IRISH-AMERICAN CLUB ATHLETE WINS GREAT MARATHON

AMERICAN LAKE SCENE OF BATTLE

Army Maneuvers to Take Place During Annual Encampment of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota.

Two Regiments of O. N. G. to Participate — Brigadier-General Brush in Command—Sham Battle to Be Fought on Shores of Lake.

If you see a member of the Oregon National Guard walking down the street these days with his shoulders held a little more erect than usual, or with his head thrown back and an unaccustomed martial swing in his stride, you may be sure that he is going to the great annual encampment at American Lake, August 3. There will be more than a thousand soldier boys from Oregon in attendance at the maneuvers that will be indulged in by regulars and volunteers from five or more states.

Oregon will send two regiments and efforts are being made to secure the largest representation ever sent by Oregon. The war department is spending large sums of money to put the National Guardsmen of the various states throughout the country on a footing that will entitle them to be in the first line of defense in case of war.

Brush to Command. This action on the part of the war department follows the unsuccessful efforts for a large standing army. Realizing the importance of a larger army than is authorized by congress at present the department is attempting to protect the country in case of invasion by raising the standard of the National Guard.

MARATHON RACE WON BY AMERICAN RUNNER

HAYES OF NEW YORK TO FRONT

Dorando of Italy Finishes First but Is Disqualified — Hefferon of South Africa Given Second Place by Judges.

Forshaw of Missouri Athletic Club Third—Italian Was Assisted Across Line by Crowd After Brilliant Effort to Win.

(United Press Leased Wire.) London, July 24.—John F. Hayes of the Irish-American Athletic club of New York, was declared winner of the Marathon race this afternoon by the judges, who upheld the protest against Dorando of Italy, who crossed the line first.

Hefferon of South Africa was given second place and Forshaw of the Missouri Athletic club third. It was proved to the satisfaction of the judges that Dorando was assisted across the finish line.

The finish of the Italian's great run was dramatic. He fell five times in the last stages of the race and each time was lifted to his feet and urged on by his friends. The fifth time he fell directly in front of the royal box and Queen Alexandra rose and waved encouragement to him. He then was within 10 yards of the tape. His friends rushed to him, gave him brandy, lifted him to his feet and literally pushed him over the finish line, where he then fell in a dead faint.

He soon was revived and, supported by Hayes, Hefferon and Forshaw, was led to the royal box, where he was introduced to the queen. Soon after it was announced that the judges had declared Hayes the winner of the great race, a protest was filed against him on the charge that he too received aid at one point near the finish.

The Marathon race at Athens in 1896 was won by Sherring of Canada in 2 hours, 51 minutes and 23.3 seconds. King Edward Starts Them Off. With 80 contestants entered, the race was started from the east terrace of Windsor castle this afternoon at a signal given by the crown prince of Sweden. King Edward and the royal family were on the terrace to see the start. The British ruler taking greater interest in this race than in any other event of the Olympic games.

INJUNCTION PLANK WORK OF MITCHELL

Head of Labor Movement Man Who Penned Anti-Injunction Clause Adopted by Democratic Party in Denver, Declares Sweek.

Spoke Only Five Minutes but Argument in Favor of the Provision Was Overwhelming — Measure for Good of Common People.

John Mitchell, the great conservative head of the labor movement of the United States and president of the United Mine-workers, is the man who penned and whose influence and straightforward common sense argument secured the adoption of the anti-injunction plank by the Democratic platform at the national convention in Denver. Samuel Gompers, to whom the anti-injunction plank has been credited throughout the United States, was not its originator.

This is the new sidelight thrown on the work of the great convention which nominated William Jennings Bryan as the choice of the Democratic party, by Judge Alex Sweek, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, who has just returned from his attendance on the Denver gathering. Mitchell's Forceful Argument. Gompers came to Denver with an entire platform, preamble and all in his pocket, says Judge Sweek, and for practically an hour addressed the committee on platform in an effort to have his declaration of principles adopted as the platform of the convention.

Prince of Wales, Who is Guest of Honor at Quebec. From Latest Photograph.

Quebec, July 24.—The most magnificent scene ever witnessed in Canada was presented today on the Plains of Abraham, when the Prince of Wales reviewed 15,000 Canadian troops and 10,000 sailors in the grand military pageant.

Practically the entire population of Quebec was present and in addition there were thousands of visitors and tourists from all parts of the world.

The scene was enlivened and made gay by the appearance of hundreds of persons attired in the historic dress of the time of the early days of Quebec.

Population Turns Out. When the prince emerged from his quarters at the Citadel this morning he found the streets practically deserted.

CROKER HAS NEW VIEWS OF PARTY

Former Tammany Chieftain of Considerably Changed Opinion Since His Acquaintance With English Nobility.

Declares Hughes Belongs to Salvation Army, and That It is Human Nature to Gamble — Is Not in Politics.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, July 24.—Richard Croker, former chieftain of Tammany, will return from Ireland in the fall but denies that he will actively participate in the presidential campaign, though he hopes Bryan will win, according to a special cable message to the New York World today.

In an interview given out at his home at Glencairn, Croker said: "Well, Bryan is a good man and the party ought to win. But who is this man Kern? I suppose I'll find a lot of strange names when I get back."

When he was told who Kern is, and what he has done, he said: "He's from Indiana? Well, he can land that state."

Then the old chieftain drifted into a general discussion of politics, and removing his pipe from his mouth, continued: "Yes, the Republican party has been in power too long. What sort of men have you got over there today? There's Roosevelt. He is the right kind for writing books, but we don't want any more of that sort of presidents."

"He knows only one thing. He don't know the top and the bottom man, the man who shoots craps on the corner and the man who plays bridge at the club. He knows only himself and his set, and that is all. D'ye see?"

Croker, in talking of the present conditions in New York state, declared that Governor Hughes belongs to the Salvation Army. In this connection he said: "It is human nature to gamble. Life is a gamble."

He declared that King Edward is the most popular man in Christendom, saying: "If there were an election for a president of the world King Edward would be chosen, because he is broad and he knows the whole game. He is an all-round gentleman and enjoys a fair game. He understands the poor tipster in the two-hob ring as well as he understands the rich."

Speaking of the conditions in Ireland today and the fight being waged for home rule, Croker resented the intimation that the Irish people were severely oppressed, and declared: "No, sir, there is more actual freedom in Ireland today than there is in New York."

DEAD MAN TELLS TALES IN DIARY Says Alice Smokes Cigarettes and McLean Is a Dub. Denver, July 24.—Entries found in a robber's diary today say that Alice Roosevelt Longworth smokes cigarettes and that Edward B. McLean, who married Evelyn Walsh, looks like a dub. The author of the sensational book, William McMulkin, was shot, and killed last night by a policeman.

McMulkin robbed a man and was trying to escape. His victim shouted for help and an officer shot the fleeing highwayman. In his pocket was found a diary in which the names of many prominent women were employed as a servant in the homes of the families.
