WEDDING CERTIFICATE TORN UP IN HIS RAGE

Patched-Up Document Shown by Wife Seeking a Divorce —Nine Couples Secured Legal Separation Before Judge Bronough This Morning.

Two to one was the ratio of wives to husbands who secured divorces in the circuit court this morning. It was Judge Bronaugh's turn to listen to the changing stories of the woes of married life, in which the saloon, laziness and bad temper were blamed as the moving causes. In all nine decrees were granted. One case went over because of a defect in the complaint, making it necessary for Mrs. May Bettis to start over again in her effort to be freed from C. W. Bettis.

In one case the testimony showed the destruction of the marriage certificate, one husband being so moved by rage and a desire to forget that he tore up the only legal evidence they possessed of their marriage. The license, torn into shreds and afterward pasted together in something like its original form, was exhibited in court. It was torn up by Bert Gleason, while his bride of three months, Mrs. Aimee Gleason, was in the hospital. She was married in Vancouver, Wash., in September, 1904, and she charges that he left her in December of the same year. She will resume her maiden name of Aimee Ma Loire.

Married Life Was Stormy.

After a stormy married life extending over 18 months, Mrs. Lizzie B. Carson took the stand to tell of cruel treatment by her husband, J. G. Carson. Nothing was said concerning another suit recently dropped in which Leroy H. C. Hadley was defendant and Carson was plaintiff, in which the husband claimed $25,000 for alienation of his wife's affections. A few days ago the damage case was dismissed by agreement and the way was cleared for granting the divorce to Mrs. Carson, her husband making no defense. She was married in San Francisco on December 28, 1906, and within four months, according to the testimony of the wife, Carson's temper moved him to knock her down. She said Carson also struck her mother and used many bad names. She was granted permission to resume her maiden name, Lizzie B. Higbee.

Perhaps the shortest case on record is that of W. C. Cutbirth against Emma E. Cutbirth, the case having been started only yesterday. On both sides there was a desire to be free, and the defendant promptly came in with a refusal to plead further. That made the case ready for trial, and little time was lost in cutting the knot. This is the second time the Cutbirths have been divorced. First they were married in San Francisco in 1892. In 1905 Cutbirth secured a divorce on the ground of desertion, the same charge on which he again made good today. He said he hoped they could live happily after the first divorce, so he married her again, but it was no use. She left him the last time in April, 1907. An 8-year-old child was awarded to the father.

"No account and lazy," was the description of George E. Snyder given by Mrs. Bertha Snyder, who married him in Spokane on Christmas day, 1901. She said he refused to work and let her support him, even taking food from the plate of their hungry child to satisfy his appetite. He also struck her and called her bad names, she said.

Too Lazy to Work.

Another lazy husband, whose dislike for work caused trouble is Charles Edward Tempest, according to Mrs. Charlotte Tempest. They were married in Grand Rapids, Mich., in October, 1884, and the wife charged that she was deserted in March, 1907. She said her husband twice before deserted her when she was sick, leaving her to be cared for by neighbors for months at a time. Six months ago she invited him to come and live with her, she said, but he refused.

John W. Toole testified that Etta D. Toole has been living under another name since she left him in 1905. She is in Sunnyside, Wash. They were married at Ontario, Or., in 1898.

Mrs. Edith Hulit said that when her husband left her in April, 1907, he took the furniture and tried to sell her cow. L. V. Hulit, the defendant, is a photographer. They were married in July, 1906, in Vancouver, Wash.

Benjamin F. Dennis was more devoted to the consumption of wet goods than to her, according to the testimony of Mrs. Julia Dennis. She said he was intoxicated most of the time for two years. They were married in Sacramento in 1893 and Mrs. Dennis began making her own way in June, 1906.

Desertion was the ground alleged by Mrs. Barbara Greene against Harry G. reMene, to whom she was married in January, 1894. She said her husband left her in 11 months without cause.

PROHIBITION LAWS ALL WRONG

Vienna University Professor Believes Americans Are Only Adding to Evil.

