MANAGER SPOILS GAMBLERS' COUP

By Will J. Blattery.
San Francisco, July 11.—It is strange how poor old Joe Gans now believes that he can regain his lost title. After the beating he took from the Durable Dane at Croffroth's Mission-street arena last Saturday afternoon, all of Joe's friends thought he would beat it quietly back to old Baltimore town and reflect while acting as master of ceremonies at his hotel. But no. The old boy immediately falls as soon as Tex Rickard offered him a return match in Ely, Nevada, on Labor Day. Joe is just like them all. He will not admit that old age has changed him, but still insists that he is as good a man as he was a couple of years ago.

Not till after the great fight did the sports all over the United States realize that it was one of the most marvellous pugilistic events of the modern ring. Here was the past master of them all for the last ten years up against a rough, rugged fellow without skill or science and who was not conceded a chance by anyone save the suckers. To think that this man, whom the champion was credited with having practically beaten to a pulp at Goldfield less than two years before, should come back and not only wrest the title from the greatest lightweight in the world, but incidentally beat him at his own game, is more than the smart ones can get through their heads even at this late date.

But that's the layout and nobody can contradict it. The 10,000 sports from all over the country sat there and saw the old master hammer the Dane with those penetrating right hooks and swings of his for four rounds. They were figuring on what round Nelson would strike the mat for the count and they had all agreed that about eleven rounds would pass when, without warning, the treacherous twist of victory took a sudden switch and ere they realized what had happened, Gans was on the telegen.

Joe simply fought himself out. So sure was he that he would give the Dane a decisive trimming ere the bell sounded the end of the twelfth round that he bet an even $3,000 on this issue. He was not alone. In fact, the whole crowd had bet on Gans. The Dane, who had been expected to win, was not only beaten but he was also humiliated. He was not only beaten but he was also humiliated. He was not only beaten but he was also humiliated.

Though it would appear that Gans was not the Gans who won 42 brilliant rounds at Goldfield with Nelson less than two years ago and was strong at the finish, still all credit is due the new champion for the marvelous fight he made. Never before in his life did Nelson fight such a great fight as he did last Saturday afternoon. Not only was he aggressive and capable of taking more punishment than any other fighter, but he was exceedingly clever in his backward way, as clever in fact as he was in the matter of general pugilistic tactics. He was not only beaten but he was also humiliated.

The men who won their money on Nelson did not know until a week after that a close call they had from being made the victims of a huge job by

SIR JOHN S. IS COMING NORTH AFTER ONE RACE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, July 11.—That Sir John S., the famous pacer, who last year took a record of 2:04.1, is to figure in only one race in California this year in a matter of general regret. Sir John S. is to make his first and last start at Oakland after which he will retire to Portland, Salem and other northern points.

At present W. I. Vance is preparing Sir John S. at the Marysville track. The time of the race is the earliest ever made by a pacer of any sex over a California track, and, barring an accident, he should be a couple of seconds or more faster than his record.

BEAVERS CINCH 11-INNING GAME

Longe stole second and Salisbury was given a free ticket to first. With the big full Mohler rapped out a single that scored both Curtis and La Longe. In the succeeding chapter the visiting brigade got busy again. Melchior singled, took third on Curtis' hit and scored on a double steal pulled off by himself and McCardie, who forced Curt at second, Casey to Cooney.

McCredie Scores Winning Run by Hit and Clever Work on Bases.

In the sixth inning we rang up another fare. Ote Johnson slammed the ball to deep center and Raftery brought him in with a pretty single. In the seventh we shoved the brace across that caused the Mohler protest. Bassy had been walked and McCredie was safe on Zeider's error. Madden, who had taken Whaling's place, filed out and Groom fanned. Casey worked Henley, who succeeded Salisbury in the fourth, for trans- portation and Cooney's timely single brought Mac and the Marquis home.

Bobby Groom, Threatened With Mumps, Pitches Peculiar Game in Presence of Big League Scout but Finally Lands on Top.

Portland, 5; San Francisco, 4.
Maybe it was the critical eye of Scout Tom O'Brien of the Cleveland Americans, come to look him over, or perhaps it was unsteadiness brought on by approaching mumps, but whatever the cause Bobby Groom gave us a weird exhibition of the twisting art at Vaughn street yesterday. Bobby won his game of course, but he had our hearts in our mouths during the entire 11 innings for fear the unexpected might happen. Bobby pitched a game that rightly belonged to the home guards.
