The latest in fashions—the biggest and best fashion number ever printed. September 20th is the day. The Journal gives this "EXTRA" free to all subscribers. Newsdealers may order now. Ladies read carefully if you want styles far in advance.

1. Cover design by H. Lyman Sayen, entitled "Le Mannequin," representing the showroom of one of the leading Parisian fashion creators and showing one of the pretty models in a costume embodying the latest points and tendencies of the styles of the season. Plates in black and three colors.

2. The new French hats, bigger and prettier than ever. The models shown are the pick of Paris from the studios of Georgette, Carlier, Marie Louise, Lewis, Bartholomew and Alice Barton. Photographs combined with a striking design of autumn leaves. Plates in black and three colors.

3. Line drawing by Jeanette Hope, showing the latest in tailored suits. A secondary photographic layout, showing the newest things in French. Soft collars which are driving out the tall, stiff neckwear. Printed in black and white.

4. Line drawing by Jeanette Hope, showing the latest in evening gowns from Paris. A secondary photographic layout of the newest styles in hairdressing to match the new big hats and the evening dresses. The line pages have the touch of the artist, who knows how to adapt the radical French styles to the tastes of American women.

5. Negligees, blouses and lingerie, designed by Barroin, Drecoll and other masters of the art of fashioning the flimsy, filmy things that are the greatest sources of pride to a woman.

6. French reception gowns. Designs from Paquin, Chary, Barroin, Ney Soeurs, Drecoll and Maison Nargaine-Lacroix. All photographic reproductions.

7. The new head dress for evening. The revival of the bonnet of the Directoire period combined with the drapery of the modern filmy scarf. A fashion as new as the day, that has not yet been hinted at in the fashion papers and will not be seen by them. Created by the original and resourceful Carlier, it is so simple that any handy needlewoman may reproduce any of the examples for her own wear.

8. French evening wraps from La Porta Niemaz, Drecoll and Barroin—luxurious and beautiful beyond description. A few examples of the very best of the designs in this line.

9. The newest French fur garments from designers of the standing of Callot, Paquin and Bechoff-David, and the latest American creations in small furs. This page includes interviews with the great designers on the tendencies of the styles for the coming season.

10. The very best of the American gowns and suits made by special staff photographers in the rooms of the leading New York manufacturers. These show how the Americans have adapted the advance designs of the Paris creators and the new methods of trimming that have been adopted. Every woman will get from these an idea of the best and most correct garments that will be offered by American dealers.

11. American fashions for the children. Some of the new things are the prettiest ever designed for the little ones. All are the latest things in the way of style and in the best of taste.

12. The new French designs in tailored suits. Some of the prettiest models ever shown, making clear the influence of the Directoire period on the dress of the day. The designers are Chary, Drecoll, Lucy Hamar and Raudnitz. A secondary photographic layout of the new French belts and cravats for wear with tailored costumes.

The French photographs are by Manual, Felix and Reutlinger, masters of that line of art.

Last, but not least, a page devoted to the new styles in men's clothes and hats. Models by the best of the English and American tailors will be used to illustrate the text, which will give practical hints on shirts, ties and other accessories of men's attire.

Tell your neighbor about this Fashion Number, delivered anywhere for five cents. Newsdealers or agents will supply extra copies, but you must order now—if you want the Fashion Number of The Journal, Sunday, September 20th.
