WOMAN IS KILLED BY STREETCAR

Miss M. O. Douthit Hurled by East-Bound Coach at Morrison and Lownsdale —Skull Fractured—Dies in Hospital.

Was Well-Known Writer of Western Stories—Stepped Behind One Car to Be Struck by Another Despite Warning Shouts.

Miss Mary O. Douthit, pioneer teacher of Portland, a well known western author and magazine writer, was struck by a streetcar at Lownsdale and Morrison streets yesterday afternoon at 4:39 o'clock and died last night at 9:30. Her skull was crushed by her fall to the pavement.

Miss Douthit had just alighted from the westbound "W" car and was passing around it. The motorman on the eastbound "W" car, which was coming toward her, says he rang the gong vigorously and several passersby shouted a warning, but Miss Douthit evidently did not hear them or see the car, for it struck her squarely. A passing automobile took the unconscious woman to the Good Samaritan, where she died from her injuries after suffering nearly five hours.

The conductor on the car that struck Miss Douthit is J. A. Brown and the motorman J. A. Walger.

Miss Douthit was 58 years old and leaves a brother, J. A. Douthit, a well-known newspaper man of The Dalles. She had lived in this city for many years. She was employed as a teacher in the East Side public schools for a long while and afterwards conducted a Kindergarten at Irvington.

Miss Douthit was the author of "A Souvenir of Western Women," and other works. Her articles on the west have been published in many periodicals.

With Miss Douthit when she died was her niece, Miss Minnie Swank, who lives in Sunnyside and works for the J. K. Gill company of Portland. Miss Douthit lived at 1808 East Tenth street.

MUSICAL NUMBERS AT BIBLE SCHOOL

Large Audience Is Delighted With Noted Basso and Accompanist.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Albany, Or., July 25.—Music ruled the evening session of the Albany College Summer Bible school, Friday. Fred Butler and Miss Hansen, the new head of the Albany Conservatory of Music divided the honors. A large and enthusiastic crowd congregated at the grounds to hear the noted soloist and singer. Mr. Butler is the greatest basso ever heard in the valley. Miss Hansen on the piano easily shared honors with him. The program was as follows: "The Sunset Gun," by Mr. Butler, overture to the opera, "Bohemian Girl," Miss Hansen; "My Love, Nell," Mr. Butler; overture to the opera "Rigoletto," Miss Hansen; "My Own United States," Mr. Butler. Each number was responded to by the performer and most enthusiastically received.

Last night another popular entertainment was given and Miss Mae Pollock, an alumnus of Albany College and a graduate of Emerson School of Oratory and Elocution was again introduced to the people of Albany. This having been her home city, she was warmly received and keenly appreciated. Mrs. Dr. Geselbracht, recently of Chicago, appeared as soloist and won instant favor. Rev. W. P. White delivered an illustrated lecture on "England and Her Institutions."

Today will be given over to religious addresses, and these, the closing addresses of the school, will probably be heard by the largest crowd of any previous session. Rev. Dr. Foulkes of Portland will speak in the afternoon and Dr. S. E. Vance of Cincinnati in the evening. On Monday night W. C. Hawley will speak on the subject, "The Relation of Religion to Public Life."

COMPLAINT IS MADE OF DISCRIMINATION

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)

Salem, Or., July 25.—That express rates now enforced on the Southern Pacific by the Wells, Fargo Express company discriminate against the small creamery in favor of the large creamery.

A FOOD DRINK.

Which Brings Daily Enjoyment.

A lady doctor writes:

"Though busy hourly with my own affairs, I will not deny myself the pleasure of taking a few minutes to tell of the enjoyment daily attained from my morning cup of Postum. It is a food beverage and a stimulant like coffee.

"I began to use Postum 8 years ago, not because I wanted to, but because coffee, which I dearly loved, made my nights long weary periods to be dreaded and unfitting me for business during the day.

"On advice of a friend, I first tried Postum, making it carefully as suggested on the package. As I had always used 'cream and no sugar,' I mixed my Postum so. It looked good, was clear and fragrant and it was a pleasure to see the cream color it as my Kentucky friend always wanted her coffee to look—'like a new saddle.'

"Then I tasted it critically and I was pleased, yes, satisfied with my Postum in taste and effect, and am yet, being a constant user of it all these years.

"I continually assure my friends and acquaintances that they will like Postum in place of coffee, and receive benefit from its use. I have gained weight, can sleep and am not nervous."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

PORTLAND "NEWSIES" LIKE THOSE IN FABLE

Small, and Money Scarce, but May Be Millionaires Some Day.

