

GRIDIRON WHOLE STATE WITH FINEST HIGHWAYS

Good Roads Convention Plans on Concerted Move to Get Every County Into Action—Will Raise $10,000 to Start Campaign by Personal Canvass.

Oregon is to be gridironed with good roads from every boundary. Two hundred men drawn to Portland from every section of the state said so yesterday and as a result of their good faith have pledged that the sum of $10,000 be raised by popular subscription for the purpose of employing Judge L. R. Webster of Multnomah county and Judge John H. Scott of Marion county as missionaries to tour the state and educate the people and the county governments in the construction and need of permanent highways.

Besides this, however, a legislative committee appointed by the good roads conference yesterday will begin the compilation of a good roads law at an early date which law will be presented to the legislature and urged for passage by the united roads sentiment of the state.

Demand Will Grow.
It was a big work that was put under way by the conference yesterday. Called together in the morning there was some internal strife because of the belief that the interest of the caller of the conference was to supersede the Oregon Good Roads association and disregard its work. As soon as this belief had been dispelled harmony settled down over all the delegates, and they each worked for the common end.

When they adjourn today and scatter to their homes in different sections of the state they will take with them the missionary spirit of yesterday and plant it in every county. Pledged to talk good roads, to preach and argue their need, to educate the people of the state into a united demand for effective legislation it is believed that by the time the legislature is assembled in January the demand for adequate good roads legislation will be so strong as to be irresistible.

The ways and means committee of the conference yesterday afternoon considered the work that should be done at once in the interests of good roads construction. In its report the committee urged that the committee be made a permanent body, and entrusted with the task of raising $10,000 for the employment of two men to tour the state under its direction preaching good roads, advising in their construction and working in harmony with the county governments in so far as that might be possible.

Will Raise Big Sum.
The report of the committee was adopted by the conference by a unanimous vote. The full text of the report is as follows:
"Your committee on ways and means begs leave to report that in its opinion the sum of $10,000 may be raised to defray the expenses of an enthusiastic and energetic campaign for good roads. We further recommend that two men be employed to carry on the work, and that these two men be Judge Lionel R. Webster of Multnomah county and Judge John H. Scott of Marion county, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made with these gentlemen by this committee.

It is further the sense of this committee that it should have permanent existence and the medium through which the work of this conference be carried on.

Clasey has been made permanent secretary of this committee, without salary.

The personnel of this committee, made permanent by the organization is as follows:
John H. Albert of Marion county, chairman; W. M. Ladd of Multnomah county, Tom Richardson of Multnomah county, J. W. Bailey, state dairy and food commissioner, G. W. Evans and J. S. Beavis of Multnomah county and A. A. Jayne of Hood River county.

