

PORTLAND, OREGON, SATURDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 12, 1908

1. John and the Teds off on a lark,
 Proceed at once to Central Park.
 They start to wander through a glade,
 But see the sign above displayed.

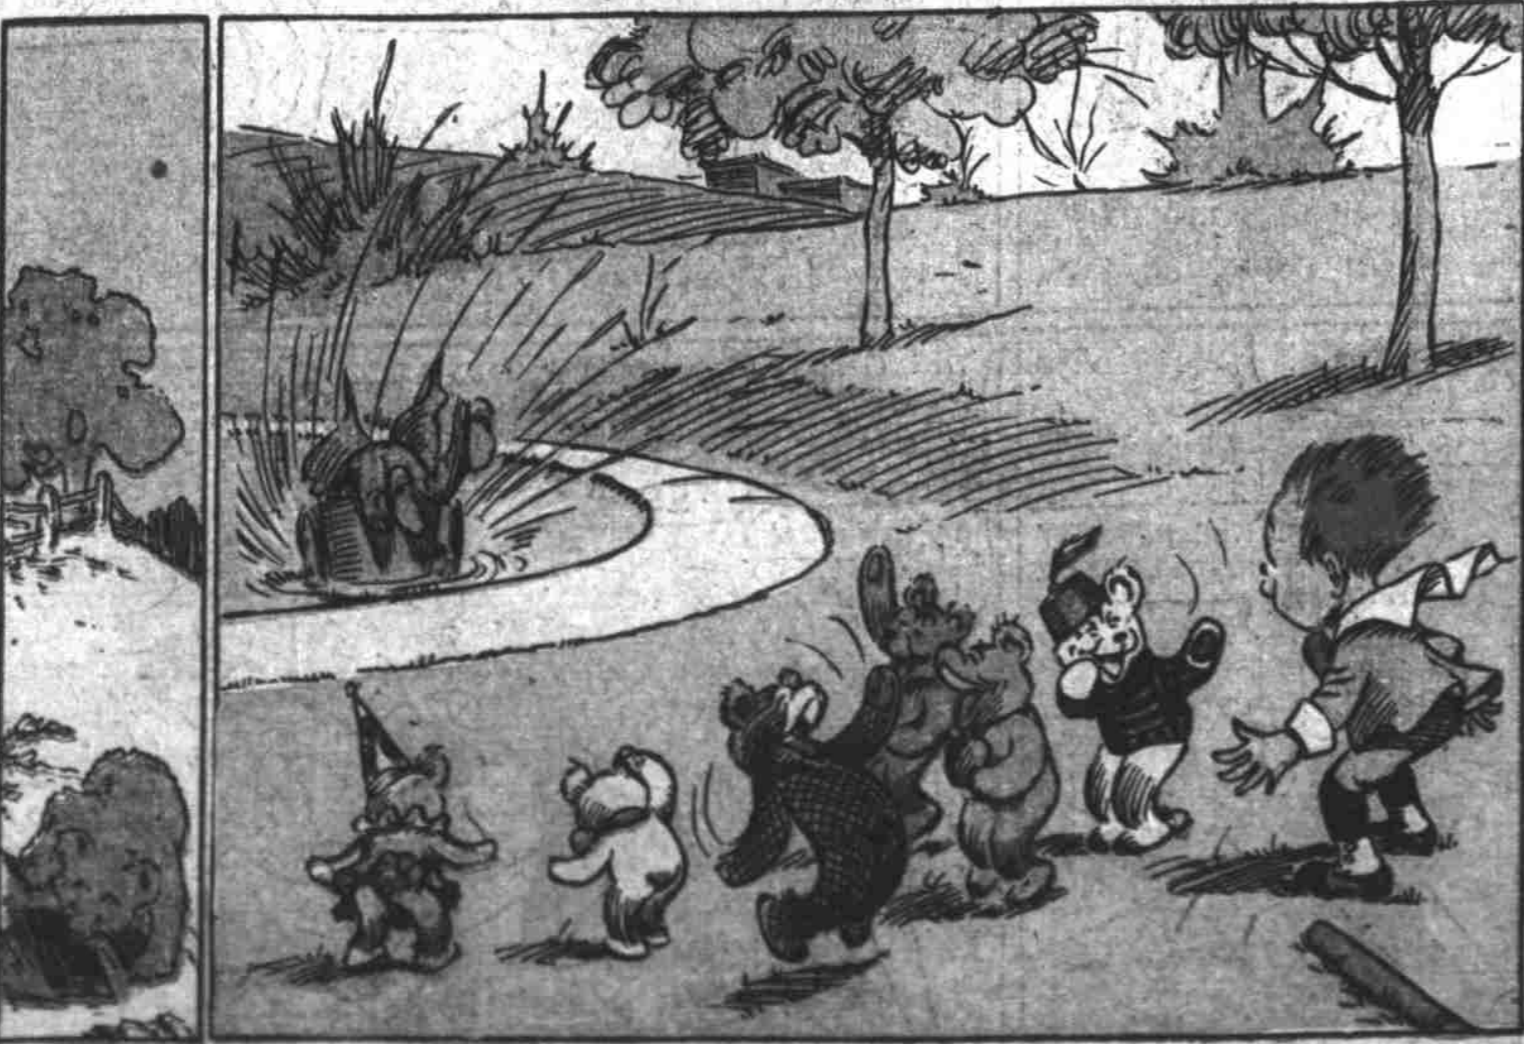

2. And quick a policeman comes in sight,
 Which gives the Teds an awful fright.
 "No animals allowed!" they cry,
 And turn and toward the entrance fly.

