BEAVERS GRAB ANOTHER GAME

Johnson's Double Brings Winning Run Across in Eighth.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—For the second time in two days Ote Johnson, the mighty slugger of the Beavers, brought home victory with a screeching two-bagger to centerfield that scored Tom Raftery in the eighth inning when the score was a tie. It was a close game along toward the finish, and anybody looked a winner. Johnson won Wednesday's game by his timely wallops.

Portland made her first three runs in the fourth inning. Zeider booted Raftery's hard grounder after one had been retired. Johnson worked Sutor for a base on balls and Danzig copped a safety. Ryan assisted in a squeeze play which allowed Raftery to register. Johnson came home a moment later on Cooney's bingle. Then Danzig and Cooney, the big and the little, pulled off a hair-raising double steal, and Babe reached the plate safely.

San Francisco copped the same number of runs in the seventh. Little Jess Garrett having blanked the Seals up to that moment. He let down a moment and Zeider walked. Then Melchior singled. Nick Williams' handy swat for two cushions allowed Zeider to score and Melchior to reach third. Beck, the new outfielder, brought Melchior home with a single. Claude Berry sent a long, high sacrifice fly to Ryan which brought in Williams. Beck was morgued at the plate.

With the score a tie the northerners went in determined to break it up. McCredie's single amounted to little, for he was forced at second by Raftery. Raftery put on full speed when Johnson poked his two-ply bing to center and reached home with time to spare.

At the beginning of the game Sutor objected to pitching, giving as a reason that he had been worked too much of late. However, Manager Long insisted that the clever Texan go to the firing line, and he finally obeyed orders. Sutor pitched a splendid game against his old opponent Jess Garrett, also from the Lone Star state. This was their first clash since that 13-inning game in Portland several weeks back which was called a draw without either side scoring.

The score:

RED HOT GOSSIP FOR RABID FANS

Is George Wheeler a greater utility man than Ote Johnson? This is a question that is being discussed by fans along the coast. Here in Portland we think that old George is good, but he is not in it with Ote when it comes to playing every position and wielding the willow in pinches. Johnson stock went soaring yesterday and the day before, when the Viking's big stick won both games. Yesterday it was a pinch double, the previous afternoon it was a homer and a double in one inning that tied the score and won the game. Verily, we say, Ote is best of all.

Los Angeles, Aug. 7.—Local baseball magnates today say that the meeting for the organization of a sixth team for next season's Pacific Coast baseball league will be held early next week. The meeting was to have been held last night, but was postponed owing to the absence of Cal Ewing, president of the league who was called to Denver by the death of his mother.

Slim Marshall and the Vancouver club of the Northwestern league are now engaged in a dickering match, which will probably result in the attenuated one going to the Canadian city in a short time to finish the season. Marshall was left at home when the Beavers went south Sunday night. Manager McCredie thought him hardly finished enough for class A company. He advised Marshall to spend a couple of years with some class B team, and the youngster has taken kindly to the advice. Mac thinks with age and experience Slim will become a first-class pitcher. Just now he is too young to go against the hardened players of the Coast league.

Probably before the week has passed some more interesting news will come out of Los Angeles relative to the sale of Angel stars. Yesterday the wires contained report of the negotiations between Chicago White Sox and Manager Berry for the purchase of Ted Easterly and Rube Ellis. President Comiskey is anxious to secure the two players. Berry wired back that Ellis was in the market and he would probably let Easterly go. Frank Chance of the Chicago Nationals has a verbal option on Easterly and Berry asked him for a release. The players will not join the big league teams until next season. If they are purchased Berry will get a good price for them.

By the way, there will be no Coasters sold for delivery to the majors this fall. Judge McCredie received a wire from the southern magnates asking that he promise no delivery of his stars until after the playing season has closed. Two or three of the managers wanted to sell at once, but when the matter was put up to them in the right way they consented to wait. The move is an excellent one. It will preserve the class of the league to the end of the season and leave the patrons of the game in a happy frame of mind through the next two months of playing. Had any of the locals been disposed of there would have been a howl sent up that would have revereberated over the state.

Very likely another season will not pass before the spit ball is chased from the game. Several National and American league managers are hot after the spitter and they will probably bring it up at the next meeting of the National commission. They argue that a batter is helpless before a man with a large assortment of the saliva pills. There is only one thing to do, they contend, either abolish the foul strike rule or do away with the spit ball. The wet delivery knocks the daylight out of batting averages. If the spitter is put under the ban, not a few old-timers who have taken a second lease on life will lose their jobs.

