

AUDIN GUFF OF BOY MURDERER

Chester Gillette Writes Weakling's Philosophy and Some Call It Wonderful.

(Quoted From Local Wire.)
 Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 12.—A letter written by Chester Gillette, the murderer of Grace Brown, to his brother Paul the day before he went to the electric chair was made public by the prison officials today. The letter is here reproduced in its most wonderful and surprising form. It reads in part as follows:

"I give you the girl's (Grace Brown's) picture. Whenever you are tempted to do wrong look at it and remember your sister. Be worthy of them."

"Most of the things in the trunk and suitcase are for you, but don't be selfish. My watch and my pretty seal ring are for you. Most of the kodak pictures are for the others. I give you a book, 'A Young Man's Questions.' Read it and keep it as your guide."

"Be generous, as I want you to have things a boy likes to decorate his room with. If you don't break down, don't think that I am heartless; because I am not. I do not fear death but I would like to live."

"I thought it to live each day as if it were to be your last. Please forgive me for my sins and sins of others. Don't oppose mother, as many young boys are apt to do. Make her so proud of you that she may not think of me. Be kind to mother and father, as well as to the girls. The first year will be especially hard for them."

"I tried not to give way this afternoon, but am afraid I cannot succeed so well tomorrow. I am sure that you must be in heaven some day. I wish I had set a better example for you, but take Christ for your example and always follow him. He is the only one who will meet again. Your loving brother."

SIGNS POINT BRYANWARD

Strong in South, Middle West and East, Say Reports at Chicago.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
 Chicago, Sept. 12.—Three reports at headquarters today gave satisfaction to the Democratic leaders. One was from Chairman Mack, and it had reference to his recent visit to New York.

"I am exceedingly well pleased with the present situation," he said. "In all my experience I have never seen New York Democrats so united for the ticket. There is not a discordant note. While in New York I received calls from every well known Democratic leader, and without exception they expressed the opinion that Mr. Bryan will carry New York in November. The reports received at the same time from Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia, were equally encouraging."

Another report of the same tenor was from Clark Howell, of Georgia.

"This talk of Taft carrying Georgia and other southern states is nonsense," he said. "My Bryan is just as popular in the south as he ever was. He will not only receive the electoral vote of that section, but his majorities will be fully as large as in former years."

It is the election in Ohio that should occur today, the state would give Bryan and carry a majority of 50,000 and possibly 100,000. The state Democratic committee Finney, of the state Democratic committee. "A number of reasons are contributing to the Ohio opposition to Mr. Taft," he continued. "The labor vote is practically solid for Bryan. When Governor Hughes and Senator Beveridge spoke to 10,000 workers from the steel plants the other day, a three days holiday was arranged. The men were marched to the speaking in uniform and asked to cheer for Taft. Instead, they cheered for Bryan lustily, with a few exceptions."

The Monarch Range

A RANGE THAT WILL BURN COAL OR WOOD. YOU KNOW FROM EXPERIENCE THAT YOU CAN'T DO GOOD BAKING IN ONE PART OF YOUR OVEN IS HOTTER THAN ANOTHER. IN THE MONARCH RANGE THE OVEN IS NOT HEATED UNIFORMLY. THE CAST IRON FRAMES MUST BE BOLTED BECAUSE THEY ARE TOO BRITTLE TO STAND RIVETING. THEN THE SEAMS ARE FILLED WITH STOVE PUTTY.

A few heatings and coolings and the cast iron expands and contracts, the bolts loosen and the putty falls out, leaving an open crack to suck in outside air and cause the fire to burn unevenly.

Now, the Monarch oven bakes evenly at all times. The sides and the cast iron expands and contracts, the bolts loosen and the putty falls out, leaving an open crack to suck in outside air and cause the fire to burn unevenly.

of Washington fishermen and make a test case of that in the courts, that the conference today will come to naught, he says, will not interfere with the plans of Mr. McAllister in carrying out his instructions from the Oregon fish commission.

Should no compromise agreement be reached today about the only remedy that remains is for the next legislature to pass an amendment to the law and in a joint meeting with the Washington legislature, frame some law that will leave each state unmolested by the other in making and carrying out its laws for the enforcement of the close season.

It is certain that the two states will have to agree upon the same time for the closed season, as otherwise the fishermen of one state would have an unfair advantage over those of the other.

Following are the telegrams relative to the matter that have passed between the executives:

"George E. Chamberlain, Governor of Oregon: Will you advise Master Fish Warden McAllister of Oregon to make only one arrest for fishing on the Washington side of the Columbia at a test case, pending the conference between us at Portland? You are to name date of conference."

(Signed) "ALBERT E. MEAD, Governor of Washington."

"Albert E. Mead, Governor of Washington: Do not care to interfere with master fish warden. Will confer with you at Portland Sunday."

(Signed) "GEORGE E. CHAMBERLAIN, Governor of Oregon."

Make Thirty Arrests

Up to date Master Fish Warden McAllister's deputies patrolling the Columbia river have made 29 arrests on the lower river. Twenty of these were gill-netters and 10 others trappers. Most of the violators have been on the Oregon shore, but the patrolmen have been impartial in arresting violators found on either shore. All of the men arrested but up bonds for their appearance in court.

