Heavier Salmon Pack.

While the detailed official figures for all canners are not yet at hand it is now quite safely estimated that the spring-summer pack of salmon in the Columbia river this season has been fully 15 per cent greater than a year ago. While some canners report a pack of about the same size as a year ago most of them tell of increases. For example the official figures of the Pillar Rock cannery, owned by Everding & Farrell, show a pack of 20,500 cases this season compared with 15,500 a year ago, 21,100 in 1906, 18,300 in 1905, 22,700 in 1904 and 18,600 in 1903. It will thus be noted that the present pack of fish in the Columbia—and the Pillar Rock institution is generally a good indication to follow in summing up the total—is the best average in about six years. The pack of the Warren company at its two canneries this season was about 38,000 cases, just about the same as a year ago. The Seufert cannery at Celilo reached a total of about 12,000 cases the present season, the exact figures not being fully compiled as yet.

Probably no Fall Pack.

Because of the new Oregon law which is now in effect the season closed yesterday along the Columbia river and its tributaries and will not reopen until September 10 when it will run until September 30. This allows but 20 days for the packing of fall fish on the Oregon side of the Columbia this season and it is believed that few, if any, of the packers will open their plants for that length of time. While there is no law prohibiting the catching and packing of salmon on the Washington side of the Columbia after September 30, it is believed at this time that the packers there will follow the lead of the Oregon packers and close their plants during the fall season. Generally speaking the fall salmon is not of very good quality and packers are not disposed to overload the market with poor fish and thus spoil the reputation of their better pack.

Bristol Bay Run Is Heavy.

While the run in some sections of northern Alaska is not reported so good during the past few days, according to advices received here this morning the catch and pack at Bristol bay is said to be quite heavy. Reports from southwestern Alaska indicate that the pack there will be one of the greatest in its history but it is a notable fact that the run of red fish is smaller in that vicinity than usual. Probably 90 per cent of the pack there this season will consist of the cheaper grades.

Salmon Market Doing Better.

While during the past two weeks there was some cutting reported on Alaska salmon by those who needed ready money, it is now stated that opening prices are being fully maintained and that there is a disposition among brokers to take all offerings at the list. According to leading Columbia river packers there is no truth in the report of secret cutting by local packers because all the fish packed has practically been sold. One packer stated today that he has been trying to purchase Columbia river fish to fill orders which he was unable to furnish from his own institution, because of the press of bids, but was unable to do so even at the full list.

Brief Notes of the Trade.

Watermelon trade is slow. Weather too cool. First shipments of Dalles melons reported in. Good shape, too.

Peach market is holding with receipts heavy.

Tomatoes are down another notch but price is not weak.

Some dealers are quoting a drop in chicken values but general market is unchanged.

Tone in eggs is rather mixed with some receivers being quite willing to unload at 24c and 25c while others say they are easily getting 25c and in some instances a fraction more. Price depends upon total arrivals of each dealer.

Another car of sweet potatoes was among the morning's arrivals from the south.

Potato market remains stiff for fancy stock for Alaska shipment. Ordinary stock dull and dragging.

Harvest Is About Over.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Or., Aug. 26.—Harvest is now over and several hundred idle men throng the streets of Umatilla county towns. Many of these will go to Grand Ronde to work in the beet fields, many to the sawmills of the coast and others to the large cities to spend the winter. Local merchants report a much heavier cash trade this fall than ever before during the prevalence of the saloon. A different class of harvest hands came to the county this season.

1906	152	102	600
1905	435	105	181

Portland Union Stockyards, Aug. 26.—While the cattle market is fully as firm as ever, the quality of present arrivals is not sufficiently good to bring over $4@4.25, and it takes something out of the ordinary—of which few have been received of late—to bring the latter figure. Generally speaking, the price for best stuff rules around $4@4.10.

Hog market shows better arrivals for the day, with the tone of the buying very firm at top quoted figures. Practically no first-class stock is now arriving and the general top of the market today is $7.

As in other lines, there continues a very steady to firm tone in sheep. In the local yards there has of late been a dearth of select wethers and for this reason the average quotations are scarcely ever up to the top figures. However, the market is firm at the quoted figures, and if the proper quality comes the price could be obtained.

Today 37 horses and 40 calves arrived in the yards.

A year ago today cattle market was firmer, but hogs were showing some signs of weakness. Sheep were steady. All values were unchanged for the day.

Official yard values today:

Hogs—Best east of mountains, $7; ordinary, $6.75@7; blockers and China fats, $6; stockers and feeders, $5@5.50.

Cattle—Select east of mountains, steers, $4@4.25; medium steers, $3.75@4.00; ordinary, $3.25@3.50; cows and heifers, $3; medium cows, $2.50@2.75; stags, $3@3.50; bulls, $2@2.25.

Sheep—Best wethers, $3.50; ordinary wethers, $3@3.25; lambs, $4; straight ewes, $2.50; mixed lots, $2.50@2.75.

Veal—Choice young calves, $4.50; heavy and rough, $3@4.

80,000 TO 90,000 BALES HOPS IN STATE

Salem, Or., Aug. 26.—It is estimated by dealers and growers in Marion county that Oregon this year will yield from 80,000 to 90,000 bales as against 140,000 in 1907. The acreage has been reduced from 30,000 last year to the 22,000 or 23,000 acres that are under cultivation in 1908. While the quality of the hops is good the yield is very uneven.

Picking will be late this season though the larger growers will begin about September 7 in order to get finished before the fall rains spoil the crop or delay picking. Krebs Bros. will probably start picking on that date if not sooner. Very few other growers will start as early.

