

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Marysville, July 17.—Adolph Jules, who murdered two men Tuesday at Camp No. 20 of the Western Pacific railroad, was captured this afternoon just over the line in Plumas county. Only meager reports have been received here but they say Jules put up a hard fight. He was surrounded by members of the posse and taken at a disadvantage.

An unusual assortment of matrimonial misfits was placed on parade before Judge O'Day in the circuit court this morning. Six wives that Cupid deceived told how niggardly and heartless men can be, while two husbands, somewhat amused by the lemons they had picked, told of unappreciative wives that did not like to sweep and wash dishes and forsook domestic cares for sweeter company.

An obituary eulogy in the form of a letter written by himself was one of the tributes offered by Mrs. May Otis Wieland to prove the parity of Augustus John Wieland. In fact, he sent her word that he had died twice, once in uniform and once in Alaska. Her suspicions were aroused, and not many months ago she saw him in the flesh in Tacoma, soon after she had received a letter informing her that the writer had buried him in Alaska. She said she had satisfied herself that Wieland himself wrote the letters, telling of his death. The letters were signed "John Worthy," one being mailed from Everett, Wash., and the other from Tacoma.

Mrs. Wieland was married in Jamestown in 1897. She said that Wieland was a confirmed gambler and about a year after their marriage they went to the coast where he had money to gamble with. In 1899 a letter came from a doctor in California, stating that Wieland had been killed in a dispute over some mines. Later a man came with the same story.

Poor Jack Buried. Last December came the first letter from "John Worthy" written to her mother, Mrs. E. P. Holt. An answer to this brought another letter from "John Worthy" which was signed "Poor Jack" himself, and that Jack on his deathbed asked the Lord to forgive his wife for all the trouble she had caused him. The writer also hinted that Jack left from $75,000 to $100,000 that was to go to her if she were not married. "John Worthy's" brief comment.

Mrs. Wieland lost little time in going to Tacoma after the last letter came. She did not locate "John Worthy," but she got the name and address of the man. She came back to Portland and began suit for divorce. She did not mention any portion of "Poor Jack's" fortune.

Although she was given an allowance of only $1 per week by her husband, she had a good time. Mrs. Mabel L. Long testified that Ralph B. Long required her to submit to a complete statement of her expenditures, showing where every cent went.

Finally, she said, she was dissatisfied with the way it was spent, although she used it for necessary clothing. Once she got $2.50 together she bought some underclothing and she said she became very angry at her extravagance. She said she would not say the doctor and the lawyer to kill her in his own right, but she would permit her to go anywhere except in his company. She said he made good wages as a saddle-maker, but this did not help her allowance.

Goodbye; See You Later. Mrs. Etta G. Rivenburgh testified that the last time she saw her husband was when he told her good-bye at the depot in Astoria. She said she never heard from him since. She said she never heard from him since she left him in Astoria. She said she never heard from him since she left him in Astoria.

Charles Dupuis, who was married in Astoria in 1882, and testified that he was deserted less than two years ago. He said that his wife had two husbands since she left him. One of them was named "John Worthy" and the other was named "Poor Jack."

Another wife who became tired of housework and pined for greater liberty, according to James Monto, was Hester Monto. They were married in Portland in October, 1904. She left him last year, saying she did not want to be tied up any longer, and when he telephoned to her she intended to sue for divorce she told him to go ahead.

Mrs. Inez G. Staley said that M. L. Staley was not extra good at supporting his family, and she had to work hard to support the family. She said she was gone on a spree and sold the furniture and the house. She said she was gone on a spree and sold the furniture and the house.

Mrs. Doretha Brown, by profession a vaudeville singer, who has been living with relatives at Montaville, said that James Brown deserted her in 1907. They were married in Great Falls, Mont.

On the ground of drunkenness Nettie L. Bernard was divorced from Otis S. Bernard in 1907. They were married in Astoria, Wash., in 1901. They had been acquainted about three months and three months after they were living together he killed and abused her when in his cups. She left him over one year ago.

Wills' Proposed Ordinance Will Stir Up Strife in Council.

What promises to bring up a merry war in the council next Wednesday was the action of the committee on health and police this morning in recommending for passage an ordinance authorizing the city executive board to advertise for sale all city property which is not used at the present time.

Councilman Willis is fathering the proposition on the ground that the right values can be secured this property should be sold and land bought on the same basis. The police station and the municipal court building, Councilman Driscoll contends that Willis wants the city to buy a new site for a city jail and that Willis has been whittling away at the city for this purpose.

Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000. Driscoll contends that Willis wants the city to sell its property, consisting of the market block, valued at $100,000, four full lots and part of two lots in Albina, valued at $2,200, besides three pieces of property owned by Willis, valued at $10,000, and the present police station site and use the money for the new station.

Driscoll insists on carrying out his program Driscoll will fight it to the end and will not be satisfied until a constitutional amendment is passed. Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000.

Driscoll insists on carrying out his program Driscoll will fight it to the end and will not be satisfied until a constitutional amendment is passed. Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000.

Driscoll insists on carrying out his program Driscoll will fight it to the end and will not be satisfied until a constitutional amendment is passed. Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000.

Driscoll insists on carrying out his program Driscoll will fight it to the end and will not be satisfied until a constitutional amendment is passed. Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000.

