We herewith present the 13th week in the educational contest which includes all subscriptions received up to and including Thursday, August 20. In district No. 1 Ralph Robnett and Lenha Melton are rapidly increasing their score making a desperate fight for first place. David Wilson has made a substantial increase and all other contestants in this district have increased their vote considerably since the last count.

In district No. 2 Freda Launer makes another sensational increase and it is also true of Miss Olivia Williams. Both contestants are hard at work determining that every second will show considerable improvement. Gladys Nelson of Oswego is also hard at work and makes quite a jump in the score list. Beulah Gilkey of Corvallis makes a very large gain and is following Miss Nelson as a very close fourth. Adela Volstedt, Paul Numan, William Patterson and Earl Jackson have all been hard at work making some improvement in their score.

District No. 3 shows up very well and while the contestants did not make a large increase last week every one of them shows some improvement and Miss Gilkey increases her lead a trifle over the other contestants. Miss

BRIDGE QUESTION STIRS UP ROW

Word War, Harsh Criticism, Graft Charges Fly in Club Meeting.

Charging that the Federated East Side clubs are working for "the interests" in advocating the building of the new bridge across the Willamette at the site of the old one at Madison street, A. Van Hoomissen bitterly denounced the action of the various delegates of the federated organizations at a meeting of the Brooklyn Improvement and Republican club last night. A bitter personal debate followed between members of pro and anti Madison street bridges. At the conclusion of the meeting Father Gregory of the Brooklyn club resigned as a delegate to the federated clubs.

M. G. Griffin, one of the leading promoters of the old bridge site, spoke in its favor and was plunged into a hot word war with City Auditor Harbo and others for taking the stand adopted by the east side clubs on the bridge question. While none of the speakers openly declared any person or corporation guilty of graft it was insinuated in a manner plain to all that the Portland Railway company has the lobbyists among the federated clubs and that these men are fighting for the location of the bridge at Madison street to the detriment of the best interests of the east side. The speakers forgot to consider the fact that the bond issue calls only for a bridge at the present site and that to build it at any other would require a modification of the law.

The Brooklyn insurgents declare that the people could easily change this if the matter were put to a vote. They contend that the bridge should be built further up the river at some point where the structure would have sufficient elevation to allow steamers to pass without the necessity of opening a draw. The speakers also declared that they also have all car tracks placed below the bridge so that the railroads would not interfere with other traffic.

PA EXPECTS TO BE HAPPY, TOP

Tuesday next is to be the red letter day on the calendar for the little boy and his big brother. It is circus day, and that means the grand climax to the plans and meditations of the past several weeks.

According to the Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth announcement, there is some instructive and entertaining amusement in store for those who witness the unfolding of the circus paraphernalia. This is said to be an education in itself.

The Barnum and Bailey show is from the standpoint of magnitude one of the two great circuses now on the American continent, and that means that it will be a veritable moving metropolis in the amusement line.

From the past reputation of the circus, it is only reasonable to expect that it will carry with it some of the finest horses to be seen in the country, and these will all be seen to advantage while the train is being unloaded. And the manner in which the work of unloading and setting up camp is conducted is said to be with the like precision. Every move is for a purpose, and on account of the multitude of things that are done at one time the wheels within wheels turn without interfering with each other.

Then, when this work is nearly completed, there will follow the monster parade, in which the spectators will be given their first opportunity to gaze on all the animals and interesting creatures that will take a circus menagerie.

FALLS OFF PLANK BREAKING RIB

Edward I. Thompson of the banking firm of Hartman & Thompson is confined to his home suffering from a broken rib and numerous painful bruises, the result of a bad fall he had on Wednesday. His condition, however, is not at all serious and he hopes to be able to get out and about his business before long.

Mr. Thompson had sufficiently recovered this morning from the shock to be able to answer the telephone himself. He was inclined to make little of the accident and of his injuries, which he said were not serious and probably not of much interest to the public, though painful enough to himself. He stated that he was out working on a platform when a board broke, letting him fall a distance of about eight feet. One rib was smashed and he was badly bruised. He is now at his home swathed in bandages, but hopeful of being able to get out within a few days.

Mr. Thompson was the second prominent business man of Portland injured by a fall on Wednesday, the other being W. C. Knighton, the architect, who fell three stories and was badly injured.

MRS. CORNELL ESCAPES PAYING A FINE

An effort was made by one of the warring spiritualist factions to have all seven defendants in the case brought at the instance of Rev. Green C. Love against Sophia Seip and others fined in the circuit court yesterday. It was urged that the defendants have merited punishment by failing to vacate their offices as directors of the State Spiritual association after they had been officially ousted by the court.

Judge Morrow analyzed the case as far as possible and decided that the secretary, Mrs. Lou Ellen Cornell, was the only one who stands in such position that a fine might be imposed. There it was discovered that a final judgment that said nothing about fine had been entered against her, and Judge Morrow held that he was without authority to fine even her. So for the present, at least, no spiritualist money will enrich the county treasury.
