Products Go Out and Money Comes in by the Millions.

YEAR'S SHIPPING ABOVE AVERAGE

Collector of Customs Prepares Report for Year and Gives Summary of Transactions During Closing Month of Fiscal Year.

Records of the collector of customs show that during the fiscal year ending June 30, Portland's domestic exports amounted to an aggregate value of $17,658,819 while the value of foreign exports aggregated only $4,621.

This goes to illustrate that practically all of the goods sold through this port to foreign buyers are produced or manufactured here, so that the money flows into the country in a steady stream. And furthermore, the figures show that the port did a greater business than ever since it became open to commerce.

The articles of exports were mostly breadstuffs and lumber. An idea of the amount of shipping during the year might be obtained from the fact that 701 vessels entered and 684 cleared. Of these 63 entered from foreign ports while 625 entered from domestic ports. One hundred and sixty-one cleared for foreign ports and 523 cleared for domestic ports.

Collections of duties were not as large as during the preceding fiscal year but nevertheless reached the total of $1,030,174. Including other fees the collector of customs' receipts for the year were $1,035,608.25.

June 30, the last month of the fiscal year, was above the average in point of exports, for while ordinarily it is the dull and quiet time, it was rolled along with exports valued at $626,668, and imports on duties aggregating $102,032.95.

Following is a summary of the June transactions of the collector of customs:

Vessels entered from foreign ports: 3; vessels cleared for foreign ports, 66; vessels entered from domestic ports, 66; vessels cleared from domestic ports, 66; entries of merchandise free of duty, 120; entries of merchandise free of duty, 17; entries for warehouse, 4; entries for warehouse exportation, 3; entries for export to adjacent British provinces, 1; entries for rewarehouse, 6; entries from warehouse for consumption, 45; entries for immediate transportation without appraisement, 6; total number of registers, 1; certificates of enrollment granted, 4; licenses for coasting trade granted, 4; licenses to vessels under 20 tons, granted, 3; licenses to yachts granted, 1; value of exports—Domestic, $226,668; foreign, $497.

Receipts from all sources—duties on imports, $102,032.95; fines, penalties and forfeitures, $21,677; miscellaneous customs receipts, $24,900; storage, labor and cartage, $66,551; official fees, $28,000. Total, $162,273.35. Amount of refunds and drawbacks paid, $907.93.

MOVING GARDEN SPOT.

It Has Followed the March Westward—Now in British Columbia.

From the New York Sun. Canada is all the time discovering fertile districts of limited extent which it calls garden spots. The Canadian school geographers of 20 years ago gave that name to the Annapolis valley in Nova Scotia, where the apples grow.

Then western Ontario got into the fruit raising game and earned the unofficial title. It didn't keep it very long, for today it is the Okanagan valley of British Columbia that moves the patriotic Canadian into hyperbole of speech.

PORTLAND CREW LOAFED IN WORK

Captain McMicken Gives Vancouver Full Credit for Senior Four Victory.

"Vancouver is entitled to all the credit for her victory in the senior four-oared race at the Lake Washington regatta Saturday," said Captain Craig McMicken of the Portland Rowing club, which was a 1-1 favorite for the classic race. McMicken and his teammates returned home last night full of good things to say about the management of the regatta and the entertainment of the visiting crews.

"When asked this morning for an explanation of the possible cause of their defeat," Captain McMicken said, "perhaps we loafed a little bit in our training. The course was good, the water being smooth, and our men were in good condition. We thought we were as good a team as last season, when we beat our nearest competitor many lengths and won going away. Coach Murphy's illness prevented him from being out with us during the period when we should have worked hardest and we undoubtedly loafed some without knowing it. Last year Murphy's attention was caused us to work until there was nothing left in us. This season the old veteran was not always on the job and we eased up."

"The result we did not have the steam behind us for the final spurt which the Vancouver men had Seattle people say that it was the greatest race they had ever seen in sound waters. Both Vancouver and Victoria got a half boat length's start of us but when we began closing up on the Nelson sculler. At the half mile we were even with them. The mile flag saw us leading a length behind Victoria. The quarter Vancouver had pulled down our lead and we were even. They were even. They were the final spurt. We did our best but the Canadians had a little reserve force and put it to good use. They gradually swept past us and at the finish led by about a length and a half. We crossed some four lengths ahead of the other Canadian four, Victoria."

Vancouver Trained Hard. "Vancouver trained hard for nearly three months and made a great showing. They deserved by their training to win the race. They have some fine men in their shell."

Another favorite was bowled over when Laine of Vancouver was distanced in the senior singles. Gloss might have won had he not taken it easily in the first stages of the race. The men were off to an even start. All three rowed prettily for awhile when DeBriey of Seattle established a short lead over Gloss with Laine still further back. The men were about three lengths apart at the three quarters. Then Gloss began closing up on the Nelson sculler. At the mile he was about two and a half lengths back. At the mile and a quarter he was about two lengths back. The men spurted for all they were worth. Gloss succeeding in cutting down the lead to a length and a half when DeBriey shot over the finish line a winner. Laine, who won last season and who was the favorite, was an eighth of a mile in the rear when the other scullers went across the line.

MISSING WILL IS FOUND.

May Lead to a Redistribution of Money Left by French Bachelor.

From the London Globe. A curious story of a missing will comes from Paris. In 1906 M. Frossard, director of the Mont de Piete at Dijon, a bachelor, died without heirs, leaving a fortune of about 100,000 francs. He had previously announced to his intimates that he intended to remember them in his will, but on his death no will could be found. The fortune then went to three distant relatives.

During the last few days a German book collector passing through Dijon brought a lot of old books which had formerly belonged to M. Frossard. In one of them the collector came across the lost will, in which one of the oldest friends of the dead man was appointed residuary legatee.

The collector sent the will to this gentleman and the aid of the French courts will now be invoked to distribute the property in terms of the will.

This Date in Sport Annals. 1891.—At Dayton, Ohio, the Dayton and Fort Wayne clubs of the Northwestern league, played 71 innings, the former winning by a score of 2 to 1.

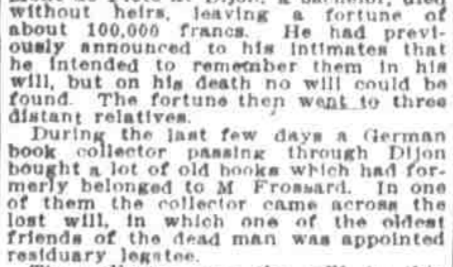

1894.—At Boston, Joe Walcott knocked out Dick O'Brien in twelfth round. 1899.—At New York, Robert Towner, owner of Maud and other famous trotting horses, died; born in Ireland in 1824.

1903.—At Philadelphia, "Young Corbett" and Sammy Smith went six rounds; no decision. 1905.—At Atlanta, Nat Thornton of Atlanta won the southern tennis championship in singles.
