

DR. POHL DECLARES NEED OF EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Quoting President Roosevelt's assertion that health is our greatest physical asset, and taking it as a text to lead from, Dr. Esther C. Pohl, city health officer of Portland, yesterday addressed a large audience in the auditorium at Gladstone park on some vital questions pertaining to the private and public health of the community.

To have good health, she claimed, we must begin with the children, and to build up strong physical bodies that will resist the disease and exposure of winter, the first requisite must be clean, pure milk. The speaker then gave some facts, startling in their nature, regarding the loss of life in the country due to the lack of a single officer in the city government of Portland has the right to inspect the dairies that supply the city with milk, said Dr. Pohl.

Inspection or No License.

"How can this be controlled?" she continued, "by inspection of the dairies by city officials before a license is granted for any milk to be dispensed in the city of Portland?" She then cited the frightful condition under which tamias were milked one time, and stated that since this kind of inspection was required, tamias were cleaner food than many things now offered for sale.

Twenty-five thousand children in the city of Portland to communicate and scatter disease. With this lack of proper medical inspection, this was appalling the speaker thought, and then she told the audience why she thought this was so. She did not mince words, and more than one mother went home not only enlightened, but with many good practical ideas as to how to remedy evils that she never before recognized as such.

Milk a Source of Disease.

Dr. Pohl dwelt at some length upon the manner in which disease was carried, and called attention to the common drinking cup in the schools, etc., but unhesitatingly and with emphasis declared that the greatest source of public health was the inadequate means at command to take care of contagious diseases and the danger to the community of leaving them at large as it were. She cited a case of diphtheria to which she had been called. It was a warm day and the child was lying in bed, reeking with filth, and occupying himself by catching flies and pinning them to the bed covers.

"But this was not the worst feature," said Dr. Pohl, "the windows were open to the public and the flies that didn't mind words, and more than one mother went home with a torch carrying the disease wherever they happened to light. This boy should have been excluded in a hospital, but

NEW RESERVE ALONG COLUMBIA

Portland has a new federal office. It is that of supervisor of the new Columbia national forest, which comprises an immense tract of mountain ranges extending from Mount Adams to Mount St. Helens.

The new forest was created under the act which became effective July 1, and consists of the southern half of what used to be the Wheeler forest reserve. There are no forest reserves now. What used to be termed forest reserves are simply called national forests.

The new supervisor of the Columbia forest is Thomas P. Mackenzie. He came here from the office of Supervisor Schmitz of the Wenatchee forest. He has been one of Mr. Schmitz' most efficient aides for the past two years at Walla Walla and has won the commendation of a reward. He has spent most of his life in the forest service and has studied forest conservation for years.

Supervisor Mackenzie leaves today for Carson, on the Columbia, to be gone for the rest of the summer on an inspection tour of the Columbia forest. He will have nine rangers patrolling the timber belt until after the hot season. While he is gone he will make an accurate map of the forest, showing where trails are to be built and ranger stations established.

Supervisor Mackenzie sees the danger from fire is growing less and less every year. The reforesting of the large forests in the northwest this year is only another step in the work of the United States to preserve the national resources. By cutting up tracts to be patrolled, supervisors are enabled to keep a closer watch on the mountains and fires are stopped in their incipency.

Another preventive of forest fires, says Mr. Mackenzie, is the removal of dry timber. This is sold and its removal gives the young trees a chance to grow.

One of the largest sales of timber ever made in the northwest has been completed. The Wind River Lumber company gets 200,000 feet of dead and dying timber north of Carson in the Columbia forest. The sum realized from this by the government and Skamania county, Washington, will be close to $50,000.

DREDGE WILL WORK AT COOS BAY HARBOR

To ascertain what the dredge building at the Portland docks will be completed, and to best for the good of the southern Oregon district fair and commercial congress to be held in Coos Bay the last week in August, the purposes of Walter Lyon, secretary of the Marshfield chamber of commerce, in the city today.

