FIRST PRIMARY IN WISCONSIN

United States Senator to Select—Fight on Trust-Owned Congressman.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 1.—The voters of all political parties—Republican, Democratic, Prohibitionist and Socialist—are participating in a state-wide primary in Wisconsin today. Candidates for all state offices from the governorship down are to be chosen, and also representatives in congress, members of the legislature and county officers. For the first time in this state the choice of United States senator devolves upon the voters direct. Under primary election the nomination is to be made by the people, although under the federal and state constitutions and statutes the election must be made by members of the legislature. There is some doubt in the minds of politicians as to how binding the voice of the people will be upon the legislators, especially if the vote is split equally among the candidates.

Those Who Covet the Toga.

The names of four candidates appear on the primary ballot for the Republican nomination to succeed Senator Isaac Stephenson. Former State Senator William H. Hatton, author of the Wisconsin railway commission law, was the first to announce his candidacy. He came within two votes of the election two years ago and is referred to by his supporters as the "man who wrote the Wisconsin idea into good, sound law." Senator Stephenson, who is a candidate to succeed himself, was the last to enter the field. Mr. Stephenson is reputed to be one of the richest men in Wisconsin, and enjoys being mentioned as the man who financed the Wisconsin idea, including La Follette and the entire reform program. The two other candidates for the Republican nomination are Francis E. McGovern, district attorney of Milwaukee county, who won his spurs in the fight against graft in Milwaukee, and former Congressman S. A. Cook of Neenah, who through all the 14 years of political strife in this state has succeeded fairly well in maintaining pleasant relations with all factions.

The Democratic candidates for the senatorial nomination are Neal Brown of Wausau and Melvin A. Hoyt of Milwaukee. The candidate of the Social Democratic party is Jacob Rummel, also of Milwaukee.

For Governor and Congressman.

Governor James O. Davidson is to be renominated as head of the Republican ticket. The leading candidate of the Democrats for the gubernatorial nomination is John A. Aylward of Madison. Mr. Aylward was the candidate two years ago. He is ultra-progressive in his ideas and is known as a staunch Bryan man. He is opposed for the Democratic nomination by Adolph J. Schmitz of Milwaukee. Winfred D. Cox of this city is the choice of the Prohibitionists for governor, and the choice of the Social Democrats is Harvey Dee Brown of Racine.

The most bitter fight of the primary campaign, which seemingly is far overshadowing that for the Republican nomination for United States senator, is the contest between Congressman John J. Jenkins and Irvine L. Lenroot of Superior for the nomination for congress in the Eleventh district. Many well informed politicians are of the opinion that Representative Jenkins is in danger of losing his political life.

Labor Hates Jenkins.

The contest in the Eleventh district is one of no ordinary moment, inasmuch as Representative Jenkins is the chairman of the house judiciary committee, which has been widely assailed as the "morgue" of the house of representatives, where Speaker Cannon finds a way of burying beyond hope of resurrection the proposed legislation that he believes should be designated for the death. Organized labor is bitter against Representative Jenkins, who has stood against anti-injunction legislation and other legislation wanted by labor. But probably more bitter against him even than organized labor are the anti-saloon and anti-liquor forces. He has taken a stand against the Littlefield bill, the Hepburn-Dolliver bill and like measures calculated to give the states control of the liquor shipped into their borders.

La Follette Man Opposes Jenkins.

Representative Jenkins naturally resents the charge that his committee is a "morgue," a cemetery for legislation not wanted by the speaker, or anything of the kind. He takes the position that his committee has simply had to pass on measures from the constitutional viewpoint and has done so without fear or favor.

The man who is running against Representative Jenkins for the Republican nomination, Irvine L. Lenroot, is a former speaker of the Wisconsin house of representatives. He is an intimate friend and supporter of Senator La Follette. For several weeks past both Jenkins and Lenroot have been making a thorough canvass of the Eleventh district. It is freely predicted that if Jenkins wins the nomination it will be by an extremely narrow margin.

Take a fast-growing boy of 16 who's taller than his father, he can't wear "boy's clothes" and he'd look ridiculous in a man's suit. Now we have splendid styles that are designed exactly for this class. The patterns are planned by a specialist, NOT by a tailor who makes men's or boys' clothing, but an expert whose whole work is confined to producing becoming garments for YOUTHS from 16 to 20 and these suits are cut differently in every detail from men's clothing.