Driscoll insists on carrying out his program Driscoll will fight it to the end and will not be satisfied until a constitutional amendment is passed. Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000.

Driscoll insists on carrying out his program Driscoll will fight it to the end and will not be satisfied until a constitutional amendment is passed. Driscoll claims that the property at Ninth and Davis streets is owned by Willis, Thomas C. Devlin and other men who want to sell it to the city for $25,000.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

SAPOO LAW TO COUNCIL

At any rate, Hoaglin's father appeared before Municipal Judge Van Zante and Clerk Milner Saturday afternoon, July 11, and asked to furnish bail for his son. He demurred to putting up $50 in cash and was told that the bond would be $100. Hoaglin's father sent to the county jail with the bond and after releasing it there departed with Hoaglin, who has not been seen since, resulting in the forfeiture of the bond.

Monday, July 13, District Attorney Cameron appeared with the state charging the commission of a felony by Hoaglin, and when told of his having been released on bond was much surprised. He was then agreed to by Cameron and Milner that the bond, upon the re-arrest of Hoaglin, should be $1,000.

It would appear from the history of the case, therefore, that Hoaglin's escape from punishment lies more at the door of the district attorney's office and of his former clerk and present deputy, Frank Hennessy, and at the door of the father, than at the door of John Hoaglin.

Had the papers in the first case not been lost while under the charge of Mr. Hennessy, the state might have produced for trial or the $250 bond would have been forfeited. Had Maher kept his eyes on Hoaglin, the second case he could not have escaped.

In the third case it is a question of veracity between District Attorney Cameron and Hoaglin. The state charges the commission of a felony by Hoaglin, and when told of his having been released on bond was much surprised. He was then agreed to by Cameron and Milner that the bond, upon the re-arrest of Hoaglin, should be $1,000.

It would appear from the history of the case, therefore, that Hoaglin's escape from punishment lies more at the door of the district attorney's office and of his former clerk and present deputy, Frank Hennessy, and at the door of the father, than at the door of John Hoaglin.

Had the papers in the first case not been lost while under the charge of Mr. Hennessy, the state might have produced for trial or the $250 bond would have been forfeited. Had Maher kept his eyes on Hoaglin, the second case he could not have escaped.

In the third case it is a question of veracity between District Attorney Cameron and Hoaglin. The state charges the commission of a felony by Hoaglin, and when told of his having been released on bond was much surprised. He was then agreed to by Cameron and Milner that the bond, upon the re-arrest of Hoaglin, should be $1,000.

It would appear from the history of the case, therefore, that Hoaglin's escape from punishment lies more at the door of the district attorney's office and of his former clerk and present deputy, Frank Hennessy, and at the door of the father, than at the door of John Hoaglin.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to make a date with the county commissioners he sends a letter. Although to ordinary eyesight there is a fairly plain pathway, only a few hundred feet long, between the two offices, they were so far apart a few days ago that the sheriff put his request in the writing when he decided to ask the commissioners for a conference on the subject of Kelly's case.

So far the commissioners have made no reply and fixed no date. The commissioners have said that they expect to rule on the matter in a few days. The law gives the sheriff control of county prisoners and the county court has no authority. The sheriff has not been sending any more county prisoners to Kelly's unit and the number of county men there has been reduced to 24 in a total of 64. The sheriff has made no demand on the county court to turn over the prisoners who are there, and things are sliding along as usual under the direction of the court.

One of the reasons for the delay is that the sheriff makes no suggestions, but is amiable in tone and is said to make a sound like an olive branch. But it is believed that the sheriff is merely asking for a conference.

Fire protection was asked for by the members of the North Albina Push club in the neighborhood of Oakley Green school at the meeting of the health and police committee of the city council this morning. According to statements made by representatives there is not a fire hydrant within a mile of the school, and that Chief Campbell has been ordered to install hydrants, although he has about 150 on hand.

Months ago the council passed an ordinance authorizing the purchase of $1,000 worth of hose for the fire station, which the citizens erected at North Albina at their own expense, but this has never been given to the residents. The committee recommended the purchase of the hose, but the chief and the water board to have the hose and hydrants installed at once.

CLAUDEANES DUE TO COMET TROUGH

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 17.—Developments are looked for thick and fast within the next 24 hours in the case of John Claudianes, who is under arrest on his own confession that he blew up the Gallagher houses in East Oakland. It is likely that Claudianes will either be branded as a monumental liar and released from prison, or will be formally charged with the crime and an effort made to induce some of the defendants in the graft cases.

Mrs. Claudianes, the mother of John, who was arrested last night, requested that her son be brought to her. Mother and son had a tearful interview. The old woman pleaded with her son to tell the truth and be steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the dynamiting, maintaining he was drunk when the measure was enforced. District Attorney Langdon.

On the other hand, District Attorney Langdon retorts that he is confident he has the right man. He says steps will be taken soon to put Claudianes in the stocks and to have him tried in the case today declared that Claudianes is on the verge of a breakdown and that he is in a mental hospital. He will mention names and indicate the names in the plot to get rid of the chief witness in the graft prosecution.

There is still such a gulf between the office of the sheriff and the county court that when the sheriff desires to