(United Press Leased Wire.)
Lenox, Mass., July 29.—Attorney-General Bonaparte and Frank B. Kellogg, special counsel for the government in the "trust busting" cases, concluded their conference here today and it is supposed they completed plans for an immediate resumption of action against the Standard Oil company in connection with the $29,240,000 fine which was re-

SUTRO HOLDINGS TO GO ON THE MARKET

Richest Estate in San Francisco Will Be Divided Into City Lots.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, July 29.—Real estate circles here are stimulated by the announcement that the holdings of the estate of the late Adolph Sutro, which comprise one-tenth of the entire area of the city and county of San Francisco and some of the choicest residence tracts in the state, are to be divided among the six heirs and shortly thrown upon the market.

CLUB NOT ALLOW

with tender resignation as president. Thanking you one and all for your confidence and aid in the past and wishing you all the success and prosperity in your future undertakings for the benefit of our city, I remain, very respectfully yours,
W. L. BOLSE.
After the reading of the resignation remarks were made by H. H. Newhall, M. C. Griffin, H. W. Hodges, Jr., E. M. Davis, S. M. Crocker, and Dr. C. H. Rafferty regarding Mr. Bolse's services to the east side and the city of Portland. The following resolution was then unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, the courts hold a man innocent until proven guilty, and in view of the fact that W. L. Bolse, through his attorney, has asked the court to suspend judgment until his side of the case has been heard, and also in view of his untiring efforts in behalf of the growth and upbuilding of the east side, regardless of any particular section; therefore, be it resolved, By the delegates of the United East Side Push clubs, that the resignation of W. L. Bolse be laid on the table, that we express our appreciation of his work on the east side of this club, and hope and believe that he will be able to exonerate himself from the charges made against him.

Discuss High Bridge.

There was extensive discussion of the proposed new Madison bridge question. A VanHousen advocated erection of a bridge at East Mill and Clay streets, several blocks south of the present structure, where it could be built 45 feet higher, thereby permitting all river craft to pass under without opening the draw.

TARS READY TO GREET NEPTUNE

Battleship Sailors Will Initiate Green Hands When Line Is Crossed.

By H. Lee Clotworthy, United Press Correspondent, on Board the Battleship Georgia, via Wireless to Honolulu.
Honolulu, July 28.—Everything is in readiness for the ceremony of crossing the equator tomorrow. Old King Neptune is getting out his false whiskers from his locker and sharpening his trident, for the Jackies who have never crossed the equator before has something in store for them.
Every battleship is making elaborate preparations for tomorrow's doings. I have not been able to learn so much about the exact nature of the preparations as I would like to, myself, for I cross the equator tomorrow for the first time. I'll know tomorrow night. There are some 7,000 men with the fleet, however, who have never crossed the mysterious line before and so I shall have plenty of company.
From all reports, King Neptune will have his hands full. Each neptunite must be put through a course of sprouts that will mark him ever afterwards as a true son of the sea. Every one is looking forward to the occasion with keen anticipation.
All today was spent in getting things ready for the advent of the jovial monarch of the deep. It would not do to have him step up on the gangplank and behold a dirty and unshaven deck. Everything looks shining and bright. The president of the United States never reviewed a finer looking fleet than will do homage to Neptune tomorrow. Forward they have erected some sort of a raised throne upon which Neptune will be seated. At the rear is a chamber of horrors through which the uninitiated must pass before they are presented to his majesty. None of the neophtes dare be allowed there for several days. They will see it tomorrow.
The past few days have been spent in maneuvering. Occasional warm rains have come upon us.

NEW I. O. O. F. HALL TO BE DEDICATED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Vale, Or., July 29.—The dedication of the I. O. O. F. hall will take place in Vale at the time of the holding of the new $15,000 hall and business block. The two store rooms will be occupied by the Vale hardware store and a new clothing company, of which E. L. Hamilton of this city will be one of the proprietors.
The lodge part consists of a fine hall room, a kitchen, dining-room and parlor. The building is of red brick and stone. The lower story is of the native gray stone taken from the quarries at Vale. It will be the finest lodge building in this part of the state when completed. The old Fellows will rent the old building.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

At the hospital the Italian said he was starving and was tired of life and wanted to die. When his clothing was searched $31 in currency was found.

LINEMAN HITS LIVE WIRE ON POLE

Gallant Rescuer Faints When Strain of Excitement Is Over.

Suspended from a live wire that sent a current of 2,300 volts through his body, La. Reneau La. Rene, one of the linemen engaged in cutting the wires in the vicinity of the fire, was the subject of a daring rescue by G. D. Swinohart of Seattle and W. R. Castleman, a brother lineman. La. Rene was badly burned about the arms and body, but was rescued in time to save his life.
La. Rene had climbed a pole in front of the Scott hotel at Seventh and Burnside, a block south of where the fire was burning. He was wearing climbing spurs, but in some manner he lost his footing and fell on two wires, with his left arm caught around one, the wire passing under the arm-pit. Here La. Rene hung, crying for help, when Castleman, who had been cutting wires in the next block, heard him and ran to his assistance.
G. D. Swinohart of Seattle, traveling for the Seattle Fixture company, a guest at the Oregon hotel, and Charles M. Menzies, a foreman of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, with Castleman, secured a rope halter, and climbing climbed and adjusted the loop around La. Rene's body. Passing the rope over one of the cross-arms of the pole, they pulled the by this time unconscious lineman up and away from the wires and then let him gently down to the ground. As La. Rene reached the ground, and Castleman saw that he was safe, the latter himself fainted from the strain and excitement of the rescue. But the crowd that had gathered didn't see this, and as Castleman dropped down beside La. Rene, a few minutes later the noise of the fire and the songs and whistles of the engines, they pulled La. Rene was carried to a waiting ambulance and taken to the Good Samaritan hospital, where the doctors said he would recover, although badly burned about the trunk and under the arms. Castleman, the hero of the affair, was revived in a few minutes and went on with his hazardous work of cutting the wires and overhead cables.