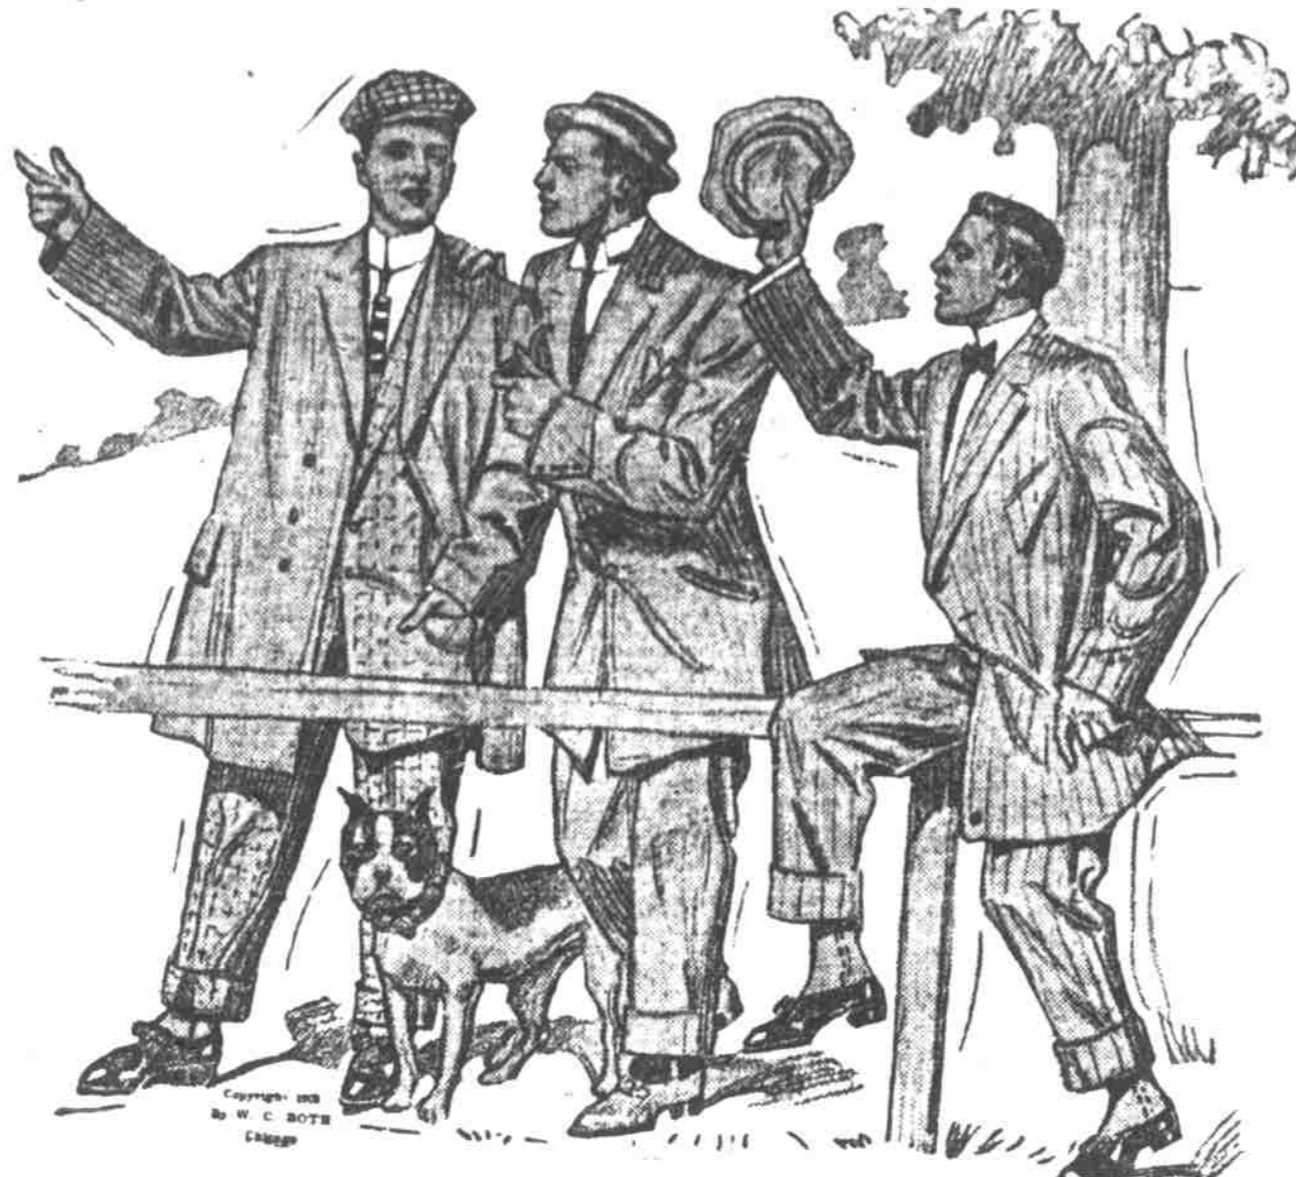

A strong effort was made yesterday to secure the endorsement of the Johnson road bill, passed by the last session of the legislature and vetoed by the governor. This bill will be considered by the legislature in January, and an effort will be made to pass it, notwithstanding the governor's veto.

Several delegates, including Senator Johnson, Senator Kay of Marion and ex-Senator Shealdon of Wasco spoke in favor of this action. John H. Albert of Salem, however, sounded a note of warning which was heeded. He called attention to the fact that the Johnson law had included politics in its structure in that it had attempted to take away from the governor the right to name the commission created by the bill.

Out Out Politics.
It had been vetoed in part because of this fact. The speaker urged that policy be needed in the conference, but not politics, and asked that the delegates pause and read between the lines. The bill was referred to the legislative committee for consideration together with the suggestions made by Judge Webster.

