyard—Sizzling Celebrations Elsewhere.

The Fourth of July will indeed be a quiet fourth—a sane fourth, some people call it; no fourth at all, others call it. In Portland there will be no money to burn and those who want to see cash go up in smoke will have to go out of the city. In town, people will sit quietly by and dream of the days when the patriots fought for independence. Some may get out the constitution of the United States of America and read it over, or may declaim to an admiring audience of one's family the old but ever new Declaration of Independence.

Many of the neighboring towns are to indulge in the usual noisy celebrations, though to read their glaring posters you would think they were all unusual. In the parks in the suburbs will be celebrations conducted by lodges or societies; but there will be no grand display of patriotism through fire in Portland. Many profess to be glad.

From last year's celebration fund some $500 or $600 was left over and placed in the hands of a committee for use at some future celebration. The committee consists of General Owen Summers, H. H. Newhall, A. B. Steinbach and Lee Clark. An effort is being made to persuade the committee to appropriate a portion of this toward having the customary salute fired—13 guns at sunrise for the original 13 colonies, and 46 at high noon for the present states. This would requre about a fifth of the reserve fund for the powder and the expense of the teams.

The military men feel strongly that this custom at least should be observed, as it is observed at every military post, at the expense of the government in many cases.

A number of lesser celebrations will be held at various points about the city. The Catholics are to have a big picnic with races and the usual attractions at Hawthorne park. At Rockwood, on the Base Line road, the grange will conduct a celebration with all the features of the day. The Oaks will have many special features for that day for the enjoyment of the public. Among the neighboring towns that will celebrate, Vancouver looms up big with the largest celebration that has ever been given there. The W. O. W. lodge will conduct it and the Portland Woodmen have chartered four cars to leave here at 8:35, 9:10 and 9:55 for Vancouver.

Clatskanie, Sheridan with which McMinnville will join, Oregon City and several others towns will celebrate in the old fashion. Many of Portland's people are planning to spend a quiet day in the woods and many family picnics are planned for the day. Seaside will command a large crowd from Portland. Altogether the city promises to be rather deserted than otherwise on the great and glorious fourth.