The picturesque newsboy lives mostly in his relation to Portland, on the stage and in the story book. At least so it seems until one comes in closer contact with the children who peddle papers at the tops of their voices every day. For that matter many never come in closer relation with them than to swear silently every Sunday morning when they call their wares under the chamber windows in voices that would wake the dead.

But in Portland are three newsboys who are exact replicas of the fable kind. They are small and black and eager. Their father taught them the nuances of the trade. They are well equipped.

Bennie is 8 years old and fathers the crowd. "Fathers" is advisedly used, for he stands in the place of the elder protector, but he does not boss the boys. Each one bosses himself.

Willie and Georgie are twins of 5, and though when you see them off their beat their black eyes sparkle with fun and mischief and they are ready at any moment to double up their fists and back their arguments, you would never dream it when you see them selling their papers. They look at you pitifully, with tears filling their eyes and making them blacker still.

They beg and plead and beseech, and you can see the starving hunger starting from their eyes and can hear the freezing cold spreading in their plaintive voices, and feel the bitter poverty in their clinging hands. And ten to one if you meet them you will buy a paper. It is even probable that you bought this very paper with their story in it from one of them and magnanimously said "Keep the change," when he looked in vain and so honestly for three pennies to give you out of the pocketful he had of them.

Bennie and Georgie and Willie Goldstein are the kind of newsboys you read about, and some day they may tell their friends of the time they sold "Cholnals" in Portland and laid the foundation for their millions. But now they do not count millions, but only pennies, dimes and nickels, but they count them just as gleefully and hoard them just as tenderly, and seek for them just as earnestly.

And if you think they are hypocrites because they weep and fawn about your legs, forget it. They are merely following legitimate methods of getting business, and you can afford to encourage such embryonic business men.

CASH REGISTER AND CARD INDEX LATEST

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, July 25.—The most scientific political campaign the country has ever known will be conducted this summer and fall by the Republican national committee, as the result of the conferences here today and at Colorado Springs earlier in the week, according to a statement by National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock tonight.

Hitchcock has just finished an eight-hour conference with national committeemen and state chairmen from the middle western states and he sent them home to fight enthusiastic for his card index plans.

Under the name of every Republican voter in every state in which the Republicans make a fight will be put on a card in the Republican headquarters, together with all his political affiliations past and present and all sorts of old information about him and his inclinations.

By this means managers will be able to assort the voters into classes and to send literature.

In districts populated by members of distinctive religious creeds, for example, the literature asking for votes will be signed by some prominent church man or contain an indorsement by him.

William H. Hayward and Victor Rosewater of Nebraska explained the effects of such a system in their state, at the conference.

Chairman Hitchcock and his aides will hold other conferences Sunday. They will leave for Cincinnati Monday to attend the formal notification of Judge Taft.

MOVE BATHS TO BERTH UNDER MORRISON BRIDGE

After inspecting the public baths again yesterday afternoon Health Officer Pohl, Park Superintendent Mische and Councilman Kellaher decided that the peripatetic public institution of health would have to be moved once more. Mr. Mische had just got them into the new berth out in the channel near the Jefferson street dock and he groaned as he thought of his labors gone to naught. But Dr. Pohl declared the baths are unhealthy where they are now and Mr. Kellaher said he had a fine site picked out under the Morrison bridge. So to the Morrison bridge the baths will go some time this week, if the existing impediments be the way of the change can be removed.

In the first place the city will have to get the consent of the county court to build an approach to the baths from the bridge. Then it will have to consult the harbor officials and the owners of East Side water frontage about anchoring the baths in the proposed position, just south of the Morrison bridge. About 15 or 20 piles will have to be driven to anchor the baths. And if anyone insists on their getting out they will have to be moved. But it seems to be the only way of getting decent water, according to the city officials, and they are anxious to try it.

Although the water in the baths now is far from being clean it has been decided to keep the baths open until they can be moved to their new place. If children are not allowed in the baths, it is claimed, they will swim in the same dirty water off the river bank, with the added danger from drowning.

HALSEY VISITED BY CRACKSMEN

Safe in Store Is Looted of $400 Worth of Rings—Escape on Speeder.

Halsey, Or., July 25.—Safe blowers entered the general merchandise store of McCully Brothers and Sturtevant last night, secured $400 worth of diamond rings, $5 in cash, and then made their escape on a speeder stolen from the Southern Pacific railroad company's shed. Officers are searching for trace of them today.

Entrance was secured by bursting the locks from the front door of the store. It is believed that the safe was first partially wrecked by nitro-glycerine and then forced with tools. A sledge, chisel, punch and an partly empty bottle of nitro-glycerine were found in the store.

A trap in the safe containing $250 worth of rings and jewelry was overlooked. The total damage to the store and safe will approximate $500.

