

ENGLISH ATHLETES ARE HARD LOSERS

Olympic Games' Great Fizzle, Has Been Touted Without Regard to Value—Press Bureaus Bite—Events Prove a Big Fiasco.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
London, July 18.—The first week of the Olympic games has ended, with seven Olympic records broken and one of the worst athletic muzzes imaginable stirred up. The press bureaus have hit at a big fiasco.

The English are said to be hard losers. "Hard" is not expressive enough. When it comes to "heaving," "weighting," and the jealousy with which he guards his athletic prowess, John Bull has the universe beaten.

Having lost nearly every athletic honor to Americans within the last decade, the Brits apparently framed up this Olympic contest with the determination of regaining some of the prestige, even if they had to use a sandbag and skeleton key viewpoint.

Briefly stated, the English viewpoint is that a contest in fancy shoe-lacing should count for as much as the shot-put, and an exercise in Delmarie for as much as an 18-meter dash in determining Olympic athletic supremacy.

Archery contests, fancy driving and racquets are all right enough, there is not anything else, but the hundreds of athletes who have gathered here from all over the world brought their athletic togs along and forgot their tea-gowns.

Indignantly they are asking, "What's the use?"

Yankees Are Fooled.
When the Yankees first tackled the brace game as prepared by the Olympic association they were as glib as a lot of English suffragettes, but the more they think of it the more humorous it appears to them, and their characteristic good nature has returned.

"Let them figure up the points any way they want to," said one of the prominent American athletes tonight, "we will win the big events, and that is all we came over for. We'll give them the mollycoddle championship and take the athletic championship ourselves."

Hereafter the American athletes will regard the reputation that they are "boasting" of the British "sports."

Tug-of-War Fiasco.
The richest thing of the week was the tug-of-war, in which a bunch of arm-school Liverpool Bobbies outpulled the American team.

The first real crowd of the week was this afternoon, nearly 6,000 of the seats being filled, Queen Alexandra being present. American athletes and spectators cheered her repeatedly and she bowed in response.

James E. Sullivan, president of the

A. A. U. America's official representative, said tonight:
"The weather has been greatly against the American athletes. The muggy atmosphere has interfered with our men. The meet has been poorly managed."

New Records of the Week.
New records made during the week at the Olympic games follow:
1,500-meter run—United States, 4:59. Olympic record, by W. M. Sheppard, Irish-American Athletic club, in final, and by N. F. Hallows, United Kingdom, in trial heat.
Throwing 16-pound hammer—170 feet 3/4 inches, new Olympic record, by John Flannagan, Irish-American Athletic club.
Javelin throw—178 feet 7/8 inches, new world's record, by Erick Lemming, Sweden.
Five-mile race—25:46 4/5, new Olympic record, by John Shanberg of Sweden.
Ten-mile walk—1:15:57 1/5, new world's record, by G. E. Larner, United Kingdom.
Javelin throw, middle hold—189 feet 10 1/2 inches, new world's record, by Erick Lemming of Sweden.
16-kilometer bicycle—2 hours 47 minutes, by Bartlett, United Kingdom.

Scores, by Nations.
Olympic scores at end of first week, according to universal system of five for firsts, three for seconds, one for thirds, not including bicycle races or swimming:
1,500-meter run—United States, 6; United Kingdom, 4.
Throwing 16-pound hammer—United States, 8; Canada, 1.
3,500-meter walk—United Kingdom, 8; Australia, 1.
Three-mile team—United States, 3; United Kingdom, 5; France, 1.
Throwing javelin—Sweden, 5; Greece, 3; Norway, 2.
Discus, free style—United States, 9; Putting 14-pound shot—United States, 6; United Kingdom, 2.
Throwing javelin, middle hold—Sweden, 6; Norway, 2.
Olympic scores, according to English system, counting one point for each win all contests:
England, 24; United States, 9; Sweden, 4; Norway, 2; Germany, 2; Canada, France, Belgium and Italy, one each.

ADAMS' CONFESSION GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Eight Specific Charges Taken for What They Are Worth, Implicating Haywood and Pettibone—A Long Chapter of Crime Revealed.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Denver, Colo., July 18.—The famous confession made by Steve Adams, the Western Federationist, while in the penitentiary in Idaho, to Supt. McPartland, of the Pinkertons, and which was refused as evidence at Adams' murder trial at Grand Junction, Colo., for the murder of Mine Superintendent Collins, of Telluride, was made public for the first time tonight.

The confession is in eight sections, each relating to a different crime. Taken for what it is worth, the confessions form an interesting human document as that of Harry Orchard, who is now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Boise, Idaho, for the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg.

The confessions relate to the murder of Steunenberg, the killing of Tyler and Boule in northern Idaho, for which Haywood and Pettibone, he says, gave him $200.