This committee on legislation which will draft a bill for the good roads legislation is composed of the following men:
County Judge J. B. Messick of Baker county, chairman; State Senator A. J. Johnson of Benton county, Judge L. R. Webster of Multnomah county, Judge John H. Scott of Marion county, W. K. Newell of Washington county, president of state board of horticulture, A. T. Huxton of Washington county, master Oregon State grange; J. D. Lee of Polk county and Benton Bowers of Jackson county.

The conference ended its labors last evening shortly after 9 o'clock.

JOURNAL SCHOLARSHIPS WELL WORTH AN EFFORT

Now that cooler weather has set in the contestants in the Oregon Journal's third annual scholarship contest will not find the work so strenuous, and they should be able to cover more ground and make greater progress. The evenings are getting longer and in consequence people will have more time to read and feel better disposed to subscribe liberally for the Journal. They will get both sides of the political question in an unbiased way, besides getting all the general news of the world and an unequalled Pacific coast news service.

"There's a silver dollar," exclaimed Pat. "Oh," said Mike, "that's not worth stooping down for. Sure no wan notices that, let us go on till we strike the 'hops'." "Bogorra," replied Pat stooping down and gathering in the dollar. "Oh! pick it up just for luck." And Mike is looking for this heap yet.

Index to Bargains.
The women who are the great purchasers of household commodities read The Journal faithfully. They study economy, and the Journal being the great index to the leading stores of Portland they refer to it first, last and all the time. The Journal excels in news pertaining to women, and the funny pages of the Journal are a source of great joy and amusement to the children. By drawing the people's attention to the exclusive features of The Journal it will be easier to secure long term subscription orders.

By explaining the object of your canvass thousands of present subscribers whose subscriptions have not yet expired will cheerfully give you their renewal orders to date from the expiration of their present terms. Hundreds of people who buy The Journal daily can be induced to subscribe, they will willingly do so to help a deserving student who they know is striving to earn his or her own way through college. Cover your territory and the whole field systematically and thoroughly, and don't let up till the last minutes of the contest. With a full knowledge of the value of good education and of a scholarship in a leading college, wise students should not allow an opportunity such as The Oregon Journal affords to pass without making the greatest efforts of their lives to win.

Rare Opportunities.
This is not an every-day chance. It only happens every year, and a year is a long time to wait for another chance. The present time is always the best time to take advantage of opportunities. Don't take chances on losing such great prizes as a valuable education and a large cash award by expecting to get just as good a chance or a better one in the future.

This puts the writer in mind of a story he once heard of two Irishmen who heard that America was literally covered with gold. They made up their minds to come to the new world and finally landed in New York. Walking down Broadway they found it difficult to navigate their way in the busy street.

out grasping them. Some young people chance to luck to succeed and they invariably fall, while those who are always up and doing leave others away behind in the race.

Worth the Effort.
The Journal scholarships are too valuable to ignore, and many boys and girls will discover to their great regret that they made a big mistake by not applying themselves closely to contest work during this season.

It is not yet too late to make a determined effort. Clever students could start in now and easily run ahead of those now leading. All it requires is a will to win and you will win.

PORTLAND COUPLE WED IN SCOTLAND
The Dundee Advertiser of July 28, which has just reached here, contains an interesting article of the marriage at Dundee of James Cormack, this city, and Miss Rita Lawson, Cordova Place, Carnoustie. The ceremony took place in the Panbridge P. E. church, before a large congregation. Mr. Cormack is connected with the loan department of the firm of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., exporters and importers, this city, and left here a few months ago for his home at Newhouse, Deerness, Orkney. With his wife, he will return shortly.

According to the article in the Advertiser, the wedding was quite American, the bride party adopting the preparation of eating the church as they do here, while the strains of the Lohengrin bridal march floated from the pipe organ.

Among the invited guests at the wedding were three Portland people, Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Baxter and Mrs. D. Dalgleish, who are visiting with relatives and friends in Scotland.

FORESTERS LAY SIEGE TO CITY AND CAPTURE IT

John J. O'Grady, supreme chief ranger, and 4,000 Foresters have captured Portland and will run the Rose City in their own way today and tomorrow. Mayor Lane acknowledged the capture at the Armory last night and wished the Foresters well. Before the surrender of the city was made the Foresters formed at Seventh and Morrison streets and marched more than 2,000 strong through the streets to the grim fortress at Tenth and Davis streets.