MURPHY IN LINE WITH W. J. BRYAN

was real opposition to both and the meeting resolved itself back to Mack.

The Big Men Fix It all Up.

The sub-committee discussed the situation mixed and cold for hours. At times the session was decidedly warm and there were suggestions by certain members to discomfit Murphy and go ahead and announce Mack's selection. But rather than see her Kern would consent. Finally Mack again called Murphy and conversed with him. After a time he called Bryan to the telephone and the subject was canvassed between the two big men. What was said will never be divulged, but finally Bryan, Kern and Mack went into conference and shortly afterward it was announced that Mack had been selected.

New York the Battleground.

The rumor was at once set on foot that Bryan and Murphy had made an agreement, and this was in part confirmed by a statement made by the candidate later, that New York would be a real battleground from now on and that he expected the state vote would be recorded in the Democratic column.

Mack also confirmed the report. He was asked:

"Is your selection satisfactory to Murphy and Connors?"

"We consulted the New York state leaders and they are willing to announce that they have no objection to my serving as national chairman," he replied.

After the selection of Mack, the naming of the other officials was an easy task and the committee adjourned until 8 o'clock tonight, when it again reconvened.

Bryan Praises His Aides.

In discussing the new officials, Bryan made this statement:

"The action of the committee in the selection of officers is very satisfactory. Mr. Mack is a member of the committee and it has been felt all the time that the chairman should be taken from the committee, unless there was some weighty reason for going outside, and no such reason appeared. Mr. Mack's appointment is a recognition of the eastern democracy, and an announcement that we expect to fight for New York.

"He is in harmony with our platform and I can say of him positively that he has been a close and trusted friend in former campaigns. One of the strongest arguments in his favor was that he is a successful business man. Beginning at the bottom of the ladder he has built up a business that amounts to more than $500,000 a year, and the executive ability he has shown in his work commended him to the committee that made the selection.

Proud of His Business Men.

"Mr. Hall, the vice-chairman, was for many years chairman of the Democratic committee of Nebraska. He is at the head of one of our leading banks and is officially connected with both politics and business. We have worked together in politics ever since I went to Nebraska.

"Mr. Woodson, the secretary, is also an old member.

"Governor Haskell, the treasurer, is a new member, but he has made good as a leading member of the constitutional convention of Oklahoma and as governor. His organizing ability will be valuable to the committee. His selection as treasurer is especially appropriate, because he comes from the state in which depositors are absolutely secure and the Democratic platform has a plank advocating the adoption of a national system similar to that now in operation in Oklahoma.

"We do not know how much our campaign fund will be, but we know that it will not be lost by any bank failure."

When the sub-committee reconvened at 8 o'clock tonight it was announced that the list of members of the executive committee would not be made public until Monday or Tuesday of next week.

The sub-committee then continued its discussion of campaign plans.

Watterson Heads Press Committee.

Bryan was the best pleased man in Chicago late tonight when he received a telegram from Henry Watterson of Louisville, declaring he would be glad to accept the chairmanship of the Democratic press committee. This committee, which will be the first real press committee the Democrats have had in many years, will be made up of 25 editors of the most popular Democratic papers throughout the country which support Bryan. The committee will be selected by Watterson and National Chairman Mack and will probably be announced in Buffalo early next week.

Outline of Campaign Plan.

In view of the fact that Watterson fought Bryan in 1896, his warm support of the Nebraskan has now given Bryan more joy than anything that has happened since the nomination.

Nat'l Chairman Mack announced tonight that he would leave for Buffalo tomorrow night to remain there a few days. It will return probably next week, when national headquarters will be established here. Mack, Gilmore, Vice-Chairman Hall and Governor Jennings of Florida will take personal charge of the Chicago headquarters and direct the whole democratic campaign.

Mack said a systematic campaign, especially in the western states, would be made, and he predicted that Bryan would carry New York by 100,000 plurality.

LESS PAINT AND POWDER

Harmful Cosmetics Being Discarded by Eastern Society Women.

New York druggists report a great falling off in the demand for rouges, cosmetics, lotions and other manufactured "beautifiers." Whether this tendency is a part of the movement for the inexpensive simple life, or whether the New York women have awakened to the harmful after-effects of these chemical compounds is not stated. Anyhow, there is a revival of the use of the old-fashioned home preparations, those that have stood the test of time. Here is a recipe for a home-made face wash that a down town druggist filled 18 times in one day: Rose Water, 3 ounces; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce. To make the face wash put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling) and after it has dissolved strain and let cool, then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits. The daily use of this preparation is absolutely harmless, and there is nothing better than Eppotone to soften, whiten and beautify the complexion.

