(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
The Breakers, Wash., July 11.—At the nineteenth annual meeting of the Oregon State Pharmaceutical association in session here, the following officers were elected: President, M. E. Everitt, North Bend; first vice-president, Joseph Marsh, Wasco; second vice-president, F. Byerly, Portland; third vice-president, T. E. Laurin, Astoria; secretary, A. W. Allen, Portland; treasurer, B. F. Jones, Portland.

Pure Food Law.
The question of the pure food law was taken up and discussed at some length by the meeting. The matter was finally referred to the legislative committee, which will draw up a bill to be presented to the Oregon state legislature next January. The bill to be drawn up by the committee will follow the federal statute on the subject. At present the federal law is all the pure food regulation that operates on manufacturing druggists in the state of Oregon. The drugs made by such companies as Park, Davis & Co., of Detroit, Mich., and Merck & Co., of New York, are sold all over the United States and are regulated by the federal statutes; but those made by local firms and sold within the state do not come under the part of the pure food law relating to drugs.

It is such products that the proposed law is intended to cover. A number of the states have already enacted state laws which follow the national law and the proposed Oregon law will probably be similar to those.
Resolutions of Association.
In response to a communication brought before the association in regard to the department of pharmacy at the Oregon Agricultural college, the support of the association was voiced in the following resolution:
Resolved, That the Oregon State Pharmaceutical association extends its best wishes for the welfare of the Oregon Agricultural college and particularly the department of pharmacy, and further that we individually and as an association pledge it our hearty support in everything necessary for its advancement.
Down With King Rum.
The following resolution is the sentiment of the meeting in regard to the liquor traffic, and will be the guide to the legislative committee in the formation of an amendment to the state pharmaceutical law.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this association that the state law should be so amended as to permit the state board of pharmacy, upon the presentation of sufficient proof, to impose a fine or revoke the certificate of any druggist who is illegally selling alcoholic preparations for use as a beverage, as the profession of pharmacy is a dignified calling and the druggists as a class are honorable men and oppose the sale of liquor for any other than medical purposes. We feel that a great injustice is being done us in certain literature that has been sent out by the Liquor Dealers' association, and certain articles and cartoons that have appeared in the papers.
Seaside for Next Meeting.
Seaside, Oregon, was selected as the next meeting place and the date will be fixed by the executive committee. John M. A. Lane of Portland offered a prize of $50 to any member securing 50 new members before the next annual meeting.
The social side of the meeting was not neglected. Trips were made to the North Head lighthouse, to the life saving station and to Fort Columbia.

SLAUGHTERING GAME.

Much of It for the Mere Love of Killing—Menace to the Caribou.
Dawson Correspondence Toronto Globe.
In all the thousands of miles from Vancouver to the North Sea and from Edmonton to Dawson the country is dotted with hunters at intervals of from 20 to 100 miles apart. From this it will be seen that the game has no way of escaping, as there is no stretch of more than 100 miles where the crack of the gun is not heard, with nearly everyone it is a case of doing his level best to kill all he possibly can, even though 89 per cent of his booty goes to waste and 11 per cent to the Indians who are the only men who regard the protection of game as a necessity.
I have been in the northwest for 11 years and traveled from east to west and from north to south and have seen slaughters of large game on several occasions that would make Buffalo Bill's buffalo killing, which is famous the world over, look like child's play. The first of these killings I witnessed toward the head of the Klondike river in the winter of 1898, when a herd of caribou came upon a hunter's camp and he killed the herd to the last one. It numbered over 300. I must say that that man's credit that he let nothing go to waste, as he was within reach of Dawson and disposed of it all.
The only thing to be condemned was the killing of the females. Three years later I was up in the same vicinity and found a hunter and his partner camped toward the head of a gulch with very steep slopes and thousands of feet high. These gulches are used in winter by the traveling caribou when they descend to the lower lands in search for feed. It happened one day that a large herd came down this gulch and the hunter saw them as they descended from the high barren hills. Once down in the gulch there was no retreat, as the snow was too deep and the slopes too steep to climb. He had them corralled, advanced within shooting range, and killed the entire bunch just for the sport of seeing them fall. He had no means of getting them out of there and practically the whole herd rotted on the ground.
On his way to Dawson he killed a moose weighing nearly a ton. By this time the hunting season was closed and he dared not bring the moose in and the animal lay and rotted. A year ago last winter I was up the White river. The upper half is on the American side and I met a hunter who had just returned from killing a whole herd of caribou. How many hundred there were in the herd no one knows, not even the slayer, as he never went near many of them. His aim was to see how many he could kill and the consequence was that he did not get a piece of meat that was fit to eat. He followed the herd on snowshoes for three days, shooting all the time until the last one was dead; then only was his bloodthirsty appetite satisfied. When he returned the fourth day the first ones who were nearest his cabin had already begun to rot. Had he killed for only one day he would have had enough for himself.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Gerspach announce the engagement of their daughter Emma Cecilia, Edward O. Dunlap of Seattle. The wedding will take place July 16.

MUSIC NOTES

A pleasant recital was given recently by Miss Lina Linehan presenting four of her advanced pupils. The recital was given at Hawthorne Park Presbyterian church where Miss Linehan is choir director and solo soprano and there was a large attendance. Miss Nina Walker has a lyric soprano of pure tone quality and combines with it good style and dignified stage presence. She sang several songs of lighter vein. Miss Helen White is a coloratura soprano and her voice is very flexible as was well shown in the charming "Pillanelle" (Evil, Evil, Aquas) and her high notes in Benbridge "Nymphs and Fawns" showed good range and splendid control. Miss Mary Alice Keck possesses a full rich dramatic voice of mezzo soprano position. She sings artistically and her "Tie Sweet Voice" from "Samson and Delilah" was specially commendable. Mrs. Sprague Burdins voice is a mellow contralto and it was brought out to advantage in "A Dream" by Bartlett. Her tones were especially sweet and soft in "Rehearsal" which she sang with Rose Bloom. Miss Mary Mackenzie Cahill, violinist, assisted with a number and Mrs. Kathryn Linehan Johnson was the accompanist.

Mrs. Alice B. Marshall gave her monthly class recitals of piano students Tuesday evening in Steinway hall at the Sherman-Clay music house, Mrs. Ella Hobart Tripp assisted with a song. The pupils presented were Miss Minnie Backstrom, Mrs. McDonald, Miss Kathleen, Miss Helen McGuire, Miss Anna McBride, Miss Pratt, Miss Blanche Hammel, Miss Hawley and Miss Oviatt.

At the morning service at Calvary Presbyterian church Miss Carol McCollum will sing "The Lord is Mindful of His Own" by Mendelssohn.
George H. Steel, baritone, will sing the offertory solo this morning at Grace Methodist Episcopal church—"Rock of Ages" (Shepherd).
F. S. Hickie has been engaged as bass of the Haasalo congregational church choir. Mr. Hickie is a pupil of Rose Coursen-Reed.
