FIGHTING GAME IS BOOMING IN SOUTH

KETCHEL AND BURNS WOULD BE GREAT GO

He Will J. Buttery.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—The fighting game is looking up around San Francisco once more, and with three championship matches in plain view, the fans will be very well entertained during the next few months. All the recent fights pulled off here and at Colma have proved live ones rather than bloomers, and this has helped to bring the game back, when it looked rather dubious for the pastime a few months back.

The next one on the card is the Attell-Moran skidoo fight, under the auspices of Jim Coffroth's club at the Mission street arena on Labor day, September 7. If the match fails to call any noticeable upon its merits, the 25-round proposition will serve to help boost or bam it in the long run.

It is the most singular match that has ever been made in the history of the roped arena. Nobody ever heard of the like before, and therefore, the whole country is talking over it. The eastern critics have found food in the articles for much joking, and some of them go so far as to intimate that the principals ribbed the group for 23 rounds just to gain for it some free boosting which they feared it would not otherwise receive.

There is no question but that Attell has the better of the bargain. The shorter the route the better it looks for him. He stood Moran off for 25 rounds last New Year's day when he was in under weight and weak from lack of food. The hurricane finish which the little British champion made on that memorable day won for him a soft spot in the heart of every fight fan here, and most of them are of the opinion that he will be able to come on and beat Attell now that he will be allowed to enter the ring with several pounds the better of it in weight.

Attell is working out with none other than old Joe Gans. Every day over at the Alameda training quarters, the pair goes through a series of boxing stunts that are far better than most spectators see in a ring after paying fancy prices for seats. There is a certain amount of rivalry as to cleverness between the pair and they hammer each other in a lively way every time they hook up. Clever as the little Hebrew is, he does not clash with the dink boy. Joe can reach him with right and left nearly every time he tries, but Attell fights him to a standstill.

As the days roll by, the possibility for a meeting between Stanley Ketchel and Tommy Burns for the heavyweight championship of the world is more marked. Already the wily Canadian is throwing out hints over the wire from far-away Australia and just as soon as he discovers that he has plucked all the quinces in the land of the kangaroo, he will beat it for old San Francisco fast. This is the city to get the money in the fighting business and nobody is more alive to this fact than the lemon champion.

Promoter Jim Coffroth hopes to stake the fight either on Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Years day at his Mission street arena. If the present plans of Coffroth carry, the fight will be an open-air attraction and moving pictures will be taken. Provided that Ketchel tears into Burns as he has been training into all of his late opponents, the pictures themselves will be worth a fortune, not only in this country but in the British Isles and Australia, where Burns has made himself so well, if not kindly, known during the past year. He is a great advertiser and he knows the value of publicity.

If these giants of the ring ever get together, the meeting should result in one of the greatest fistic events since the old days when 3 titles and Europe were in their prime. There is no argument, but that the heavyweight champions are the stars in all the big events of the past. They have played for most money of late years, but welter-weight boxers have been a source that the promoters have exploited more than other classes of boxers for their gate, but now that Ketchel has loomed up on the horizon, he has filled a long felt want and supplied some lucky individual with a chance to put off a world renowned match and cash in a big roll for himself.

The wonderful rise of Ketchel, coupled with his fighting style in the ring, has made the heads of the promoters that he could bring more drawing and quicker cash at the gate than goes against Burns, for he will be encountering a foe who will be "its steel. Burns, it will be remembered, has on after the soft spot in the title and nothing as much as he could but get the same thing. He is wise further. He can hit as well as box and when Ketchel gets him in the ring he will find it he is not so easily a picket.

[illegible] with either hand to [illegible] this night. This one does not [illegible] more than a few [illegible] before putting a man out. On this Burns is a very shifty young man. HORSE SHOW LIST IS EXTENSIVE ONE

FANCIERS HAVE PLENTY CLASSES

In preparing the classification list for the Portland Hunt club horse show, President McGrath and his assistant, Samuel E. Kramer, the celebrated New York whip, followed the most exclusive classifications of eastern shows, and with the probable exception that the Portland list is less severe as to restrictions, it compares with that used at Madison Square and other noted show places. The public was astounded at the very creditable showing made at the initial show last year, but with the many new classes added for this season, and the remarkable number of high-bred horses which have been purchased by local fanciers since then, the October event will be one which will attract attention in all parts of the country.

Samuel E. Kramer, who is an authority on correct appointments and equipment, put up a silver cup for the best amateur lady driver and this class promises to excite keen competition. Mounting and dismounting from the carriage will count 25 per cent each, while driving and handling whip and reins will count 50 per cent. There are many other classes for ladies, the driving tandem being of especial interest to the crack women riders of the city. There will also be many entries for the ladies' jumping classes.

The coachmen are encouraged to reach a high standard in driving and appointments by the offer of $100 in cash divided into four prizes. The children have not been overlooked either, the pony classes providing for all sizes and vehicles. Mr. Kramer is an enthusiast on polo and a class for polo ponies has accordingly been made. Any one wanting advice or information about proper classes to enter and appointments of vehicles should consult Mr. Kramer, as he is here for that purpose and is anxious to be of assistance to prospective entrymen. He can be found at Hunt club headquarters, 229 Lumber Exchange, Main 8237, or at the Oregon hotel.