Confession No. 2 tells of the murder of Superintendent Collins.

Confession No. 3 relates to the murder of two non-union men at Telluride named Smith and Barney.

Confession No. 4 tells of the beating up of "old man" Stuart at the Vindicator mine, in Cripple Creek.

Confession No. 5 gives the details of the explosion in the Vindicator mine when McCormick and Beck were killed. Adams says this job was done by Harry Orchard and Billy Akman.

Confession No. 6 tells of the murder of Detective Lyle Gregory in Denver. Pettibone, Adams says, ordered this murder.

Confession No. 7 refers to the murder of Mine Superintendent Martin Gleason at Cripple Creek. Adams says this murder was done by Arthur Baxton and Edward Minster, and that the latter got $1,000 and a piano for his part of the job.

Confession No. 8 tells of the Independence depot explosion in the Cripple Creek district, in which 13 non-union men were killed.

NEWSPAPERS MAY FLAY PART OF DIRECT PRIMARY

The Washington State Press association closed its twenty-second annual convention last night at Vancouver after a session of three days, during which it met a half a dozen times and after a thorough discussion of the subject of the direct primary law.

The first real crowd of the week was this afternoon, nearly 6,000 of the seats being filled, Queen Alexandra being present. American athletes and spectators cheered her repeatedly and she bowed in response.

James E. Sullivan, president of the publicity is demanded by public policy. Resolved, That we favor the enactment of a law which will require the publication in every county in the state of a synopsis of the reports of insurance companies.

Resolved, That we favor generally the publication of all notices of a legal nature which are now posted only in the office of the clerk.

Resolved, That we favor the reduction in the legal rate for publication in this state, together with such amendment to the statutes as will make the legal rate a fixed rate.

Resolved, That the legislative committee of this association be instructed to prepare bills in line with the spirit of this resolution, to be submitted to candidates for the legislature for endorsement.

Resolved, That the legislative committee of this association be increased from three to five members.

Banquet Has Features.
Politics and its kindred institutions were dropped by the newspaper men at the banquet held in the dining hall of the Columbia hotel, Vancouver, in the evening. A series of amusing stories, such as the arrest of Lieutenant Governor Coon for allowing Walla Walla to elect a Bryan Democrat for mayor at the recent city election, were arranged by E. E. Beard, chairman of the reception committee. The reading of fake telegrams containing rosy hints on public men, especially the candidates, was also a feature of the evening.

Governor Mead and ex-Governor McBride responded to ludicrous toasts when called upon by Toastmaster Frank B. Cole of Tacoma, who kept the banquet hall in a continuous ripple of laughter with his funny sallies.

Lantern slides showing members of the association in comic sketches on the "seeing Vancouver" auto trip wound up an evening that will long be remembered by the 200 newspaper men and their wives and friends who attended.

WAITER TO BE BASIS OF INTERESTING DECISIONS

Has the municipal judge, acting as a justice of the peace, authority to sentence a man to six months in jail upon conviction on the charge of assault and battery?

Should a prisoner in jail who seeks freedom through a writ of habeas corpus in the circuit court be required to pay $11 filing fees before his petition is considered?

These are knotty questions propounded to Circuit Judge O'Day yesterday in the closing hours of his occupancy of the bench. Because his term was to expire at midnight, and he had not time to go into the problems fully, the court declined to order the petition filed unless the fees asked by the clerk were forthcoming, but offered to issue a writ of habeas corpus, returnable tomorrow, if the $11 were paid.

Tomorrow Circuit Judge E. C. Brown will be presiding judge, and the questions will come up before him for decision.

Two Puzzlers.
The puzzling questions were raised by an application for a habeas corpus writ in behalf of W. M. Werley, a colored waiter sentenced by Judge VanZante for assault upon his wife. Apparently the judge overlooked an amendment to the statute, which provides that the punishment for assault and battery in such a case shall be a fine of from $5 to $50. It is on this point that it is expected to gain liberty for the prisoner, who was ordered to serve six months in jail.

Werley is not blessed with an overplus of wealth, and his attorney objected to paying the $11 filing fee. He contended that this amounts to an obstruction of the habeas corpus writ, which has long been held the refuge of the poor and oppressed when they are illegally restrained. The courts have often held that no impediments shall be placed in the way of this writ, and it is argued that it should be as free as the air if it serves its purpose fully.

Judge O'Day said that on general principles, without having made an examination of the question, he would think fees should not be required in such a case. But he had before him a rule adopted about four years ago by the circuit judges of that day requiring $11 to be paid by applicants for a writ of habeas corpus.

Partial Solution.
Judge O'Day said he would not reverse this rule without a careful examination, and this he would not have time to make in the few hours remaining to him to serve. So he suggested that the fees be paid under protest, or that the whole question be taken up before the now presiding judge tomorrow. Werley's attorney chose the latter alternative.