To aid them in their siege the Foresters engaged the services of three bands, the Swedish Singing club Columbia and the Oregon male quartet. Singing and speechmaking formed an important part of the occasion and the vast crowd that assembled in the huge auditorium went home delighted with the good time that marked the greatest gathering in the history of Forestry in the Pacific northwest.

Mayor Lane Speaks.
It was 8:45 o'clock when a Brauer, post grand and order, after a brief speech of welcome, introduced Mayor Lane. An ovation was tendered the chief executive as he rose to speak and after paying a splendid tribute to the gathering and to fraternal orders in general he turned over the city to the Foresters in a characteristic speech.

A. B. Daligly, grand secretary, introduced chief O'Grady, by the course of his remarks won favor with the audience by his witty stories. Mr. O'Grady was warmly received by the Foresters and his speech lasting about 10 minutes explained the principles of Forestry and the purpose of his visit to the Pacific coast. He dwelt upon the benefits that accrue to those who live true to the teachings of the order, and said in part:

"This is a benevolent organization and not an insurance order. We have about 250,000 members in the United States divided into 2,000 courts in every state in the Union. We have sick benefits for those who are unfortunate and also arrange to take care of our dead. Besides this the object of our order is to do something in attaining the best in humanity.

Oregon's Membership.
"The object of my trip is to aid you in increasing the number of members in your jurisdiction. Out of the 250,000 members of the order, Oregon has but 4,000. This number should be greatly increased and an appeal made to your citizens for this purpose. The appeal should not be made on the financial basis of the order, but on the basis of what we can do. All classes should be represented in the Foresters, the rich as well as the poor, because it is an organization that appeals to the best in a man. What we do for those who become afflicted with sickness or accidents does not carry with it the sting of charity. Whatever benefits a man receives from the Foresters is like taking his own. This is the great difference between our order and others organized along similar lines.

Mr. O'Grady closed his speech with an appeal to the members to do the work which has come to form so prominent a place among men in the east. He was followed by Dr. Harold Harrison of Tacoma, grand chief of Oregon and Washington. The following grand court officers of Washington are in the city at present: Dr. Harold Harrison, grand chief; Eugene Tacoma, Charles Barth, grand sub-chief ranger; Spokan; Thomas H. Andrew, grand secretary; Seattle; C. T. Mescher, grand treasurer; Everett; S. K. Bowes, deputy supreme chief ranger; Aberdeen; H. Conklin, chairman of the grand trustees; Tacoma; W. L. Norrington, supreme trustee, Seattle.

"Tonight will end Mr. O'Grady's visit in Portland. Accompanied by the grand court officers of Washington and a representative of the grand court of Oregon, he will leave tomorrow morning for Astoria, with Mrs. O'Grady and their children.

"I tell you," said Blinick, "men are getting so drowsy these days that you can't trust your best friends." "And what worse," interrupted Burroughs, gloomily, "you can't get your best friends to trust you."—Philadelphia Press.

IT SAVES TIME AND MONEY.

That's the reason you should use P. & G. Naphtha Soap.

There is only one reason why you should use P. & G. Naphtha Soap and that reason is—IT SAVES TIME, TROUBLE AND MONEY.

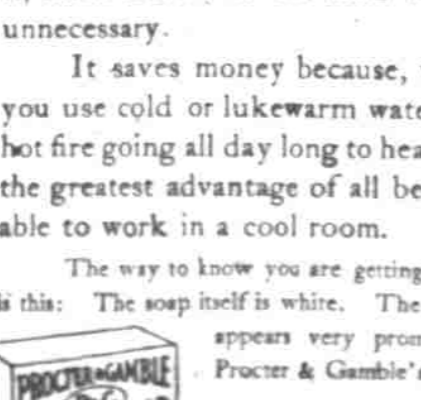

It saves time because it enables you to do as much work in an hour as now takes two.

It saves trouble because, on account of the naphtha in it, three-fourths of the hard work over the wash-board is unnecessary.

It saves money because, with P. & G. Naphtha Soap, you use cold or lukewarm water and do not need to keep a hot fire going all day long to heat the water. This is, really, the greatest advantage of all because it means that you are able to work in a cool room.

The way to know you are getting the genuine P. & G. Naphtha Soap is this: The soap itself is white. The wrapper is blue and on the front of it appears very prominently the name of the brand: Procter & Gamble's (P. & G.) Naphtha Soap.