The district attorney's office at Astoria is swamped in the effort to get out warrants for the offenders. So far there has been no serious resistance offered and the warden's men expect none.

Three of the deputies coming down the upper river Friday night confiscated about 150 pounds of salmon found in three set nets on the river. The fish were brought to Portland and sold.

TWO NEW RECORDS

machinery up to insure more revolutions of the propellers, and Wright now believes that when he attempts speed he will get from 42 to 44 miles an hour. He claims to have sailed 44 miles an hour in his flight at Kitty Hawk, where he conducted experiments in this spring.

Among the spectators of the flight was Colonel Templars, former chief of the aeronautic division of the English army. Colonel Templars expressed profound surprise at the action of the airplane in flight and the remarkable control which Wright has of it. He said that he was prepared for the endurance test and record, as many friends in Washington had told him that Wright's record at Fort Mifflin with the present airplane had not been made.

Colonel Templars said that one of the most important uses of such a machine in war would be its ability to carry a trusted man from the command der-in-chief to a division of the army separated from him by a hostile force, to put in effect some important maneuvers. Battles have been lost by the failure of subordinate commanders to fully understand the instructions of the commander, or by failure to act at the proper moment.

Accused of Cremating Baby

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 12.—Accused of having cremated a newborn baby, Mr. and Mrs. J. Farren in the engine furnace of the Northwestern Lumber company's sawmill at Kerriiston three weeks ago. Dr. P. W. Sweet of Kerriiston was arrested and lodged in jail today. Sweet will probably be charged with practicing medicine without a license. The prisoner contends that the baby was born dead, and was cremated because there was no cemetery at Kerriiston in which to make a proper burial.

FAMOUS INVENTOR

has not had time in the multiplicity of his inventions to invent a hearing apparatus that would satisfy him. But notwithstanding his deafness, he is a very pleasant man to talk to. Although he was tired from his journey, he showed no disposition to cut his interview short. But he evidently preferred to talk of other matters than himself and his work.

Edison denied the published report that he is looking into the possibilities of utilizing the immense quantities of water power in the northwest which are now going to waste. "Of course," he said, "I can't help seeing these things incidentally, but I have no intention of trying to do anything with them. I am merely on a pleasure trip. I have been promising my folks for 10 years that I would show them the mountains. Well, they've seen mountains until they're saturated with mountain scenery. I took them across the Rocky mountains, and then I took them back again. And now I'm going to take them down to California and satisfy them some more."

The inventor expressed himself as decidedly over steam as applied to railroads. "It is only a question of time," he said, "when the motive power of these western roads will be electricity. It will come whenever the railroad people discover that they can save money by using it. It is cheaper now than they know it, but it is hard for them to make up their minds to it."

The Baltimore & Ohio runs all its trains for 30 miles out of Baltimore now by electricity, and does it cheaper than it could be done by steam. The roads will all come to it in the end. They can haul longer trains, and with fewer train hands with electricity than they can with steam. The thing for these western roads with their heavy grades that eat up so much coal, they will find electricity cheaper than coal. And there is plenty of water power all through this country going to waste. It will all be utilized some day, though."

Edison reiterated his statement that he had abandoned commercial work; that henceforth he will do nothing for the money there may be in it. It might be mentioned incidentally that his commercial work has already brought him so many millions that he will probably be able to struggle along without living on reduced rations for some time to come, especially as the golden stream continues to pour in automatically now.

"In the course of my years of work," said the inventor, "I came across many interesting phenomena which I did not have time to stop and investigate. They were not commercial problems. Edison dwelt upon this phase of the matter as if eager to be looked upon as a scientist henceforth rather than as having an eye out for the almighty dollar—but purely scientific problems. I have whole books full of such notes—for I made notes of all these things as I went along, thinking that some time I might have opportunity to do something with them. I have the time now and intend to devote the rest of my life to that kind of work."

Taunts of his commercialism have evidently stung the man who is today called the world's greatest inventor, and he is anxious to redeem himself from day charges of always having the money end of things most constantly in view. He wants the world to know that now he is working disinterestedly, for science and the world at large.

Mr. Edison states that next winter he intends to make another trip to the coast, when he will visit California, taking in on the way the Grand Canon of the Colorado. On his way back from the present trip, he says he will go over the Rio Grande road, so as to see the Royal Gorge.

In a good many cases their markings are unrecognizable to the pupils.

"For 12 years I have been lecturing against this, and I think I have the habit pretty well broken. But there are still a few good teachers who do this. The prisoner contends that the baby was born dead, and was cremated because there was no cemetery at Kerriiston in which to make a proper burial.

found one teacher asleep at her desk in school one day last term." There was a gasp of horrified astonishment from the assemblage of teachers. "That was the first time that had happened in seven years."

Teachers and Amusement.

"I have no objection to school teachers going out in reason and mingling in society. There are a good many places in Portland to go for amusement. But don't overdo it. If you follow my advice in this there is no reason why you should not go through the school year and retain your good health to the end."

Assistant Superintendent Groat also addressed the teachers briefly. The roll was called and nearly all of the several hundred men and women, but chiefly women, who are to instruct the youth at Portland during the coming school year answered to their names.
