

FINAL BOLTS RIVETED NORTH BANK'S HUGE STEEL BRIDGE ACROSS WILLAMETTE

Work on the Steel Bridge of the North Bank Road Was Practically Completed Yesterday. The Structure Is Now Ready for the Rails. View of Structure Taken From St. Johns Side of River.

Final bolts are being set in the Willamette river bridge of the north bank road, and the big structure will within a few days be ready for track laying. The spans of the bridge, excepting the drawspan, are now practically completed, although some false work remains to be taken out from the east end of the bridge. It is said the structure will be ready for operation of trains into Portland by August 1, or very soon thereafter. This is one of the best bridges in the United States. It is strongly built of steel, with concrete and stone piers, and a very heavy draw pier, the drawspan being one of the longest in the world. In spanning the channel for the bridge it was stipulated that the drawspan should be extra long, providing a wide channel for seagoing vessels.

The deep cut through the east Portland peninsula is rapidly approaching completion, and is now being deepened enough excepting at a point near the center, for the water level grade of the Hill system's new entrance into Portland. At the west end, there remains a small amount of fill to be completed before the tracks are laid. The deep cut at the west end, and the fill entering the west Portland terminal yards is finished and ready for track laying. Pending settlement of the controversy between the Hill and Harriman companies over the consolidation of the west Portland terminal grounds, the north bank road will run its trains into the terminal yards over a "Y" already owned by the North Pacific near the point of entrance of the north bank main line into west Portland. This "Y" permits, it is said, a connection with the present main line, the Northern Pacific into Portland, and over this track north bank trains can be temporarily operated.

COMMISSION HAS HEAVY TASK

Physical Valuation of Oregon R. R. Lines Will Be Determined.

Salem, Or., July 4.—The Oregon railroad commission has undertaken the gigantic task of determining the physical valuation of all the railroad lines in this state. Only four states—Texas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Washington—have so far accomplished it, but nearly all are coming to the conclusion that to lay down what should be considered in exercising the rate-making power. The supreme court of the United States has determined that the railroads are entitled to earn a fair profit on their investment. The problem is, however, how these investments are to be determined. In the case of Smythe v. Ames the supreme court endeavored to lay down what should be considered in making an estimation of the valuation of a railroad. In order to ascertain that value, says the court, "the original cost of construction, the amount expended in permanent improvements, the amount and market value of its bonds and stocks, the present as compared with the original cost of construction, the probable earning capacity of the property under particular rates prescribed by statute, the sum required to meet the operating expenses, are all factors for consideration and are to be given such weight as may be just and right in each case."

KILLED BY DRUGS; MONEY IS MISSING

The body of A. J. Brizoler, a Spokane jeweler who has been in Portland since April 30, is at the morgue, and there is considerable mystery surrounding his death and the disappearance of a valuable watch and chain and a diamond locket worth $75. Brizoler died at the Mount Tabor Sanitarium early yesterday morning, having been taken there in a delirious condition from a lodging-house at Fifth and Morrison streets.

Brizoler, it is said, was addicted to the drug habit. Since coming to Portland he has not done much of anything except have a good time, squandering and spend money. April 30 Brizoler deposited $250 in the Security Savings & Trust company. May 3 he added $649 to the first amount, this money, it seems, having been secured by the sale of several diamonds. Early Friday morning two men took Brizoler to his room, and at that time he was under the influence of liquor or had taken too much of the drug which he had been using. Brizoler was not seen again until Friday evening. Then he was found in the hallway, wandering aimlessly about and apparently out of his head. The lodging-house proprietor took him to his room while in there the man became unmanageable and threatened to jump out of a window. He thought a crowd of curious men was pursuing him for the purpose of taking his life. Eventually a doctor was called and Brizoler was given two hypodermic injections to quiet him. Later in the evening a friend arranged to have him removed to the Mount Tabor sanitarium. Yesterday morning he died without having regained consciousness. Early Thursday evening Brizoler was around his usual haunts and the last seen of him by friends was on Friday. It is known he had his valuables and some money. No one seems to know where the night watchman the remainder of the night until early in the morning when two men were seen taking him to his room. The supposition is that Brizoler was either drugged and robbed or found unable to take care of himself and relieved of his watch and chain and the

LOVE AFFAIR OF YOUTHFUL KING

Becomes Infatuated With Daughter of Countess Who Attends Queen Amelia.

