Flour	32	3	10
Hay	35	35	27
Wheat	56	37	45

Trading in the wheat market was of the excitable character during the past week. Prices were bid upward and up the word on every occasion, there seemingly being no height at all to which the value for this kind of cereals could venture. The tendency in the week the price of the cash bluestem had gone beyond the 90c mark basis of track and had but a few moments more to go before the price would have advanced to a level which would have been a reality within a few weeks. The advance in the price of wheat and other cereals on the wheat and other cereals.

Fight Between Exporter and Miller.

During the week there developed one of the fiercest fights in the history of the wheat market. The fight was between the exporter and the miller, each accusing the other of cheating. The exporter, however, is paying the advance if they want wheat at all for while they are debating over the price another crop will be put out and the price will be lower than the price of the wheat and other cereals.

Strong Position of Flour.

There never was a time when the flour market stood in such a strong position as it does today. With wheat prices at the high level, the price of flour is holding out for still higher prices. The position of the miller is not of the nature of the flour market. The cost of production, a very normal export flour demand and local conditions which make higher flour prices to maintain a steady market. The flour market is in a strong position.

FRONT STREET REVIEWS.

Brief Mention of Many Busy Lines of Trade for Past Six Days.

There was a weaker tone in eggs the past week owing to more liberal local supplies, poor quality and larger supplies of stock could be sold under local values. Chickens sold at lower prices during the week. Socks in the hands of retailers are heavy and they are not disposed to purchase unless granted lower values. The market for the contract market for hops has left that trade feature for the week. Watermelons are selling about 4c lower owing to the very liberal supplies. The season is about concluded and for the best Lamberts somewhat higher values ruled during the six days. Apples are selling rather scarce during the six days and there being a like shortage in California stocks here, the market advanced in California. Cabinet supplies were exceedingly scarce during the week and there was a sharp advance in their prices. Some supplies were brought in from California but they did not supply the call. Potatoes are selling rather scarce during the week. Onions from California and Walla Walla came more freely during the week and prices are down 12 1/2c a sack for both varieties. Front street sells at the following prices: These and shippers are less regular commissions: Grain, Flour and Hay.
