

SEVENTHOUSAND UNION MEN TO MARCH IN PARADE

Greatest Demonstration Ever Made By Skilled Labor Will Be Witnessed Monday, Which Is Labor Day—Business Will Be Generally Suspended in City.

No freight will be accepted by the railroads for shipment from Portland Labor day. The wholesale grocery stores and nearly all the business houses will be closed all day. Butcher shops and a few others will remain open till noon.

The man of the hour in Portland, tomorrow, will be the "man in the overalls." Step to one side when you see him coming. If you are a magnate with a high silk hat and a glossy Prince Albert, doff the hat and sidetrack the equally noted Mr. Worth's debouch into a lovely creation of Paquin's or the squally noted Mr. Worth's debouch into a convenient stairway or hug the steps of your automobile, if you would avoid on West Park street and Salmon south of Salmon. This will be led by the garment-workers' float, followed by the cigarmakers, tailors, teamsters, bakers and confectioners. The second section will have in line the beer drivers and bottlers, the brewers, freight handlers, leather workers, and cooks and waiters in a tally-ho. The third section will be led by the pressman after whom, in order, will march the printers, photo engravers and Pacific sailors' union. In the fourth section will be the shinglers, weavers, stage and theatrical workers and the stereotypers and electrotypers.

Carpenters Lead Division.
Third division—Forms on Park and Salmon streets, facing Salmon. The first section of this division will be led by De Caprio's band, then, in order, the Carpenters' union, local No. 56 and local No. 808, and, bringing up the rear, the shinglers. The second section will consist of the painters, electrical workers and tile setters in that order. The third section, led by the steamfitters, will be wound up by the plumbers in automobiles and the plasterers and bricklayers. At the head of the fourth section will be the elevator constructors' float, followed by the elevator constructors, building laborers and bridge and structural iron workers' float.

Fourth division—Section I will form on Seventh and Salmon streets facing Salmon. This will be preceded by Krayer's band followed by the longshoremen's unions, No. 8 and No. 8. Section 2 will be led by the riggers and liners, followed by the grain handlers. Section 3 will bring up the rear of the parade. In this section will be the ship carpenters and joiners and the engineers.

Line of March.
The column will start from Salmon and Seventh streets and will traverse the following route: East on Salmon to Fourth; south to Madison; east to Third; north to Burnside; west to Fifth; south to Taylor; west to Stark; north to Gilean; east to Fifth; north to Hoyt; west to Sixth; countermarch on Sixth to Yamhill; west to Seventh; north to Stark and disband.

10:00 a. m.—Selection, Mrs. Ellen contact with the honest grime of labor. For on this day a pleasant one year the skilled proletarian is by right of effort entitled to the right of way and all others must bow to him as he passes. Tomorrow is Labor day.

Never before in the history of Portland, or the northwest, has the day been observed as it will be this year. The mammoth parade in four divisions will number in marching array 7,000 members of 10 different national, Governor Chamberlain and Mayor Lane and other citizens high in the limelight of public approbation will salute the proud holder of a union card and his family and from all sides will the glad hand of welcome be extended.

Hundreds of dollars have been spent by the committee in charge of the exercises tomorrow to make the day that every union man will remember for years to come. The Oriental building at the fair grounds where the program of speaking will be carried out, has been transformed into a fairy bower of beauty by a thousand willing hands. To make the day a pleasant one for the families of the union man an interesting series of amusements and athletic contests has also been arranged for. These will all take place at the fair grounds. A dance will crown the day's enjoyment.

Following is the list of aides who will assist Grand Marshal M. L. Mathers in conducting the big parade:

Division commanders: A. Hanson, P. E. Fisher, E. O. Rector and J. W. Holman; chief aide, J. A. Duna; messenger aide, C. E. Wickline; staff aides, W. Norfolk, F. L. Crockwell, W. Holt and C. A. Anderson.

The four divisions will form at 9:30 and the parade will move promptly at 10 o'clock on the stroke of the fire bell.

