PITTSBURG MILLS FULL TIME AGAIN

Prosperity Will Drive on as If Nothing Had Happened Last Fall.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)

Pittsburg, July 6.—Nearly 50,000 men in the Pittsburg district who have been more or less idle for months past returned to work today. Before the week is over, it is predicted, the Pittsburg district will have practically returned to the prosperous condition which was interrupted by the financial cloud last October.

The United States steel corporation, instead of operating its Homestead, Edgar Thompson and Duquesne plants on half time, will go on full time, for the first time since the flurry.

RIVERS OF CHINA.

Inland Waterways to Be Developed—New System of Police Control.

From the China Mail.

The realization of imminent perils from the inland waterways of the provinces has led China to adopt such means as seem most available and practicable for the more adequate protection of her riverine system. Provinces that have hitherto had no special provision for policing by water patrol are to have their rivers and other navigable channels inland guarded alike for the suppression of piracy and also with a view to prevent the smuggling into the interior of arms and munitions of war.

We notice that the provinces of Hunan and Hupei are to have a "provincial admiral," under whose special jurisdiction will be the charge of riverine defense. Thus far in the history of administration of the empire this class of officials has, we believe, held office only in the seaboard provinces. When, however, the extent and excellence of inland waterways within the bounds of the provinces under consideration are appreciated it becomes clear that on their proper control the fate of the country in times of emergency may conceivably depend.

Hunan is drained by four rivers which all empty into the Tung-ting lake. A glance at any reliable map will show that the basin of these rivers covers little less than half the province, and the fact that the river Hsiang Chiang and certain of its numerous tributaries are navigable for cargo boats is significant in relation to facilities for easy transportation between the Yangtse and all the eastern part of Hunan to the borders of this province of Kwang-tung. To judge of the extended system, some of its ramifications, the journey across from the Kwang-tung north river of Lien-chau to a point in Hunan where a navigable stream is reached that connects with channels by which the traveler may go through to the Yangtse is quite practicable, and has been undertaken recently with fair frequency by persons bent on getting views of three of the finest provinces in China.

As for Hupei, a province divided by the Yangtse into a southern and a northern part, the means of transportation afforded by this river and by the Han, which joins the Yangtse at Hankow, are among the marvels of inland navigation. We have indicated some of the circumstances leading to a more careful and complete control of these great waterways. Other causes are presumably to be sought in the tendency recently manifested by western nations to take upon themselves the duty of patroling Chinese rivers. Japan has been the last to intimate an intention of sending war vessels up the Yangtse, and in view of the situation that now obtains between these two countries the reasons for proper control and safeguarding of their avenues of access to her territory have received additional weight and importance.

RATTLESNAKE'S TEETH.

You May Get One at the Zoo—If You Do, Handle With Care.

The zookeeper carefully unfolded a small paper packet which looked as if it might contain a headache powder.

"Want a rattlesnake's tooth?" he inquired.

"Tooth?"

"Well, call it a fang if you want to; but ain't there something in the Good Book about 'sharper than a serpent's tooth?' Look at this one and you think that the old fellow that wrote that must have known what he was talking about."

He opened the paper and showed what seemed like a miniature horn. It was shaped like a cow horn which has only one curve. It was yellowish white, like a discolored tooth.

It was about three-quarters of an inch long and a sixteenth of an inch in diameter at the base, where it seemed as if it had been broken off. The point was as sharp as a needle. An eighth of an inch back of the point, on the outer curve of the tooth, was an opening, the end of a sort of tube which ran the whole length of the tooth.

This little channel through the tooth seemed to be full of a dried substance, which the zookeeper evidently regarded with proper suspicion, for he warned the recipient of the tooth to handle the same with care. He did not think that one would get a true case of snake bite from one of these discarded teeth, but if the skin should be scratched or pierced by it a bad sore would probably result.

According to him the keepers at the zoo often pick up these loose teeth in the snake cages. They are apparently shed in the course of natural changes, something as the serpent sheds his skin. They are not merely the snake's baby teeth, for he sheds them more than once.

WERLICH RETIRES WITH CAPTAIN'S RANK

Lighthouse Inspector Leaves Portland for Wisconsin With Good Record.

Commander P. J. Werlich, United States lighthouse inspector of this district, who will be succeeded next Wednesday by Captain Francis Pond, late commander of the gunboat Buffalo, will be retired from active service with the rank of captain.

Captain Werlich will turn over the affairs of the district next Wednesday to his successors and a few days later will leave for his old home in Wisconsin, accompanied by his wife.

The retiring officer was appointed to Annapolis from the state of Wisconsin in 1873 and graduated four years later. Since then he has seen service on the following vessels: Consolation, Pensacola, Lackawanna, Alliance, Colorado, Elake, Enterprise, Lancaster, Philadelphia, Miantonomoh, Monadnock, Isle de Luzon, Quiros, Castino and Denver. He left the Castino as commander to take charge of the lighthouse district with headquarters in this city.

Under his charge many improvements have been made in the system of lighting and marking the channels and coast lines. The Columbia river has been so well and thoroughly buoyed that navigators have no trouble whatever in finding their way, and a singular fact is that for the past two years there have been no accidents on the rivers due to faulty or missing aids.

MISSION OF TINY FISH.

To Destroy Mosquito Eggs and Save Inhabitants of Malarial Regions.

From the Chicago Tribune.

C. Kenrick Gibbons has discovered that all the pools and swamps in Barbados are stocked with swarms of millions, a tiny fish which gets its name from its vast numbers and which feeds on the largae of the mosquito.

Some specimens have been got to England successfully and flourished there in the insect house at the zoological gardens. Mr. Gibbons has proposed that the millions be imported into malarial districts, and his suggestion has been acted upon with happy results. The health board of Antigua, another island, being convinced of the useful part played by these fish in consuming mosquito larvae, has arranged for their systematic distribution throughout the ponds and streams of the island.

Like tidings come from Jamaica, whither a consignment of the fish was sent not long ago. The secretary of the agricultural society there writes that the tanks at a certain hotel are full of them and that he has been informed that there has been a marked diminution of fever round about, the millions evidently accounting for the mosquito larvae. They have also been sent to Colon and British Guiana. It is suggested that these useful fish get a trial in the malarial regions of Africa if, like the malarial mosquito, the insects which carry the terrible diseases which are endemic there pass the larval stage of their existence in water.

The Swedish consul at Frankfort has discovered another small fish named the blue-eyed which feeds on mosquito larvae. At the request of the Italian government some are to be sent to the Campagna, where so much has been done in recent years to diminish malaria.

Rhinoceros Blood a Cure-All.

From the London Standard.

The blood of the rhinoceros is very highly esteemed by Burmese and Chinese as a medicine for all kinds of ailments. Whenever a party of hunters are successful in shooting a rhinoceros—they are less numerous than they used to be—the native beaters carefully draw off the blood and bring it to Rangoon stored in hollow bamboos. The precious liquid is worth its weight in silver.

WEATHER REPORT

Owing to wire trouble a large number of reports are missing this morning, especially in the Rocky mountain and southern states. The barometer is relatively high over the north Pacific states and relatively low over California, and a high pressure area overlies the New England and middle Atlantic states. Fair weather prevails on the Pacific slope, and showers, heavy in places, have occurred in Nebraska, South Dakota and upper Michigan. Temperatures are nearly normal on the Pacific slope and above normal generally throughout the eastern states, especially in New England, where it is about 10 degrees warmer than usual.

The indications are for fair weather in this district tonight and Tuesday. It will be warmer tonight in Oregon, eastern Washington, and Idaho, and warmer Tuesday east of the Cascade mountains.