London, July 4.—El Mundo (The World), a daily paper of this city, publishes a romantic story of the love affair of young King Manuel, with a daughter of the countess who attends upon Queen Amelia. King Carlos and the queen were familiar with the loves of the two young people and encouraged it, as Manuel, being the second son, was not the heir to the throne, and the countess was a Portuguese noble. But since the prince has become king, the case is changed, and now the court pretends to regard the loves of the young couple as a little child's play of no serious value and consider it one of the indispensable conditions of the present, that a consort for the king should be sought as soon as possible among the reigning families of Europe. The king has just made a visit to Oporto, where it is said that there are more than a hundred families having bonds of relationship with European royalty, and public rumor has it that the journey was devised to give Manuel an absence from his idol and a chance to select a wife.

FIXES TREASON ON PRISONERS

Mexican Consul Hands Evidence to Federal Officials in Texas.

(Special News by Longest Leased Wire.) El Paso, Tex., July 4.—United States Marshal Eugene Nolte and United States Attorney Charles Boynton were closeted most of the day with Mexican Consul Antonio V. Lomeli, discussing the revolutionary situation, and during the day Consul Lomeli delivered a mass of evidence to Mr. Boynton against the men arrested here and charged with fomenting a revolution. The evidence consists of letters written and received by the prisoners, and implicates several hundred others, many of whom are still at large and some others in prisons elsewhere in Texas and Mexico. The letters show there was a general plan for an uprising, but as was the case years ago, some revolutionists got in a hurry and started to attack at Casas Grande, Las Vacas and Palomas, ahead of schedule time. The letters are said to show that El Flores Magon, although in prison at Los Angeles, is still the real director of the revolutionary party and is directing it from Los Angeles. Mexico Grumbles at Texas. News comes here that Dr. Francisco Gonzalez, claiming to be "president of the Liberal party in Mexico," and second only to Magon in the revolutionary organization generally and their head in Mexico, is now in jail at Chihuahua. He was arrested Wednesday at Mequico, having fled from Guerrero when papers were captured on the prisoners at Casas Grande showing that the headquarters of the revolutionary party were in Guerrero. Enrique Creel, ambassador from Mexico to the United States, arrived here today on route to Washington, and is said to have in his possession an original protest from the Mexican government against the state of Texas for failing to suppress the revolutionaries on the border while they were plotting against Mexico. He declined to discuss the revolution and there was no revolution; it was merely robbers and bandits. He said Mexico was pleased at the prompt action of the United States, but he declined to discuss the Texas protest. Adonis in Hard Luck. From T. P.'s Weekly. A man named Adonis Thackeray to lend him five shillings, which he would convert into $20,000. Asked how, he explained that he knew a young lady with $20,000 who he knew would marry him if he asked her, but he had pawned his teeth, and wanted five shillings to redeem them in order to propose effectively. They expect to develop them until they can be used to deliver orders to armies on land or fleets at sea. Half Price. A well known actor was taking dinner at a fashionable Chicago hotel during the recent Republican convention when a young man came in and sat down at the same table. He apparently recognized the actor, for after gazing at him intently for a couple of minutes he

Plain Logic Which Explains My Success

If I did not know to a certainty that the service I am prepared to render is superior to that to be had elsewhere it would be folly for me to make the claims I do. There is no physician in the world so skilled and capable that exaggerated assertions will not quickly ruin his reputation and practice. The doctor who succeeds is always the doctor who is able to do a little more than he tells the people that he can do, and whose ability permits him to say that he can do much. The only result of not rushing untidily to a doctor merely upon the strength of his statements. They look about for evidence of his skill. The more thorough the investigation the more certain is the investigator to become my patient, and the greater will be his confidence in the treatment he receives. My practice is the largest because I invariably fulfill my promises.

"WEAKNESS" "Weakness" in all its phases and in practically every case that comes to me for treatment is merely a state of chronic inflammation existing in the prostate gland. This inflammation may be a lingering result of a contracted disease, or may have been brought on by early disipation, overwork, etc. In by far the greater number of cases the general health of the patient is perfect, there being no lack of either physical or nervous energy. No stimulants or tonics are needed, and if employed would only tend to increase the inflammation of the functions and positive injury to the tender and already disordered prostate. My treatment is a local one entirely. It removes all inflammation, swelling and tenderness from the prostate gland, establishes normal circulation throughout the parts and restores permanently and completely all natural functions.