The first section of the first division will form on Salmon street and Seventh street, east. This will be led by a platoon of police, following which will be the grand marshal and his staff, speakers in carriages, Brown's band, and the iron trades in order. In the first carriage will be Chairman of the Day, J. D. M. Crockwell, Governor Chamberlain, Mayor Lane and the American Federation.

In the second carriage will be E. J. Lewis, D. A. White and W. S. U'Ren of Oregon City.

FINE OFFERINGS COME FOR COMBINATION SALE

Consignments of the finest show horses and cattle ever offered to the farmers and breeders of the northwest are found in the list of entries in the select combination sale which will be held here the fourth and fifth days of the Country club race meet and stock exposition. The offerings have just been checked over and the number which has been found eligible according to the rules of the sale has been tabulated. The breeders who are invariably interested in such sales will have the best opportunity ever given to replenish their herds in whatever class of stock they are developing.

The entries include the finest lot of registered standard-bred stallions from California; there will be the Glen Gordon Clydesdale, champion and grand champion in other classes, and the lists of cattle are fully up to the standard of excellence shown among the horses. The Aberdeen herd, the finest type of milking strain Shortborns in America, is listed; splendid groups of Herefords, a large variety for the breeders to select from. A. O. U. W. TO INAUGURATE NEW PLAN OF EXPANSION

To stir up the membership of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and to lead in a campaign of education, first in Portland, and then throughout the state of Oregon, is the mission of F. L. Bohn, grand lecturer of the order, who arrived here from St. Louis a few weeks ago. He has been studying the situation of the order here and has decided upon holding a series of social meetings where he and the grand officers of the state can meet the members and explain to them the insurance and other features of the order.
The first social session will be held at the hall of industry, No. 8 at Eleventh and Washington streets, next Tuesday night. Following this similar sessions will be announced for the other Portland lodges, and after that the work will be extended to other cities in the state.
Campaign of Education.
Mr. Bohn says that the A. O. U. W. has been at a standstill in Oregon for about three years, dating from the time the insurance rates were raised. There was at that time an increase in rates that was received as a discouragement, but Mr. Bohn declares that the increase has been more than balanced by increased benefits, which he is prepared to point out to all doubters.

He says there is a general failure even among the members to appreciate what is now offered. His object, therefore, is to conduct a campaign of education that the grand officers of the order in the state, who are mostly business and professional men and receive no salary, cannot be expected to take time to make. He is satisfied that when the present plan of operation is understood the A. O. U. W. will take on new life and make large gains in membership through the sound business principles that underlie its operations.
The A. O. U. W. is peculiarly a state organization, and in this respect it differs from many other organizations from which it is not ordinarily differentiated. The money collected from its members in Oregon is disbursed here, and the surplus funds are invested in Oregon.
"We have now a reserve of $100,000 invested in 5 and 6 per cent bonds. All proved death claims are paid, and there is a balance of $20,000 in the death benefit fund. Since the order was organized in this state it has paid out $2,500,000 in death benefits, and during the last year it disbursed an average of nearly $1,000 per day for the families of deceased members. It is the oldest of the fraternal benefit orders, and it is now on a basis that must prove more attractive than ever before.
"There is in some quarters an impression from the name of the order that it is confined to workingmen or mechanics. That is not true, and I cannot better illustrate the fact than by mentioning the names of some of those prominent in the work in Oregon. Philip Geywitz is the grand master workman; C. M. Steadman, grand recorder; R. L. Durham, grand treasurer; Dr. David Walker, grand medical examiner; A. King Wilson and J. E. Werlein, members of the committee on jurisprudence; A. W. Allen, T. H. Fearey and J. M. Dixon, members of the financial committee, and J. L. Anderson, of the arbitration committee.
At the social sessions to be held each member will have the privilege of inviting one outsider, who will be assured a pleasant evening, and will share with the members in the information given by Mr. Bohn and the grand officers concerning the plans and workings of the Workmen in Oregon."
Pipe Organs for Sale.
Two fine pipe organs, genuine tubular pneumatic action, used less than two years, for sale for $1,195 and 1,900 respectively.
They are warranted instruments of highest order, taken in part payment for new ones of larger scope. Eilers Piano House.