The order requiring the payment of fees was signed by Judge Cleland, Sears, Grooms and Frazer. At the time it was made the courts were burdened with a great number of applications for habeas corpus writs, attorneys who had rushed into the circuit court immediately afterward in the hope that some law could be found to turn them loose.

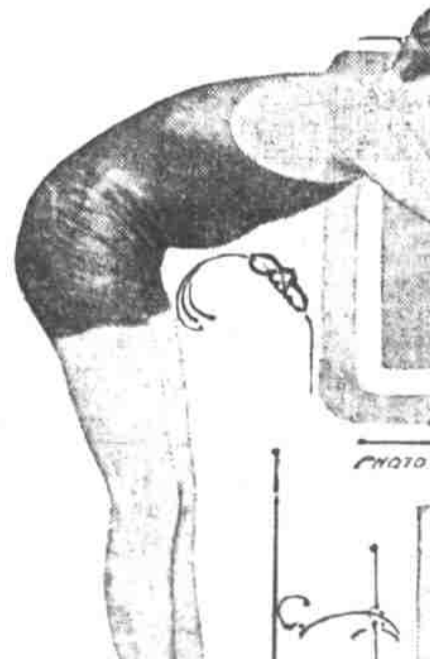

The fee requirement cut out a large proportion of these cases, most of which proved to have no merit and only annoyed the time of the higher court to an annoying degree.

SHOTS MAN WHO STOLE WIFE'S LOVE

Albert Rose, Spanish-American War Vet., Kills Successful Lover.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Seattle, Wash., July 18.—Albert E. Rose, a native of Tripoli, who has a gold medal for service in the Spanish-American war, tonight shot and killed R. W. Joseph, ex-Topham, a Sikh, who he claimed had alienated the affections of Rose's wife.

Rose, who gave himself up after the shooting, expresses no regret and says that he was in a fair way to get a divorce from his wife when he married the Sikh. When they met tonight Rose shot his man down without ceremony.

YOUNGEST SON HAS MOST BRAINS

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was the youngest son of the family and the most distinguished. How often has this not proved to be the case?

Coleridge and Washington Irving were the youngest of 11 children. Benjamin Franklin, the last born of 17. Johnnie Christian, the eleventh and youngest of Johann Sebastian Bach's children, was also the greatest of them. Wagner, Mozart and Beethoven were each the last of seven, as was also Daniel Webster. Rembrandt was the baby in a family of six. Schumann in one of five. George Eliot in one of four, and Charles Lamb the youngest of three. The full list of famous youngest sons is a formidable one.

"And what," asked the bereaved lady, "were my husband's last words?"
"He didn't say any last words," murmured the lady. "After the doctor got through with him on the operating table he said, 'I even a wurred left in him, poor soul!'"

RUSSIAN SQUADRON AND TWO BRITISH CRUISERS MAKE READY TO SAIL

Vienna, July 18.—Information reached here tonight from an official source that a Russian squadron and two British cruisers are ready to sail to Constantinople in anticipation of a crisis arising from the mutiny of the sultan's troops in Macedonia and their march against the Turkish capital.

The rebellion in Asia Minor has left the sultan with a small force to combat the 30,000 mutinous soldiers. No word has been received since early in the day regarding the situation in Salonika and Adrianople. General Wolff's fleet is in command of the sultan's soldiers sent to intercept the rebel army.

INSANE: PARIS GREEN; CHILDREN DEAD

Buffalo N. Y., July 18.—While suffering from a sudden attack of insanity tonight Mrs. Charles Schlem administered Paris green to her three young children and then took a dose of it herself. The children, whose ages ranged from three months to five years, are dead.

Mrs. Schlem was removed to the German hospital, dying.

PORTLAND MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Berkeley, Cal., July 18.—Walter A. Lock, who came here three weeks ago from Portland, suicided with strychnine today. He is about 35 and a member of the Odd Fellows. He is said to have a wife and children in Portland.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Salem, July 18.—After having been out 18 hours the jury in the E. J. Burrows damage suit failed to arrive at a decision. Burrows had brought suit against the Curtis Lumber company for $10,000 damages, for injuries received while at work in the mills.

DEATH IMMINENT IN PEN FOR LIFE

Tottering Under Weight of 70 Years, Woman Bids Freedom Farewell.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, July 18.—Seventy years old, a cripple and unable to walk without assistance, Mrs. Johanna White this evening was taken to the penitentiary at Joliet to serve a life sentence. She is the oldest prisoner ever sent to the Illinois state prison to serve a life term.

The woman was found guilty of manslaughter on evidence that she had performed an illegal operation resulting in the death of a child, in the case of Miss Shuff. The woman's hair is white and she was so weak when taken from the county jail that she had to be carried to a waiting carriage.

