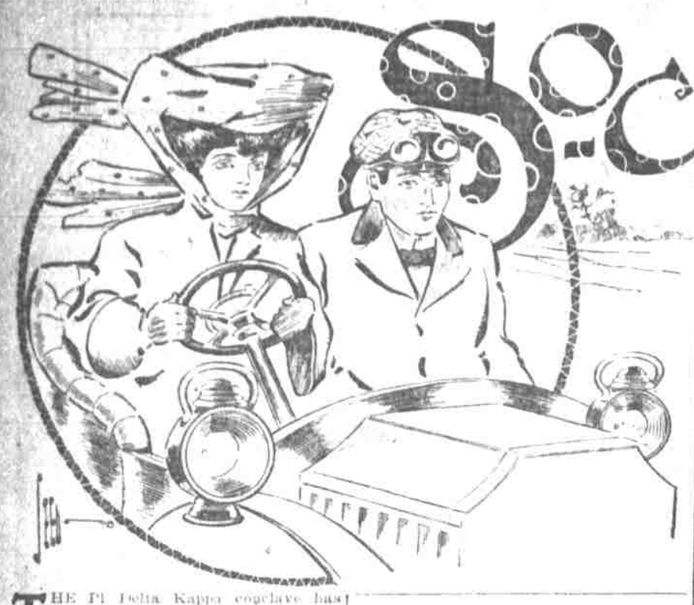
SOCIETY



THE Pi Delta Kappa conclave has been the principal source of entertaining the past week. Almost everyone not engaged with this fraternity in its doings were just leaving town. The seashore and the mountains seem to have put in a call not to be ignored, and this week Portland has given up more of its people than any previous week. Word comes from the beach that the season is becoming gay there and merriment is at its height. Surf bathing, crabbing, clamming, walking and climbing along the beach, story-telling around the bonfires are keeping the outers busy. Tennis has come into greater favor at the beach resort this year and elaborate plans are made for the enjoyment of the sport. Horseback riding comes in for its share of attention.

Here at home garden parties are the popular form of amusement. Several pretty ones have been given and since many Portland homes possess such beautiful gardens there is every reason why they should grow in frequency.

Of public nature the chief event was Mrs. Fiske's appearance Tuesday afternoon and evening. In spite of the almost insufferable weather there was a good attendance, and light summer frocks and waving fans were much in evidence.

Judge and Mrs. C. H. Carey gave a charming garden party Wednesday evening at their Riverdale home. About 100 guests attended. Miss Ethel Rogers was the honor guest. Receiving with them was Miss Louise Carey in pale green chiffon with the same shade of ribbon. Mrs. Carey wore white satin ornamented with duchesse lace. Miss Rogers was most attractive in pale pink satin cut empire.

The garden was beautiful with myriads of incandescents twinkling among the trees. Rugs, cushions, hammocks and chairs lent to the picturesqueness of the scene. Mrs. C. E. S. Wood in pink and white silk, and Mrs. Frank E. Hart in white embroidered batiste served punch.

The Pi Delta Knappa conclave of the past week has been the source of much gaiety among the younger set. The conclave opened Monday and the days have been full of merrymaking since then. Monday evening was the time for the opening reception to members and friends and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Charlton of Portland Heights threw open their handsome home to the fraternity men. The grounds were beautiful with oriental lanterns hung among the trees. Weber's orchestra played on the south veranda and on the front veranda fruit punch was served. Indoors roses were brought into service to make a fitting decoration. The dining room, which is all in red, was decorated with American beauty roses and on the table was a huge centerpiece of them. In the living room were pink Caroline Testout roses with white smilax and fern. Mrs. Elmer E. Young, Ray Fields, Frank Howell and Howard Charlton, reception committee, received the guests. Mrs. Charlton wore a handsome gown of white pompadour satin figured with blue flowers and trimmed with duchesse lace. She with Mrs. E. E. Lytle and Mrs. E. E. Coursen were the patronesses. Mrs. Lytle wore a handsomely embroidered white batiste gown and Mrs. Coursen wore an elaborate corn-colored silk richly ornamented with lace. These three women have been the patronesses the entire season for the Camaraderie club's dances—a club composed of a few of the frat men.

Tuesday afternoon the Omega Nu girls were hostesses with a delightful barge party up the Columbia. Dinner was served at Bonneville and there Parsons' orchestra which had accompanied them played for dancing. The return trip was made by moonlight.

Wednesday evening the men amused themselves with a stag banquet at the Commercial club, which was one of the most largely attended affairs of the entire week. Many of the older members of the Portland chapters were present.

Thursday the Delta Iota Chi sorority entertained them with a trolley ride to the Cleveland ranch near Gresham. There followed a country supper and dance and a return ride late at night.

Friday evening the crowning event of the week was the dance given at the Masonic temple by the Oregon Beta and Gamma chapters. Almost all of the academic crowd remaining in town attended and many of the older friends of the fraternity. Mrs. Charlton, Mrs. Coursen and Mrs. Lytle were the patronesses. A large fraternity emblem was displayed on the wall over the orchestra.

Saturday the men attended the ball game and in the evening were entertained at the Oaks by the management. They found time in between these social functions to hold their business meetings and to transact a good deal of business.

Mrs. C. E. Curry gave a small luncheon Tuesday at the golf links in compliment to Miss Ethel Rogers and Miss Sally Cross. Afterward they watched with interest the finals played off by Mrs. W. B. Ayer and Miss Ilse Koehler for the cup presented by Miss Jewell, which Miss Koehler won. Miss Rogers has proved herself a most popular and charming guest and she is constantly being entertained informally by her friends. She was the honor guest at the Carey dance Wednesday evening. Mrs. Walter Cook was another hostess for her at luncheon Thursday, and one day she spent up the Columbia as the guest of some of her young friends. She is a clever and talented young woman of many accomplishments and charming personality. Her visit with Miss Genevieve Thompson will extend into August when her mother and brother from South Greenfield, Mass., will join her in a trip to Alaska.

Miss Dorothy Morrison, who is one of the most popular and handsome of the younger set, returned Wednesday from Seattle where she has spent several weeks in a gay visit. Miss Morrison attracted much attention in the sound city and was shown many courtesies. A delightful feature of her visit was her acquaintance with Mrs. Griswold, wife of Lieutenant Griswold, of the battleship Colorado. With her she spent much of her time visiting at the navy yards at Bremerton and her life there was a round of gaiety. Mrs. Griswold is a sister of Thomas Slurp who married Miss Morrison's sister last year. Tuesday Mrs. A. A. Morrison and the children leave for Seaside to spend the rest of the summer at Seaside House. Miss Morrison remains for the tennis tournament and will join them a week later.

Miss Hazel Hotchkiss of San Francisco, the clever tennis champion, will be the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. V. Andrews during the tennis tournament. It is a matter of great disappointment that Miss May Sutton has wired her inability to be present. She was to have been Mrs. Walter Cook's guest and is now at her home in Pasadena. Mrs. Cook, however, hopes that at the last moment Miss Sutton may change her mind. Miss Sutton's international fame had made her expected presence here a matter of congratulation and had added much interest to the tournament which opens tomorrow. Mr. Freeman of San Francisco will be Mrs. Cook's guest and will take part in the tournament.