Ever stop to think how many of the big league stars once played in the Pacific Coast league? No? Well, there are quite a few. Hal Chase, the greatest first baseman in the business, came from the coast, and will never go back till he has to use crutches. Doc Newton, the pitcher, has had his whack at the coast outfits in his career of wandering about the land. Mike Donlin is another. Fred Snodgrass was a sandlot performer in Los Angeles when McGraw picked him up to sit on the bench for the Giants. Larry McLean and Mike Mitchell, two of the Reds, were once with the Portland team.

Joe Cantillon has a bunch from the coast. Bill Burns, Walter Johnson and Eli Cates are three pitchers from the league next to Japan. Burns was in Los Angeles last season. "Hot Cakes" Cates was with Oakland. "Apollo" Street, the backstop, played with San Francisco. That's the crowd with the Senators. Chance and Overall, with the Cubs, are products of the Pacific Coast league, and the Red Sox have Cravath and Arellanes.

This year's crop of stars in the Coast league is just as promising as ever. Dolly Gray, the Los Angeles crack boxman, is sure to go up if some one brings around the money. Bobby Groom of Portland is another premier twirler. Danzig of the Red Sox, playing with Portland, is sure to be heard from next season, says the Boston Traveler.

Lady King, 97 (Page), 4 to 1, second; Fire Ball, 119 (Williams), 1 to 3, third. Time, 1:01 1-5.

AT THE THEATRES

Merry Grafters at the Oaks.

People who go to the Oaks this week and take a peep into the big airdome in the evening are rewarded with the sight of a very pretty and amusing comedy. "The Merry Grafters," being produced by the Allen Curtis Comedy company. The comedy is good, the situations are funny, the songs are well executed and the dancers are well trained.

Pantages Next Week.

The Pantages management has secured as a feature for next week's entertainment the seven Zinzabar Arabs, genuine native sons of the desert, lightning whirlwind acrobats and pyramid builders. This act has no equal and must be seen to be appreciated.

The Pantages Theatre.

George W. Day, the funny black-face comedian, is making the biggest kind of a hit at the Pantages theatre this week. See him and forget your troubles. By the way, Miss Daisy Richmond now appearing at the Pantages with the Claxton company, will wear for the first time in Portland, at all three performances Friday, the new directoire gown, so popular in the east.

Great Headline Act.

For the coming week Sullivan & Considine are sending a great headline act. This will be Manuel Romain, the tenor, and the Foley boys, assisted by the Palmer sisters. The Foleys and Romain have been starred with the leading minstrel aggregations of the world. The coming bill is to be another edition de luxe of vaudeville.

Sirronje's Feats.

No other handcuff operator has been so successful in Portland as Sirronje, the girl at the Grand this week. She is the only woman who has attempted these feats. There are many other features on the program. Among them are Ott, Nelson and Steadman, comedians; June Salmo, contortionist, Terley, the bust imitator, and several other specialty artists.

STATE BANKS MAY ESTABLISH BRANCHES

Olympia, Wash., Aug. 7.—The supreme court has handed down an opinion holding that banks incorporated under the state law may establish branch banks. State Bank Examiner A. W. Engle refused to file the corporation papers of the British-American bank of Spokane because the articles gave the bank power to establish branches. A. C. Flunerfelt and other incorporators secured a writ of mandate in the lower court requiring Engle to file the articles. The supreme court affirms the decision but declines to pass on the question of capitalization or management of the branches, that issue not being properly before it.

GIRLS TO DRAW ATHLETE HEROS

Smithson, Gilbert and Kelly Will Be Objects of Adoration.

How would you like to see some three or four hundred of Oregon's fairest daughters drawing a great float containing Oregon's three heroes, Forrest Smithson, Dan Kelly and Al Gilbert over a course lighted by hand torches and red fire?

You may get a chance, for this was one of the novel plans of entertainment suggested at the meeting of the local committee at the Commercial club last night. There were a number of other features submitted and taken all in all it will be a parade such as Oregon will never forget. There was plenty of opportunity given for unique ideas and the ancient Roman plan was laid before the committee by A. Berg, the delegate from the Portland Ad club.

Without much ado the committee decided that a special car from New York west would be too expensive and finally decided to secure a drawing-room on one of the Pullmans for the three athletes and the committee of two which will travel across the continent to meet them. Under this arrangement the traveling expenses can be reduced to about $700.