It has been a number of years since an ocean dredge has worked in Coos Bay. As the population and manufacturing centers increase, the natural resources naturally fall more rapidly than when conditions were more primitive. As a consequence commerce in the upper end of the bay is seriously handicapped.

The best season for the operation of a suction dredge in the forest is rapidly passing, hence the anxiety of the Coos Bay people to get the new government funds available for the dredge as early as possible. There are no other government funds available for the dredge. The Coos Bay people have met the condition by raising funds by private subscription.

The second southern Oregon district fair is to be held at Coos Bay this year and the promoters are endeavoring to make it the biggest fair ever held west of the coast. The fair will be held at the Coos Bay grounds, which will be erected within the grounds. The fair will be held at the Coos Bay grounds, which will be erected within the grounds. NEED ENERGY TO WIN PRIZE

Journal Contest Open Only to the Ambitious and Faithful.

The cheerful person makes the greatest progress in any undertaking. By being cheerful and happy even in difficulties we overcome many obstacles. Many young people who have had no practical business experience get into the habit of vacillating until they become so weak in will power that trivial obstacles magnify before them until they appear like Mount Hood, when they really are only mole hills.

The sooner that young people realize that it requires a special effort to attain success in life the better it is for themselves and for employers who are constantly seeking competent assistance in every line of work. Energy is required, especially in youth. True, there are some successful men who are enjoying great prosperity without much apparent energy, but to go back to their youth would reveal the reason why they have been so successful.

Aspiring young students may learn a lesson from Buxton, who wrote: "The longer I live the more deeply am I convinced that the only way to go to the top of the mountain is to go to the bottom of the valley. The great and insignificant is energy. Inevitable determination—a purpose once formed and the death or victory. This quality will do anything that is to be done in the world, and no two-legged creature can second it."

The Journal's third annual scholarship contest, which is now in progress, affords an excellent opportunity for clever boys and girls and young men and young women to display their energy. By concentrating all their efforts for the purpose of accomplishing a certain purpose success will follow. The ambitious young people who are determined to win a scholarship will bring all their faculties into exercise and they will develop new and valuable ideas.

Those who always look on the dark side of things and worry about every trifling obstacle rarely ever make a success in any undertaking. Pessimism is a deadly foe to progress, while optimism is a powerful lever capable of moving mountains. If you are a competitor in the Journal's contest or who contemplates entering who imagines that the work is death or victory, he or she had better drop out instantly. The bitter goes with the sweet. It would be very little credit for any one to succeed in any undertaking if there were no obstacles to be overcome.

The earlier young people become wise to the fact that they will have to suffer drawbacks, such as rebuffs and slight failures and disappointments the better it will be for them. The hopeful youth who laughs at failure will eventually win out, no matter how many obstacles beset themselves to him. He will find the way and means to surmount the most difficult problems. The student who makes the greatest strides in this contest are the ones who will not worry about the refusals they will get. They will go on "winning wood" throughout the vacation and the result will be victory.

STATE TO GATHER AT TAFT RALLY

Managers of the proposed Taft meeting to be held in the Baker theatre Monday night, yesterday afternoon held a conference with Senator Fulton, who is to be the principal speaker of the evening. Senator Fulton told the committee that he would be on hand, and more than that, he would head a delegation of boomers from the city by the sea. Word has been received from State Committee Ralph E. Williams of Dallas that the west would send many present from the other up valley towns. W. D. Wheelwright has been selected to make the speech introducing Senator Fulton.

OWL MONKEY SLEEPS ALL DAY AND RAISES CAIN DURING NIGHT

Third Officer Hester of the oriental liner Niocomedia is beginning to wonder if he was handed a gold brick when he bought that strange specimen of an animal known as an owl monkey which occupies a cage in his cosy little cabin on the port side of the liner.

