

SOCIETY

There was a quiet Fourth spent here yesterday. Crowds of people went down to the seaside for the day. A number went to the mountains for a few days, others merely went into the country for the day on picnicking expeditions. In town the Waverly club was, perhaps, the most popular resort, and the scene there in the evening was a gay one.

People are leaving in such crowds for the seashore for the summer that outside from the entertaining among the girls just home from school there is little being done in the social line. These homecomers, by the way, are enjoying to their full the home reunions.

The prominent wedding of the week was that of Miss Ethel Lytle and John Watson Booth, who were married Tuesday evening at the Grace Methodist church, with a pretty ceremony. A detailed account of the wedding was published the following day. Mrs. Booth is one of the leading sopranos of the town, and is a member of the First Presbyterian choir and a member of the Lakme quartet, under Mrs. Warren E. Chapman, and the Tuba Club and the Tuesday Afternoon clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Reed.

Washington, Idaho and Montana and closed their season—a signally successful one—at Tonawanda. They then returned over the same ground, spending a good deal of time on route.

Miss Louise Carey was hostess with one of the prettiest lawn teas of the summer Thursday afternoon at the charming Riverside home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. C. H. Carey. Her sister, Miss Alice, who has just returned from Dana Hall preparatory at Wellesley, received with Miss Carey and her mother. Mrs. Carey wore white and Miss Carey was charming in pale blue batiste, and Miss Alice in an ecru mull frock. About 70 guests called, and among them were many college and boarding school girls home for the summer. The effect of the high summer frocks, parasols and picture hats was delightfully pretty. Tea was served under the trees by Miss Irene Brandes, a Talented Young Pianist.

The younger set is looking forward eagerly to the Pi Delta Kappa convalescence which will be held here this week. There are two chapters here, one is the High school and one in the academy, and they number some of the most popular of the students and former students. The social functions include the opening reception of delegates Monday afternoon at the Commercial club, a reception in the evening at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Charlton on Portland Heights for the fat men and their friends, a trip to the Columbia Tuesday with a picnic supper with the Omega Nu sorority as hosts, a stag banquet at the Commercial club the same evening, a grand ball at the new Masonic hall Friday night. The D.K. sorority will also entertain for them, Saturday evening, will be spent at The Oaks as the manager's guests. The invitations that have been sent out for the fraternal entertainment all bear the emblem embossed in white and gold.

The annual dance of the Portland Academy alumni Friday evening at the new Masonic temple was a delightful affair. There was a large attendance, especially of the younger crowd who are just home from boarding school or college. The hall presented a charming appearance with only an avenue of palms before the rostrum for decoration. Parson's orchestra, directed by Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. W. R. Mackenzie, Mrs. Harriet K. McArthur, Mrs. Vera Snow, Mrs. E. C. Gault, Mrs. Richard Koehler, Mrs. J. G. Gault, Mrs. S. W. Church, Mrs. James F. Ewing, Mrs. Goodwin Thacher, Mrs. B. A. Thacher, Mrs. Henry Biddle, and Miss Jewel.

Lewis, Miss Maurice Dooley, Max Wood, Harold Wells, Harry Felling, Kenneth Beebe, Chester Murphy, Anton LaBelle, Tom Robertson, Bruce Honeyman, William Warrens and Mrs. William Warrens as chaperone.

The table was set with garden phlox, gladioli, and Mrs. Voorhies' friends, Gordon Voorhies, Mrs. W. S. Ladd, Mrs. Henry E. Jones, Mrs. Holt C. Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, Mrs. Martha Hoyt, Mrs. Rodney Gilman, Mrs. Arthur C. Minott and Mrs. Howard Martha.

An amateur play written by Miss Harriet Clinton was given by the members of the Fidelity Esperanto club at the home of Mrs. S. A. Ladd last Sunday evening. The cast included Miss Dorothy and Miss Eleanor Clinton, Miss Mabel and Mrs. L. E. Lewis in pale blue lawn, served by Younger girls, Catherine and Louise Simmons, Sally Hart, Evelyn Carey and Helen Goode, assisted them.

Mrs. Robert Hall entertained Saturday afternoon a week ago with seven tables of bridge. Later a number of her young friends came in for tea. The dining room was beautiful with yellow corceps.

The other parlor was done in pink, as was the dining-room. Just above the bride's table was suspended a parasol of roses tied with ribbon streamers reaching to each plate.