NEPHRITIS

What do physicians call kidney trouble?
Nephritis.
What does Nephritis mean?
Inflammation of the kidneys.
Is there any specific for inflammation of the kidneys?
Up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known to physicians or pharmacists that would reduce Renal (kidney) inflammation.
What then have physicians given in chronic kidney disease?
Having nothing for Renal inflammation they gave up trying to reach the kidneys and considered it incurable as the books say, and treated the heart and other symptoms.
Then other than Fulton's Renal Compound there is no real kidney specific?
There is nothing else known that will reduce kidney inflammation in any of its stages, either first or last.
But many kidney troubled people recover?
Because it commonly gets well at first. But if it does not it passes into the second stage that was incurable up to the discovery of this compound, and that is the reason the kidney deaths have now reached 170 per day.
Kidney disease in both stages is now curable by this compound in about 87 per cent of all cases.

MICHIGAN ALSO VOTES.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 1.—Following one of the most interesting campaigns that Michigan has seen in some years the voters are participating today in a general primary for the selection of candidates for all state offices.

The interest in the primary centers chiefly in the Republican contest for the governorship. Governor Fred M. Warner is fighting for a third term nomination backed by his political beneficiaries and many friends, but opposed by the interests which have been represented by the old political machine in this state.

Governor Warner's opponents are Dr. James B. Bradley of Eaton Rapids and Horatio Earle, the present state highway commissioner. Both have made very active campaigns. The friends of Governor Warner are confident he will be renominated, but the best observers are inclined to the opinion that neither of the three candidates will receive 40 per cent of the votes cast at the primary and that as a result the nomination will be made by the state convention.

While the Republicans are divided by factional differences the Democrats present a solid front. The leaders of the Democratic party are more hopeful of success this fall than they have been in years. They believe they have a chance to elect a governor and possibly capture a congressman and some of the county offices. At present the party has no representation in congress and but few office holders of any nature whatsoever.

The Democratic choice for the governorship is Lawton T. Hemans of Mason. Mr. Hemans is spoken of as a young, clean man with many friends in both parties. He is an orator of no mean ability, a student, a writer of history, a lawyer and a politician. The Prohibition party will have a full state ticket in the field headed by John W. Gray as the candidate for governor.

LAST DAY FOR CLASSY ENTRIES

Three Times Number of Head Offered That Can Be Listed.

Entries in the select combination sale of fine livestock which will be a feature of the fourth and fifth days of the Pacific national show here the last of this month close today. The offerings of fancy stock both in the horse classes Clydesdales, Percherons and standard breds, and in the cattle classes, Shorthorn, Herefords and Aberdeen Angus, far exceeded the limit placed upon the bookings by the promoters of the sale. The maximum limit of 50 head of horses and the same number of cattle was fixed when the auction sale was first proposed and has been strictly adhered to, although two or three times that many head of stock of fine quality and breeding were listed, but of course could not be accepted.

With only four more days in which to enter horses in the late closing events of the harness races, the number of would-be contenders in the different classes is increasing at a remarkable rate and the brilliant speed contests are not going to be confined to the early closing events with their fat purses, declare the local experts.

Yesterday afternoon the directors of the Country club decided to erect an administration building on the grounds, and while it will be difficult to have it finished in time for the meet this year, it will be constructed on a temporary basis so as to provide headquarters for the association during the race week with conference rooms for directors, officers and committees together with booths for telephones and telegraph service. It will also contain the postal sub-station. The building will be one-story of bungalow type.

Under arrangements made with the O. R. & N. in return for the extension of spurs and sidetracks onto the Country club grounds the directors of the association have agreed to erect a depot waiting room on the grounds for the accommodation of the crowds that will go to and from the races by train.

RAISE BONUS FOR LINE TO JEWISH CEMETERY

An electric line to run to the Jewish and Odd Fellows' cemeteries will be constructed in the near future, if negotiations now being carried on are brought to a successful conclusion, as it appears probable they will be.

A bonus of $14,000 has been raised by those interested in the project, of which the management of the Jewish cemetery has raised $8,000 and that of the Odd Fellows' cemetery $3,000, to be used toward the construction of the line. The balance of the sum has been contributed by residents of Carlton and Carson Heights and the other suburban districts that will be tapped by the line.

Both the Oregon Electric Railway company and the Portland Railway, Light & Power company are considering the construction of the line. The former company is said to have promised to build it for $15,000, while the latter company will want more on account of the difficulties of extending the Fulton line.
