Alaska Salmon Arrives.

The first cargo of Alaska salmon of the 1908 catch is reported in the river by the arrival of the ship Berlin. The street of the arrival of the ship Berlin. The street consists of 58,000 cases and is company, also owners of the ship company, also owners of the ship beverling & Farrel and the Warren Packing company, with Mr. Ladd, are principally interested in the company. The pack of the Alaska-Portland company which was brought down by the Berlin, indicates that this year's operations in the far north in the vicinity of Bristol Hay were on a very extensive cale. While official figures are lacking at the moment for the entire pack, it is understood that this year's can was fully 40 per cent greater than hast year hiroughout the Bristol Bay district and about 10 per cent greater than normal leasons. A year ago—which was the smallest pack in late years—the Alaska-Portland company put up ahout 34,000 asses con-wared with the 58,000 cases his season. The cargo of the Berlin las been practically sold by the canners it the full market price, which means bont $200,000 after all trade discounts have been removed. As the ship is entirely outfifted in Portland all this noney comes back to this city. As soon is the ship is docked at Albina the cargo rills he sent on its way to the eastern layers. The first cargo of Alaska salmon of Salmon Market Is Very Firm.

The market for canned salmon stands a very firm position as a result of the destruction of the cargo of one hip returning from Alaska the other ay with many thousands of cases on pard. While a few canners had herefore been rather gloomy over the situation and especially for the cheaper rades, it is not believed that anyone now offering first-class stock under a opening market. For Columbia river as the demand continues, but packers we no supplies of best quality to often a few steelheads and sliversides a floating around, but the unusually od quality of both of these cheaper he is helping the sale considerably, he success in canning steelheads and livers this season will very likely relit in a larger pack of these grades future years.

While the salmon season opened for a fall yesterday at noon, no fish arved from the lower Columbia on this ornings boat and deelers are up in the air regarding supplies and prices rule. Salmon Market Is Very Pirm.

Looks Like Kops Will Be Boosted. Looks Like Mops Will Se Boosted.

The present standing of the hop market looks as if the price will be boosted quite soon in order to allow California and Washington dealers to fill their orders of high-priced contracts without much fear of rejection. This was the mode of operations a year ago and the plan was so successful and the growers bit so easily that shorts are again throwing out their lines with some hope of success. It is now rumored, and has been for a month, that a combination among growers exists for the purpose of controlling supplies, after which the price will be boosted. This is another ittempt to make the growers gather and Washington dealers to fill their orders of high-priced contracts without much fear of rejection. This was the mode of operations a year ago and the plan was so successful and the growers bit so easily that shorts are again throwing out their lines with some hope of success. It is now rumored, and has been for a month, that a combination among growers exists for the purpose of controlling supplies, after which the price will be boosted. This is another attempt to make the growers gather their crop, and from present indications every bale worth picking will be gathered. After the hops are picked and baled and the short sellers have filled their early contracts there may be a different story to tell.

Brief Notes of the Trade.

Local watermelons are of much bet-r quality than the fruit from Califor-ia. The latter have been on the track or several days and few are of first-class quality.

Peaches are holding steady with receipts just normal. First-class is selling well around top figures, but the poor stuff which should never have been gathered is a glut on the market around 40 and 50c a box. Overripe stuff at the low figure too. low figure, too.

Market for grapes is slightly better.

Tomatoes are steady. Dressed veal is working off somewhat they are not buying wheat at the present time, the movement from the interior is still very heavy and very liberal purchases are reported made there by both millers and export agents. At this time there is but little difference between the prices paid by local and foreign buyers and there are some reports to the effect that the war between the two factions has been called off. However, this is absolutely denied by the principal ones in the fight. The coarse grain market is quiet but firm for the cash stuff and prices are as previously quoted in both oats and barley.

On the Portland Board of Trade today there was an easier tone in wheat futures with no change in value for the September option. For the December there was a decline of %c in both the bid and asked prices, the latter dropping today to 92 %c. Oats futures were firmer for both options today: September advancing 2%c per cental, while $1.50 was bid for the December as against that price asked yesterday. Barley futures are likewise stronger with a rise of 1c a cental in September and %c in December tedivery.

Cattle, Sheep. 183 195 396 108 250 Portland Union Stockyards, Sept. 11 .--Good quality is telling these days in the livestock market and the shipper who sends anything else will know exactly what's what when he gets returns from his sales. For big fat heavy steers the demand could scarcely be better than at this time and for this quality the pack-this time and for this quality the packers are still quite willing, yes eager, to pay $4, the top figure. It is the off-grade and poor stuff they are not seeking and at the moment these form at least half of the arrivals. Generally speaking therefore the price of poor cattle is down 25 cents for the day with cows selling as low as $2.

For best grade of hogs there remains a good demand at $7 but there is little call at the moment for China fats or feeders and it might pay shippers better to keep them at home until they are in a marketable condition.

While the sheep market is not overly strong there still remains quite a good call for best wethers and ewes and these are bringing former values with practically no trouble on the part of local receivers.

There is still quite a steady demand for calves and pfices are held about the same. Today 45 head arrived in the yards.

Yearlings for Chicago.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Sept. 11.—Ten thousand head of yearling ewes have just been purchased from Umatilla county sheepmen by C. N. Dansie of Denver and James Hackett of this city, and will be fed in transit for the Chicago markets. It is understood that the price for ewes was about $3 per head, although the exact figure has not been made public. This price is $1 under the price received for the same grade of sheep a year ago, and sheepmen are holding on to the young sheep in hopes of a raise in the price this fall.

Cotton Market.

A curious situation exists in the hoppicking business this year, as reported by R. A. Harris of the Portland Labor Press, who has recently returned from a trip through the country. Cars going out from town are loaded with pickers out from town are loaded with pickers going to the hopyards, and cars coming back are equally loaded with pickers returning who falled to make wages and became disheartened at the prospects.

While some few yards are paying straight 40 cents a box, most are paying straight 40 cents a box. At this rate it takes long, hard work to make a day's wages, and only the best and most experienced pickers are able to hold their own. Near Salem at Wolfe's yard, where there were 300 pickers, 100 left and others are leaving.

Mr. Harris talked with Andrew Kan regarding the situation, who is of the opinion that if prices do not advance materially by the holidays 75 per cent of the yards will be ploughed up. This year the combination of a light hop crop and poor prices has made many hopgrowers discourage. hopgrowers discouragel.

Culted Press Leased Wire.)

Red Bluff, Cal., Sept. 11.—A forest fire is raging in the mountains of Sugar Pine Flat, north of here, 'today and thousands of feet of timber have already been destroyed. Farmers and rangers are fighting the fire but a high west wind makes the work difficult and it is thought much damage will have been done by the time the fire can be brought under control.

Most of the property burned over today belongs to the Diamond Match company and the Central Pacific railroad and was heavily timbered with pine and redwood.

All communication with the forest districts has been cut off. Rangers returning from the burnings forests state that the damage to the range alone will amount to thousands of dollars.