The committee of two will be selected by Dr. A. A. Morrison, the chairman, with the aid of the board of directors of the Multnomah Athletic club. It was definitely decided to select one newspaper man to look after the publicity feature and an athlete who will look after the entertainments at the various athletic clubs en route home. The board of directors meets Tuesday night.

Just what route will be selected on the return trip is up to the transportation committee, which will make its report at the next meeting. What is considered the best route is from New York west through Buffalo, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver and Salt Lake. This is the section where exploitation will result to greatest advantage.

New York is preparing to entertain the returning athletes August 29. Rates eastward can be procured on August 23 at a great reduction and the tickets will be bought at this time. The money saved in railroad expense will be applied to the reception of the athletes in Portland.

PLAY CRICKET GAME TO SELECT PLAYERS

Tomorrow is the date of the cricket match of the Portland Cricket club, which will determine what players are to be taken from Portland to represent the Rose City in the northwest tournament. The match will be played on the cricket grounds at Montavilla, starting at 3 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend the game. At the conclusion the men will be selected and a full list of players sent north.

Following is the tournament team: W. G. Smith, K. Bailey, Charles Blakesley, J. Churchley, A. Greig, F. Henderson, F. McKenzie, J. Hughes, C. P. Browne, H. Verrender, E. Fenwick (captain).

MAKING GREAT SUCCESS

Important Changes Made by the Old Red Front Store.

The old and prominent corner at First and Salmon streets, which has been the home of clothing stores for many years, has undergone a transformation during the past month. A. Rosenstein, the owner of the Red Front now situated on this corner, is the man who planned and paid for the extensive and costly changes. In place of one entrance there are two, and the show windows are now of modern design. The prismatic glass over the front throws a great deal of light into the store and renders it one of the brightest looking stores of the city. The old and out of date office has been supplanted by a new cashier's desk and wrapping counter.

The prosperous look of the Red Front is a true representation of the condition of the establishment. Under the direction of Mr. Rosenstein the good will of the public has been enlisted and an enviable patronage built up. The business has increased to such proportions that Mr. Rosenstein is considering opening a branch house in which he will doubtless duplicate his former successes.

CLAGGETT SUED FOR DIVORCE

Didn't Take His Shirt Off for a Month, Declares His Complaining Spouse.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)

Salem, Or., Aug. 7.—William Claggett, the wealthy farmer of Marion county who recently had his son-in-law arrested for trespass because he came into the house and ate a meal uninvited, has been made the defendant in a divorce suit brought by his wife, the mother of the son-in-law. The wife, who is Claggett's third, wants one third of the property. Claggett is worth considerable; it takes five typewritten pages to describe the third that his wife desires.

This is the third legal tangle that has grown out of the trespass case. When Claggett married his present wife he gave her a horse and buggy. Unable, she alleges, to get any money out of her husband she sent one of the children down to the leading livery stable men in Salem and sold the horse and harness. The forepart of the week Claggett brought suit against the liveryman for the recovery of the horse on the ground that it was stolen property.

Mrs. Claggett alleges in her complaint that for three weeks she has nearly starved to death; that her husband has moved all the furniture including a steel range, which she says was her own, out to the ranch and left her without means or utensils to feed herself and children.

Mrs. Claggett also says in the complaint that Mr. Claggett wore the same shirt for a month without taking it off and that when she purchased a new one for him he grew exceedingly profane and it was very unpleasant to remain in the house with him.

Denver, Aug. 7.—Tomorrow night, for the first time on record, the "work" of a secret order will be transmitted by long-distance telephone, when Manley J. Hemmens, supreme councillor of the United Commercial Travelers, will sit in his home at Green Bay, Wis., and listen to the initiation of 50 candidates by Pike's Peak council 15 of this city. That absolute secrecy may be insured it has been arranged to place members of the order in charge of all connection along the line as well as at Green Bay and Denver.

THE WIND UP OF THE HUB

SATURDAY POSITIVELY THE LAST DAY

Only one more day left in which to dispose of our entire stock of Men's Clothing, Shoes, Hats and Furnishing Goods. Our lease expires Saturday, August 8, and we must vacate the store at once. We have a large stock of merchandise on hand and no place to take it to, and rather than store it we are going to sacrifice the whole stock at prices never known before in Portland. THIS IS NO FAKE OR TRUMPED UP AFFAIR.

WE WILL FORFEIT ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS

to any one proving The Hub Clothing Co. doing business after Saturday, August 8. Therefore take advantage of the marvelous bargains to be gotten here tomorrow.

NOTHING RESERVED—Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes, etc., as low as one third of cost of manufacture. Remember the place.