"Prohibition is all right for you Americans, perhaps, but it is mighty hard on us Europeans traveling in this country," said Dr. Adolf Cluss of Vienna at the Hotel Portland this morning.

Dr. Cluss bears a special commission from the minister of agriculture of Austria-Hungary and is making a tour of the United States and Canada for the purpose of investigating the existing industrial conditions and incidentally inspecting the breweries and other manufactories where spirits are made. When Dr. Cluss was in Washington several months ago he presented his credentials to Secretary of State Root and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, and was also presented to President Roosevelt. Dr. Cluss was taken to the White House by Baron Ambrozy, first assistant secretary to the Austrian embassy. At home, Dr. Cluss is a professor in the Vienna university and has charge of all questions pertaining to agriculture.

American Way All Wrong.

"I believe that the American way of handling the liquor traffic is all wrong and that it has had the effect of keeping many Europeans at home who would otherwise come to the states to see the sights and travel throughout the land," Dr. Cluss said further.

"When a European comes to this country he finds the conditions he has been accustomed to in eating and drinking reversed. At home one cannot eat without drinking, you might say, but over here one is often compelled to take his meals without liquor and on account of the laws often forced to do without his usual drink for days.

"It is a most extraordinary state of affairs. On a train sometimes it is utterly impossible to have light wine or even beer served with your meals. And not only that, but if one happens to stop off at some of the smaller cities or towns he often finds himself marooned, you might say, and without a drink in the world.

"And these Sunday closing laws in the city! They are most extraordinary. Portland is closed on the Sabbath, I understand. I shall only be here a day or two.

"But of course most of the larger cities are different. Eventually the European in the United States will only touch at the larger cities. In New York, one is all right. Or in New Orleans, the European gets along splendidly. And in San Francisco, the European is at home.

San Francisco is a most wonderful city. I like it. I was there for weeks. A European could live there and almost feel that he was at home. And New York and New Orleans are all right, too. But we Europeans are a little shy on the other cities of the country, where the laws concerning the closing of grog shops are more stringent."

Dr. Cluss explained the system of which the Europeans are accustomed to and where there is a great deal of moderate drinking, almost no drunkenness, and where the liquor consumed is taken almost altogether with one's meals. It is the laws, the saloon of a poorer class and the poor whiskey combined that raises an important question that the American has to confront and which will be more important with him in the years to come, Dr. Cluss contends.

Dr. Cluss speaks four languages fluently. He goes from Portland to Seattle, then to Vancouver, British Columbia, thence to the Yellowstone Park and east on his way home.

80 NEW CARS FOR OREGON ELECTRIC

Fine Equipment Ordered—Crowd Line Into Forest Grove This Season.

Important additions are to be made to the equipment of the Oregon Electric railway within the next 30 or 60 days. General Manager Guy Talbot has just returned from the east, where he purchased about 80 modern cars of various kinds for service on the electric lines.

The purchase included 30 boxcars, 30 flatcars, 10 stockcars, six coaches, two mail and express cars and a number of ballast cars. The equipment was bought at Chicago, Philadelphia and Niles, Mich. The shops are at the present time running slack and will be able to turn out the desired equipment immediately.

The new coaches ordered are full coaches and have no smoker, express or baggage compartments. They are of the most modern type and fully up to the company's standard of equipment.

The two express and baggage cars purchased are in anticipation of business that is rapidly developing along the line. It is expected that within a short period the government will require the distribution of mail along the route between Portland and Salem. Until such time the cars will be used principally for express.

"Times are improving slowly in the east, and the improvement all over the country is shown in the increasing number of inquiries received at the offices of car building companies," said Mr. Talbot. "They say they are in receipt of constantly increasing letters asking for estimates and bids, and it is expected that within a short time business activity all over the country will be resumed on a gratifying basis. The shops are at the present time not busy, and will deliver our new equipment promptly."