Hester had never seen anything like it before, and so when the Hongkong dealer in strange animals and reptiles brought around his collection, the navigator selected the oddest in the lot. It was the owl monkey, and her little young that clings to her like a porous plaster to a rheumatic. He figured he could easily dispose of the pair on this side of the pond where the circus keep just for looks. They were made to see with at night when other monkeys of the jungles are at home in their nests. And now the owner is debating with himself if he should sit up nights to educate the monkey or let her live a life of ignorance and comfort.

SUN SOON MAY SOONER THAN SOME SHUN MRS. SUN AND MRS. SUN'S SONS

Sun Soon Hule wants to go back to China. This is not an unusual condition for most Chinamen when they reach the closing days of their lives. Sun Soon Hule and his wife, Mrs. Sun Soon Hule, who was born in Sweden, and if Sun Soon Hule years and pine for a return to his native China, Mrs. Sun Soon Hule years and pine as strongly for her dear old Sweden.

To complicate matters, there are somewhere between one and twenty little Sun Soon Hules, and each and every one is ill with smallpox. At the Sun Soon Hule residence on Rhine street, the health officers placed the house under quarantine, and Sun Soon Hule broke the quarantine this morning by going to his place of business at 1627 1/2 Second street. Deputy City Health Officer Dr. H. G. Parker, upon discovering this fact, issued a complaint charging Sun with breaking the quarantine.

Now the question is, will Sun pay his quarantine fine and serve a jail term, if one or both are imposed, and then pack up Mrs. Sun Soon Hule and all the little Sun Soon Hules and return them back to China, or will Sun Soon Hule, in his anger at the workings of the strange fate, swear to a complaint against his wife and family, and return alone to his native land, where a little thing like smallpox is heeded with as little regard as a green apple in a small boy's hand in America?

WOMAN ATTACKED BY COW SUFFERS SEVERE INJURIES BEFORE RESCUED

Mrs. A. Jemtgaard, 320 East Thirty-third, was attacked by a cow belonging to T. M. Smith, 291 East Thirty-second, last night between 7 and 8 o'clock, and suffered a sprained ankle and serious bruises about the body. Dr. J. J. Fisher was called and attended Mrs. Jemtgaard, whom he found to be in a high nervous condition as a result of the attack.

The cow was allowed to pasture in a vacant lot, and although hitched with a chain was able to wander across the sidewalk. As Mrs. Jemtgaard was walking along the sidewalk with her little daughter the cow rushed out and viciously attacked the woman. She was knocked down and became entangled in the chain, and before her little girl could secure help her ankle was sprained and she was badly bruised, besides suffering from a nervous shock resulting from the attack.

It is said that a complaint will be sworn out against Smith charging him with allowing a cow to roam across a city sidewalk.

PIONEER WOMAN GOES TO HER REST

Death of Mrs. Johanna Weed Who Came Here in 1859.

Mrs. Johanna Charlotte Weed, beloved wife of W. H. Weed, died last evening at the age of 70 years. Mrs. Weed was born in Hannover, Germany, and came to Oregon in 1859, and had resided in Portland ever since. She leaves besides her husband a daughter, Mrs. E. A. Jackson, and only sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Kiers. The funeral services will be held tomorrow, Friday morning, from her late residence, 628 Tillamook street, at 10:30 a. m.

Governor Guild of Massachusetts has appointed Professor Emily Greene Black a member of the state industrial commission. Miss Black is professor of economics at Wellesley college and president of the Woman's Trade League union of Massachusetts.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that he is not afraid to subject them to the closest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed on it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious ingredients, and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for women, nervous overwork, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their women. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the use of a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most reliable remedy for regulating all the woman's functions, correcting displacements, prolapsus, amenorrhea and retroversion, relieving painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. A New Departure

The cost of interments has been greatly reduced by the Holman Undertaking company.

Heretofore it has been the custom of funeral directors to make charges for all incidentals connected with a funeral. The Edward Holman Undertaking company, the leading funeral directors of Portland, have departed from that custom. When an casket is furnished by us we make no extra charges for embalming, hearse, to cemetery, outside box or any services that may be required to us, except clothing, cemetery and casket, thus effecting a saving of $25 to $75 on each funeral.