JEWISH SCHOLAR AND MUSICIAN TO LOCATE

Rev. A. Kahn, a Jewish scholar and lecturer, is in Portland from Tacoma and Butte, to which places he went two years ago from Berlin. Rev. Mr. Kahn intends to make his home here, having found other cities of the northwest too small for his work. He is an accomplished musician as is also Mrs. Kahn. Both are graduates of musical colleges at Berlin. They will give a concert at Nova Zedeck synagogue, corner Sixth and Hall streets, next Tuesday evening. Features of this will be the Koll Nidry rendered on the violin by Rev. Kahn and an original composition of his own on the same instrument in imitation of a canary bird.

ALLEGED SUNDAY VIOLATERS ARRESTED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Roseburg, Or., July 25.—Five Roseburg business men were arrested yesterday for violation of the Sunday closing law. The complaint was made by L. W. Engles. The defendants are: R. B. Mathews, soft drinks; Denning & Kent, cigar store; E. Rhodes, confectionery; E. Jennings, bakery.

The outcome is awaited with great interest. If the state loses Sunday baseball games will be resumed and stores will remain open on Sunday.

Rev. J. K. Hawkins' sermon theme for tomrrow is, "Blind Pigs Discovered —A Word of Warning." No complaints have been filed for such, and if any are discovered it will be a revelation to the authorities.

WELL-KNOWN SCOUT TAKES LAST TRAIL

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Butte, Mont., July 25.—Pharis B. Lane, commonly known as "Sandy," died last night at his home. Mr. Lane was a government scout, Indian fighter, driver of the pony express, and a merchant in the early days. His career reads like a wild west story, so many were his experiences. His deeds of heroism during Indian campaigns have been the foundation of many stories in fiction.

He was government scout out of Fort Ellis when the Yellowstone country was infested with hostile Indians. During the Nez Perce war he was with Howard's company and gave valuable service as a scout. He was familiar with every foot of the ground.

Death Roll of the Northwest

Stephen Merlau.

Eugene, Or., July 25.—Stephen Merlau, 59 years of age, founder of Merlau's park, near Eugene, now known as Bang's park, died at his home here today. He came to Eugene from California 21 years ago and was at one time well off, but through bad investments had lost nearly all his property. He had been in bad health for the past four years, Bright's disease being the complaint.

Weather Report.

Since yesterday a new high pressure area has made its appearance off the North Pacific states and the weather has cleared in all portions of this district. Showers and thunderstorms, however, have occurred in western Montana and in Utah and Nevada. It is much cooler in eastern Washington, northern Idaho, eastern Oregon and Nevada and much warmer in North Dakota and southern Utah.

The indications are for fair and warmer weather in this district Sunday.

FORECASTS

Portland and vicinity Sunday, fair and warmer, except near the coast. Northwest winds.

Idaho—Sunday, fair and warmer.

THROWN FROM HORSE; DROWNS IN COLUMBIA

William McMath Loses Life While Seining Around Miller's Sands.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Astoria, Or., July 26.—William McMath was drowned in Miller's Sands, opposite Altoona while driving a horse across Lilac Gulch Sands, hauling a seine, this morning. The man was on horseback. The horse floundered in the deep water, throwing McMath. He drowned before assistance could be rendered. McMath had been a watchman at the Miller Sands seining grounds for six or seven years. The body was recovered this afternoon in a seine and brought here for burial. The deceased was about 54 years old and well known on the river. He leaves a sister in Indiana. He was single.

From a Smart Family.

Henrietta and Louise, little maidens of 10 years, had for some time been rivals for the honors in room IV. Louise's mother and father had both been teachers—a great advantage in Henrietta's eyes. One day, upon being censured by her father for bringing home a report below Louise's she replied, "Yes, papa, but you must remember, Louise comes from a smart family."

The Edward R. Squibb policy in manufacturing is, "Make the finest article that skill and money can produce, and watch the product at every point, figure costs, and sell it at a reasonable profit. Never allow yourself to figure competitively, for competition is destructive of high quality." That's the reason why goods bearing the Squibb label are always the finest the world produces.

Thomas says

Candy is one of the great foods as well as luxuries of the American people. If made under clean and sanitary conditions, and with high regard for purity, it becomes a part of the beneficial diet of man. Pure candy will not injure or disturb the most delicate stomach, as is the contrary with those adulterated with glucose and artificial flavorings. The Walter Lowney Co. of Boston, Mass., enjoy a larger patronage than all other manufacturers of national reputation combined; due entirely to the superiority of their product, as well as to their absolute purity and methods of clean manufacture. We carry the most complete line of Lowney's candies in Portland, and they're always fresh, too, for we receive weekly shipments. 10c, 15c, 25c, 35c, 60c, 75c, $1.20 Package.
