A prominent wedding of the late season was celebrated last night when Miss Ethel May Lytle and John Waters Booths were married at the Grace Methodist church. Dr. William H. Grace read the service. Prior to the ceremony from the Lakme quartet which the bride is a member, gave a delightful half-hour concert with Mrs. Warren E. Thomas at the organ. Mrs. Walter Reed then sang and immediately after the Lakme quartet led the bridal party into the church singing the bridal hymn from "Lohengrin," Miss Nettie Greer Taylor, a former member of the quartet, substituted for the bride. The church was beautifully decorated in pink and green. About the altar was a bank of palms interspersed with bouquets of pink sweetpeas. The aisles were lined with bouquets of sweetpeas at each pew. Pink tulle instead of white ribbons was used in the reserved seats and gave a pretty effect.

The ushers were Dr. Homer I. Kenney, George H. Street, R. P. Mayer and Lloyd Ered, and F. M. Grannis was the best man. The bride was crowned beautifully in white messaline satin trimmed with princess lace and wore a long veil interwoven with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white roses. The matron of honor was Mrs. Walter Chown and she wore pale green chiffon and carried white sweetpeas. The bridesmaids, Miss Ethel Miller and Dr. Frank Lucille Hard of Eugene wore pink chiffon and carried white sweetpeas. The little flower girl, Marion James, wore a pink mull frock and carried a basket of pink sweetpeas. The quartet members, Mrs. May Dearborne Schwab, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Petronella Connolly and Mrs. W. A. T. Bushong, were all in white.

An informal reception followed at the Lytle home on the east side for the bridal party only. The house was decorated with pink sweetpeas. Mr. and Mrs. Booths left on a trip to the south and will later be at home at 551 East Taylor street. Mrs. Booths's position as one of the leading sopranos of the city gives her a good deal of prominence. Mr. Booths was originally from New York.

Mrs. Gay Lombard was hostess yesterday afternoon with a charming affair.

MANY WOMEN HEAR DR. RILEY'S ADDRESS

In spite of the intense heat of yesterday the evangelistic meetings being conducted by Messrs. Riley and Martin abated in nothing but increased interest and attendance at every point. At the early hour of 8 o'clock this morning the White Temple was well filled with eager listeners to the sermon on "Divine Healing vs. Christian Science."

Many had expressed grave apprehension that the Baker theatre at the noon hour would be a disappointment to the evangelist and meager in attendance. On the contrary, a magnificent crowd gathered to hear Dr. Riley's first noonday address on the "Asininity of Atheism."

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock while the sun was beating hotly upon the streets, women wended their way to the White Temple almost filling it, to hear the sermon on "A Wife and Mother—A Model in Both." And last night again the audience was much increased over Monday night.

The services of tomorrow will be an 8 o'clock meeting at which Dr. Riley will discuss the home. "The Second Coming of Christ." At noon tomorrow his theme will be "The Scientific Accuracy of the Scriptures" and tomorrow night his subject will be "The Solution of Your Every Difficulty." Tonight he will speak at the White Temple on the special topic, "The Man Who is Afraid to Make a Start."

A large audience gathered at the Baker theatre at noon today to hear the second of the noonday addresses, at which time Dr. Riley discussed the subject, "The Theory of Evolution Untenable."

In his sermon to women yesterday Dr. Riley said in part: "The chief grace of affection is woman's chief grace. It is her right to feel it and after the marriage altar is past to express it. She can do this for the highest of person, care of her home and children and by frank expression as well. Whether in the home or in the church, women will be privileged to do the courting ever comes to pass so far as simple women are concerned, this is already the privilege of women living in the marriage relation. To keep it up is to hearten and encourage the husband."

COURT APPROVES ESTATE ACCOUNTING

Judge Webster, in the county court, has approved the final report of the executrix and executors of the estate of W. B. Ladd, which has been in the course of probate for about 18 years. The report does not approximate the value of the estate, only stating that it is in excess of the amount of claims charged against those in charge of the property, this amount being $5,679,979. The order approving the report recites the provisions of the will and the disposition of the property to the heirs, Caroline A. Ladd, William M. Ladd, Charles E. Ladd, John Wesley Ladd, Helen Ladd Corbett and Caroline Ames Ladd Pratt. The first named is the widow and the others are the children.

TOWN TOPICS.

Again the bad-check artist is abroad and raising money from confiding persons. Henry Otto, 41 years old, is wanted for passing worthless checks. He was captured on Walter O. Keady, 286 Washington street. He obtained $20 on the strength of the document. Another man who is on the want list is a gentleman who has been spending on numerous automobile rides the money he obtained by having bogus checks passed.

A tale of a faithless boarder was related in the municipal court this morning by Mike Dulach of 617 Guild avenue, who swore to a statutory charge, naming his wife and Frank Belarski, the boarder, an employee of the Oregon City paper mills, as defendants. Dulach declares that Belarski threatened to kill both the woman and her husband if she became a ward into his care.

The Catholic parishes of St. Francis, Sacred Heart and St. Stevens will hold a picnic at Hawthorne Park the fourth of July. Holy Wallace McCann, of this city will deliver the patriotic address of the day. A fine musical program has been assured by a musical committee which has secured De Caprio's band for the day.

W. T. Jones, the son of the Clackamas street contractor, was given the bid to which the leader of the fortuitous bid at the recent Catholic Convention was entitled.

MANTELL HAS NEW THEORY FOR CONSERVING ABILITY OF ACTORS

Robert Mantell, although he doesn't pretend to have found a vocation for ex-presidents, has come to the front with a suggestion for retired actors. He says he would have them on the staff of the much-talked-of "New Theatre" to teach the youngsters the art that they themselves learned from Booth, Irving and Barrett.

"There are a great many actors of ability whose art will be lost unless some such measure is adopted," said Mantell yesterday afternoon. "I can name at least a dozen who have been on the stage now for 30 years or more and who in that time although they have made large fortunes have failed to save enough to live comfortably now. It is time for them to retire."

The "New Theatre" would be just the place for them. Louis James, Frederick Ward, Sothorn, Otis Skinner, Kyle Bell, William H. Crane, Herbert Kealey, are all men of distinguished abilities. They are masters of the art of acting in at least some of its phases. But the time has come when they are thinking of retirement. It is unfortunate that their knowledge should not be conserved and kept as part of the traditions that will accrue to the "New Theatre."

Mr. Mantell is rather pessimistic over the young actors. He says he can't find any himself who satisfy him. He has been looking for good people for his company and although he considers his present support excellent, the individual members are far from being ideal.

He believes in the stock system to a limited extent, but declares it is responsible for most of the careless and slovenly work found on the stage at present.

"It makes the actors improvise to an unbelievable degree," said he. "After four or five years of stock they think their own reading is better than that of anyone else. They learn the sense of a part and put in words to suit themselves. It may be Shakespeare, or it may be Helasco that they misuse but that matters little. They always endeavor to improve upon the author."

Mr. Mantell himself is almost a fanatic on careful use of the dramatist's words. Monday night in "Leah" he lost a sentence while addressing Kent on the health, during the storm. Nobody noticed it possibly excepting Mr. Mantell but it caused him as much annoyance as another actor might suffer from forgetting his part entirely.