TO TRY TO GET THE NEGRO VOTE

Banker Farnsworth Will Undertake Organization for Bryan.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Lincoln, Neb., July 18.—Don Farnsworth, head of the banking house of Farnsworth, Billings and company of Chicago, has been selected to organize the negro vote for the Democrats in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Farnsworth arrived here today. He declined to intimate the purpose of his conference with Bryan but admitted that his proffered services have been accepted.

He came here after a conference with James of Kentucky, Heflin of Alabama, Lamb of Indiana and other prominent Democrats. Farnsworth said he had no doubt the negro vote of the middle west would be organized against Taft. He has made an exhaustive study of the negro question.

LEAVES PULPIT TO FAKE COINS

Charles Wieland Doctors Gold Pieces Which Almost Defy Detection.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Los Angeles, July 18.—Secret Service Agent George W. Hazen has discovered a private mint in an old mine shaft of the Old Dominion Copper company at Globe, Ariz. Charles Wieland of this city, who left the pulpit to enter the ranks of Socialists, was a leader of the gang. It is alleged, and he was arrested today and placed in prison at Tombstone. He also carried his younger brother, Edward Wieland, aged 21, and a half brother, Edward Neenan, both of Los Angeles and both Socialists, to cell.

Hazen returned today with 42 twenty-dollar gold coins which the trio had "doctored" and which almost defy detection. It is believed the men made thousands of dollars by criminal operations and that coins tampered with have been passed all along the coast. Fred Wieland, who studied in the V. M. C. A. school here, seems to have been the mechanical genius. He invented a machine for shaving the faces of coins and removing the milled edges. In the edge and between the faces copper was placed. FLORENCE SUTTON LOSES POTTER CUP

Three Hundred Prisoners Are Drowned by Flood at Sivas, Turkey.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Constantinople, July 18.—Three hundred prisoners, helpless in their cells, were among the 2,000 victims of a flood that has swept Sivas, Turkey, in northern Asia Minor, news of which has just been received here. At the first information of danger the jailers fled without making any provision for the prisoners.

The flood is the worst in the history of that part of the country. The loss of life, coupled with that at Lokat, 50 miles northwest of Sivas, on this night sets a new record in disasters.

A Fast Record.
From Liphrochta, Mecklenburg. One of the Illinois congressmen has a good story of a political convention in that state for the purpose of nominating a candidate for an important office.

The district was a close one and the necessity of selecting a popular man was thoroughly recognized. A speaker had just nominated a personal friend for the position, and in an elaborate eulogy had presented in glowing terms his manifold merits, especially emphasizing his great services on the field of battle, as well as in the pursuits of peace.

After he had finished a voice was heard in the rear of the room. "What we want is the man who will run the best."

In an instant the orator was again on his feet.

"If you think," he yelled, "that this convention can find anybody that can run any better than the gentleman I have nominated, I point once more to his well known war record."

CELLS BECOME DEATH VAULTS

Five Balloons in Endurance Contest.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—Five balloons were sent away from Lexington park late this afternoon in an endurance test. The listing and power of the gas bags was impaired and the getting away was delayed, but at 10 p. m. only one, the King Edward of Winnipeg, was reported down.

The Winnipeg balloon was the first to get away and remained in the air only an hour, making 30 miles to Hampton, Minn. The American and the native laws were spoken at 8 this evening near Northfield, where they threw out ballast and rose, going in a southeasterly direction.

The Pommer, navigated by Dr. Thomas of New York, and the Chicago, sailed by its owner, Charles Coey, of Chicago, did not get away until nearly 1 p. m. and were last sighted 35 miles southwest of the twin cities.

The last report is that two balloons were seen at Redwing at 5:30 p. m., very high and going almost due south. These are believed to be the American and the United States.

A FILLIAL DECEPTION

From Scholar's Own.
A beautiful story is told somewhere of Sir Hubert Herkimer, the great painter. His father was a poor man, and the professor brought him from his native land of Germany to live with him in his beautiful house near London.

The old man used to model in clay in his early life and now that he had leisure he took to it again in his old age. But his hands trembled and the work showed signs of imperfection. It was his one sorrow. At night he went to bed early and when he had gone his son would go into the studio, take his father's poor work and make it as beautiful as possible. When the old man came down in the morning he would look at the work and rub his hands and say, "That I can do as well as ever I did."

Real Woe.
"Mister, I don't know where my next meal's coming from."

"You're in no great trouble," returned the press agent, "I can know where my next meal's coming from, and that's a fact."

Misconception.
"Missus—Now, remember, Bridget, the Innkeeper are coming for dinner. Give 'em a good one, and don't let 'em see you. They'll never trouble you again."