The price for picking this year generally will be 80 cents per 100 pounds, as was decided at a meeting of the growers' association held in Salem a few weeks ago. Some other growers that are compelled by circumstances will pay a bigger price.

The growers have also decided that they will pick by the pound instead of by the box, the method that has been established in the Willamette valley for a number of years. It is thought that not many growers will go back to the box method, as picking by weight is regarded the fairest both by growers and pickers.

Ukiah, Cal., Aug. 26.—Because of the scarcity of money among local hop growers, together with the poor quality of the crop and the extremely low price in the market, the opening of the hop-picking season in the Ukiah valley today was unusually dull. Many hop men have gone out of business and are preparing to plant their fields in garden stuffs.

The number of pickers in this district is only about half that of former years and in many ranches the owners have turned away their employes owing to inability to secure ready cash for running expenses. As the market price for hops at present is only 80 cents per 100 pounds, the growers believe they would be under heavy loss in attempting to harvest.

A prominent hop man near here offered his $30,000 ranch as security for an $8,000 loan, but was refused the money by several financial firms.

The canneries are preparing to begin picking beans, tomatoes and fruits this week. The two former crops have been damaged by the heat. The fruit yield has been good.

Barley, cars	14	10	8
Flour, cars	3	1	3
Hay, cars	18	19	21
Oats, cars	1	3	3
Wheat, cars	59	74	74

The great strength of the local oats situation at this time is due to two reasons—the press of farm work and the fact that for the past two seasons dealers have been bumped by holding over old supplies until the new crop, and therefore this year found the market bare of oats when offerings of new oats were small. All through the Willamette valley the trade is paying on a basis of $27 a ton Portland for No. 1 white oats, in some instances a fraction more when the buyer is entirely out of supplies.

Cash wheat values show another dip, with buyers purchasing but sparingly, owing to the dull flour situation. The exception continues to be Willamette valley stock, the fight over which is still waging fiercely around Salem.

Export flour market is very dull, but sellers are disposed to hold their asking values stiffer around $3.60@3.70 basis Portland delivery. Silver remains at the low point in the orient and therefore outside of a few sales for actual requirements the trade on the other side of the Pacific is not disposed to purchase at the present ruling.

On the board of trade there was nothing doing in futures today, and even the bids were scarce. Values remain at yesterday's quotations and are as follows:

SOUTHERN PAC. MAKES RECORD

Touches New High Mark at 101 1-2 and Closes Within a Fraction of It.

New York, Aug. 26.—Excellent earning statements with a very heavy demand for the issue today put Southern Pacific common stock to 101½, the highest point in the history of that security.

New York, Aug. 26.—The hint that Morgan and Harriman were going to confer at an early date regarding the Erie railway lent encouragement to the stock market, although trading for the day was on a very light scale. Sales this morning to 11 o'clock were 69,000 shares, to noon they were 36,200 shares and at 1 o'clock 121,600 shares.

Southern Pacific started out on a record-breaking tour today, knocking all previous high marks into a cocked hat by touching 101½ as compared with 100⅝, the previous highest mark the stock had touched in its history. Southern Pacific closed within a fraction of today's high figure and helped the rest of the market to a higher plane.

Union Pacific jumped about 2 points for the day, touching 158 with ease after last night's closing at 156⅜.

Canadian Pacific was very bullish and considering the small total sales all through the market, the issue was very active and gained within a fraction of 2 points from last night's closing bid.

While the London market was generally lower for American shares the changes were of small moment and were not larger than ½ point in any instance.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Small grain arrivals abroad and an improved call from millers at home, likewise a material advance at Liverpool and other foreign markets, were the factors toward making today's bullish wheat market here.

Liverpool opened ⅜d higher for both options and closed ⅜ to ½d above yesterday for September and December at 7s 4⅝d and 7s 5⅜d respectively.

This market started ¼c higher all around with nearby deliveries strongest. The market closed ½ to ⅝c above yesterday with top figures made during the last few minutes of the trading.

Minneapolis reported a decrease of 150,000 bushels for four days.

A special cable from Russia said: "In the southwest the arrivals of grain are very small. At Odessa the wheat market is very firm, owing to a very good local milling demand."

"The Confessions of a Wife."

This delightful drama in five acts is attracting large audiences. The clever denouement scene in the third act is a brilliant piece of acting on the part of the versatile young leading woman, Warda Howarda. Ella Hazlit, too, comes in for much applause in the soubrette role which she plays charmingly.

The Teddy Girl at the Oaks.

If you have not seen Mayme Prager's directoire gown at the Oaks this week you have missed one of the best laughs of the year. She is with the "Teddy Girl" show which is playing to large houses. The show is better than any preceding and is filled with catchy songs, beautiful chorus girls and witty lines.

Barney Fagin, Dancer.

The best known dancer in vaudeville is at the Grand this week. He is Barney Fagin, who is without a peer. Mr. Fagin is assisted by Miss Henrietta Byron, a comedienne. Miss Alice Robinson, a prima donna, renders several classic and popular selections and has a voice better than usually heard in musical comedies.

WEATHER REPORT

A large high pressure area overlies the north Pacific states, and another large high pressure area is central over the Canadian province of Ontario. A small disturbance has moved from the region north of Montana to Manitoba, and another small disturbance is central over the south Atlantic states. No rain of consequence has occurred on the Pacific slope, but phenomenally heavy rains have fallen in Virginia, District of Columbia, southeastern Pennsylvania, and extreme southeastern New York, and lighter amounts are reported along the coast both north and south of this heavy rain area. It is much cooler in northern and southeastern Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and the western portion of the Dakotas, and slightly cooler in the New England and the middle Atlantic states.

The indications are for fair and warmer weather in this district tonight and Thursday.