The above, together with Spermatorrhea, Organic Weakness, Lost Vigor, Specific Blood Poison, Stricture, Piles and Rectal Ailments, constitute my specialty and are the only diseases I treat.

I Give Individual Treatment I wish to make one point distinct and emphatic: The remedies employed in treating my patients are prescribed to meet the exact requirements of each individual case. Every patient of mine can rest assured that the treatment he receives is not of the "ready-made" kind. I make a special study of every case I treat, note all conditions in the beginning, note all development as the cure progresses, and so alter my remedies as to accomplish just what my knowledge and trained perception tell me must be accomplished. After diagnosing your case I will just what you need.

Contracted Disorders In the treatment of contracted disorders I offer a service such as no other physician can render. The remedies I employ have a most thorough and positive action in cleansing the membranes of all infection and subduing all inflammation.

Specific Blood Poison I cure this leprous disease completely. The system is thoroughly cleansed and every poisonous taint removed. The last symptom vanishes to appear no more, and all is accomplished by the use of harmless, blood-purifiers. Do not submit to the dangerous mineral dosing commonly indulged in. Such treatment merely obscures the symptoms. Organic Weakness, Lost Vigor and Piles are also among the diseases I PROMPTLY and PERMANENTLY cure.

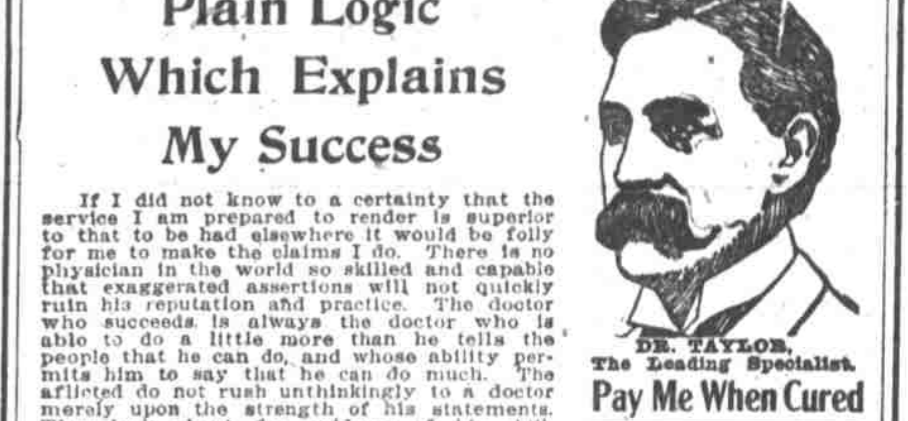

Advice and Consultation Free Come and have a private talk with me concerning your ailment. Even if you are not prepared to undergo treatment at this time, I can always give helpful suggestions to men who are diseased or weak. If you cannot come to Portland, write for particulars of my system of home treatment. Interesting literature and colored charts free if you will call.

HIGH PEAK IN CANADA

Two Men Will Try to Surmount the Snows of Mount Robson.

Two trained mountaineers of Canada, Dr. Coleman, the geologist of the Toronto university, and Mr. Kinney of the Canadian geological service, are at the top of Mount Robson this morning. It is a virgin peak Mr. Kinney went to reach and impress upon the Canadian geologists. The mountain is 14,300 feet above the neighboring valley, but somehow it never impressed upon the minds of the geologists. It is situated nearly two miles above their standpoint in the center of a series of peaks which form the backbone of the Canadian geological service. "I AM A SPECIALIST FOR MEN." It is easy to make this assertion, but it is a difficult thing to back up. A "Specialist" is one who has prepared himself by CONCENTRATED STUDY, FITNESS, YEARS OF PRACTICE, AND BEST OF ALL, A CONTINUED REPEITION OF SUCCESS. A specialist without these qualifications is always a DISAPPOINTMENT TO HIS PATIENTS, and no honorable physician will betray confidence in his ability by promising to do more than he has done. To become a true specialist a physician must not only specialize his work long enough to become entirely familiar with the diseases of his specialty, but must perfect remedies and methods of procedure that are absolute specifics in all conditions he has to meet. To accomplish all this requires years of study and practice, and here lies the secret of so many unfortunate, DISCOURAGED MEN failing to receive a cure from specialists who experimented on them.