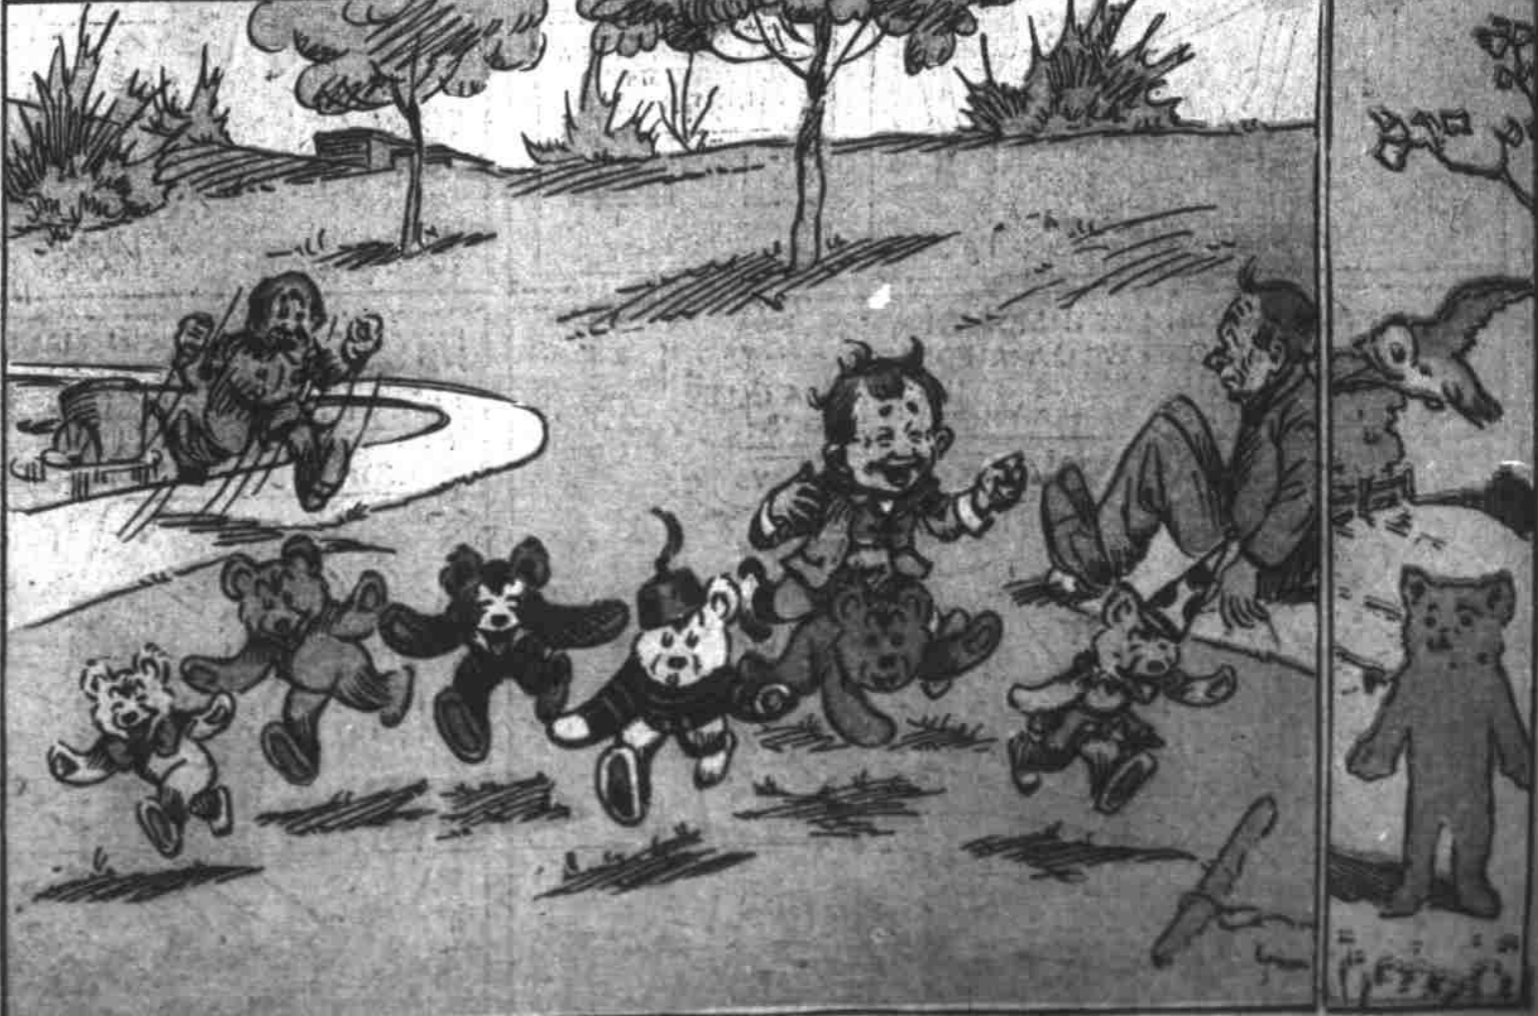

3. Right past a city sweep they scoot,
 The policeman dashing in pursuit.
 He does not see that sweeper man,
 And tumbles blindly in the can.

4. His headlong rush starts up the wheels,
 And so, amidst the jeers and squeals
 Of all "the animals at large,"
 The can and policeman lakeward charge.

5. Right to the water like a flash,
 And then there comes an awful splash.
 "Baths aren't allowed within the park!"
 The saucy Teddy Bears remark.

6. Out jumps the policeman, mad with wrath,
 The Teds and John still shouting "Bath!"
 Oh, Johnny, hasten! Teddies, run!
 For if you're caught you'll rue your fun.