Extension of the Oregon Electric will be pushed at once to Hillsboro and Forest Grove. Construction of the line from Garden Home to Hillsboro is well along, and rights of way have been secured to Hillsboro with the exception of two or three small pieces of land that are now being condemned. The sum of $6,000 has been subscribed by interested citizens in and around Forest Grove to provide terminals and rights of way for an extension of the Oregon Electric to Forest Grove. It is practically settled that the road will be built this year to that city.

FIRECRACKERS GET TWO INTO TROUBLE

One day ahead of the Fourth, Halbert McElroy was arrested at Park and Morrison streets yesterday for discharging firecrackers. The officer reports that as several children were playing nearby the firecrackers were a positive menace.

Roberts took the boy to the patrol box to summon the municipal carry-all, and here G. C. Bell got into trouble. He inquired what right the policeman had to arrest the boy and was told to move on. He did not move, so when the patrol wagon left for the police station Bell was also a passenger.

In the municipal court this morning both McElroy and Bell were released on their own recognizance and the cases continued for sentence.

DECIDE TONIGHT ON CHURCH UNION

State Conference of United Brethren to Discuss Question at Rally.

The state conference of the United Brethren in Christ in session at the First church, corner East Morrison and East Fifteenth streets, will hold the most important meeting of the conference this evening which will be the union rally, attended by ministers and laymen of all of the churches now considering union and addressed by leading ministers of these denominations. Rev. H. C. Shafer, who has been absent from the city for some months on account of ill health, is expected to be present. Bishop Bell will make one of the addresses of the evening.

Yesterday afternoon the devotionals were led by Rev. J. M. Kipson of Eugene. At the business session Rev. C. E. Cline of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city was made an advisory member of the conference. The names of Rev. Beer and Rev. Spiecher were referred to the committee on conference relations. The names of the local ministers were passed.

The meeting was addressed by J. H. Leeper of the National Reform league, who spoke against Sunday amusements. Bishop Bell spoke in favor of church union, regretting the competition of so many small churches which are essentially uniform in belief and in method.

Last evening Dr. Funk of Dayton, Ohio, gave a lecture on "The Possibilities of Africa," in which after showing the natural resources of the country he commented upon the leading traits of the African people themselves, denoting them as "straight backboned people, capable of bearing heavy burdens," and commented upon their remarkably retentive memory and their eagerness to learn.

Conference opened this morning at 9 o'clock and Bishop Bell continued his discourse on "The Utility of Christian Experience." Reports were heard from different parts of the state, showing the work to be in a good condition. Dr. Funk addressed the conference in behalf of educational interests and reported that the circulation of the literature of the church is growing until now it has reached fourth place in the United States.

NEIGHBORHOOD ROW CAMERON'S LAST CASE

Municipal Judge Takes Up Work of the District Attorney Next Monday.

George J. Cameron sat upon the wool sack of the municipal court for the last time this morning. He takes the oath as district attorney Monday.

The announcement of the appointment by Mayor Lane of Isaac Swett as municipal judge is predicted notwithstanding the fact that a few days ago John Van Zante was believed to have the field all to himself. Judge Cameron called on the mayor this morning to tell him that he would quit the bench today.

Speculation is rife as to the new clerk of the court in the event of Swett's appointment to the judgeship.

Judge Cameron's last case was that of F. C. Lynds, who was charged by a Mrs. Bennett with allowing his lowing kine to run at large. Judge Cameron has heard many scores of neighborhood rows aired at great length while he has sat upon the bench, and this was the curtain call. All the neighbors at East Twenty-second and Taggart were interested, apparently. Lynds was discharged, but it is understood a complaint of keeping vicious dogs will be filed against him.

BOY BURGLARS CAUGHT IN STORE

Youngsters Six and Seven Years Old Break Into Fish Market.

Having received a report that a burglary was going on at a fish market at 640 First street, Detectives Baty, Inskeep and Hawley drew their revolvers and made their way through the dense crowd of excited Italians swarming about the store, stole inside with fearful tread and caught——

Two boy burglars, aged six and seven years.

The youngsters, Sol Steinberg, aged six, 645 First street and Elmer Fuller, 208½ Sheridan street, had cut a hole a foot square in the screen across the side window. Entrance was easy after that, but the rumor had spread through the neighborhood, on the border of the Sheridan street "Little Italy," that the store was being robbed. It was 8 o'clock in the evening, not yet dark, and "Little Italy" turned out en masse to witness the excitement.

Patrolman Lytle had already fought his way inside and had the boys in charge.

"We wanted to get the money," they told the detectives with brazen faces, not realizing the enormity of their crime. Tomorrow is the Fourth of July, and the youngsters were after firecracker money. The shop is owned by Koessel & Frey.

After questioning the boys the detectives concluded they were too young to understand what they had tried to do.

The youngsters were given a severe reprimand, and allowed to go home.

NEW PERKINS HOTEL FORMALLY OPENED

Hundreds of Persons Visit Elegantly-Finished Rooms During the Evening.

The New Perkins, which has been remodeled and made one of the most attractive hotels on the Pacific coast, during the last four months at an expense of $200,000, all of which was accomplished without closing for business, was formally opened last night, and hundreds of persons took advantage of the occasion to inspect the building and rooms and enjoy the music, the illumination and the decorations of thousands of flowers.

Every room has been made as though new, the building refurnished throughout, hardwood floors put down everywhere, the office changed and the grill transformed into a veritable fairly land, where an electric fountain plays at night and hundreds of tiny incandescent lights enhance the scene made so fascinating by the old English furniture and surroundings in general. The grill is really delightful and one of the prettiest and most elegantly furnished in the western country.

An orchestra played throughout the evening and a special menu was served.

ACCEPT PLAN FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Albina Structure Will Be of Brick, Three Stories in Height.

An award was made this morning by the school board of the plans for the construction of the proposed new high school building for the Northeastern or Albina high school. The firm of Whitehouse & Honeyman drew the prize and their plans will be used.

There were 11 competitors in the contest and three prizes were awarded in addition to the successful plan which is to be used. The winner of the first prize of $500 was T. J. Jones, of the second prize of $300 was Kable & Kable, of the third prize of $200 was McNaughton, Raymond & Lawrence.

According to the plans as adopted the new building will be composed of brick and will be three stories in height with a basement. In the basement besides the furnaces and general basement space found in the other schools will be a large gymnasium. The building is patterned after the well-known "H" plan, except that there is an additional wing in the relative location occupied by the middle projection in the capital letter "E." It is in this additional wing that the gymnasium and the assembly halls are to be located. Beginning with the basement is found the ground floor of the gymnasium. On the first floor is the gallery of the gymnasium.

The assembly hall is immediately over the gymnasium on the second floor, while the gallery to the hall is on the third floor. The seating capacity of the main hall will be 825 while the gallery is designed to accommodate 525.

The first two floors of the building will contain 12 class rooms each, while on the third or top floor of the structure will be the laboratories, the schools of domestic science and manual training and the halls for the use of literary societies.

The new school is to be constructed at a maximum cost of $250,000 and is being erected at this time to take the strain off the present two high schools of the west and east sides. Just as the east side high school was erected to ease the strain upon the old west side school so is the proposed building for the accommodation of the surplus from both of these existent buildings.

Already the two high schools are running over full of pupils and the rapid growth of the city has made it necessary to provide an additional high school in order to accommodate the large classes that are being sent out from the grammar schools into the high school classes. Bids for the erection of the new building will be asked for immediately.

It is announced that the new owners, one of whom is L. B. Menefee, formerly of Texas, and already the owner of considerable Portland Heights property, will have the tract laid out with a view to selling the lots and residence sites to purchasers able to build the better class of homes.

The sale was made through the agency of Humason & Jeffery. Associated with them in the deal was D. E. Keasey, who operates extensively in Portland Heights property.
