SUNDAY CROWD SEES GOOD GAME

Cooney Plays Good and Bad Ball and Perine Is Well Roasted.

In a 13-inning game full of errors and of good, snappy ball as well, Portland's squad came out on the upper side of the 3 to 2 score yesterday. Though it had been a long, nerve-straining game for the spectators, the big Sunday crowd stayed almost to a man to see the five inning second game in which the Dillonites shut out the Beavers.

The first game was mostly Cooney. Cooney bad and then Cooney good. Gray opened the run-getting in the second because the shortstop threw wild to first and a moment later too low to Whaling. But after Johnson had gone behind the plate on account of an injury to Whaling and the whole team steadied down, Cooney brought the crowd to its feet more than once by his sensational stops of hot drives. Only in this disastrous second did a Seraph score.

Danzig followed Ryan's hit in the fifth with a single, and Kinsella, who by this time had got down to business, sacrificed both a station toward home. Then Gray walked Casey, and though Cooney forced Ryan at the plate, Johnson responded to the entreaties of the grandstand with a fierce slam which Bernard fumbled, and Danzig and Casey reached the hearthstone.

Throws Away the Game.

It was a battle between Kinsella and Gray until the thirteenth, when, after Cooney had gone out, Johnson singled and reached second on McCredie's out. Raftery was given transportation, and then in a moment the game was over, for Hogan suddenly saw Johnson streaking for third and fired the ball at Jud Smith so high that it plowed the outfield grass and Ote continued his dash home with the winning run.

Perine, who had been unmercifully roasted by his crowd for his decisions in the first game, announced that the second game would be a five-inning session. Patrick pitched gilt-edged ball for the first three innings, and his work in backing up both first base and Johnson, who remained behind the plate, was in strong comparison with that of the other pitchers of the team. Almost against the grandstand, he blocked one run, for an Angel was on third and the throw to the plate was far out of Johnson's reach. In the fourth a single and a double were secured off his swift delivery, and these combined with a passed ball netted two runs. After the first Koestner proved a puzzle.

The series with San Francisco this week, a fight for second place, should prove one of the most interesting of the season.

GREEN SEAL SETS WORLD RECORD

Remarkable Time Made in Eight and One Half Furlongs at Meadows.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Seattle, Sept. 14.—The Seattle racing season of 1908 closed Saturday in a blaze of glory. The climax of 73 days of splendid racing, marked now and then by brilliant performance, came when Green Seal, the pride of the St. James stables, broke the world's record for a mile and a sixteenth, setting a new mark of 1:44 2-5 for critics of the sport to ponder over.

Green Seal's mark is the second new world's record to be made at the Meadows this season. Fern L, whose development has been the sensation of the summer, broke the record for five and a half furlongs, running the distance in 1:05. Several world's records have been equalled in the 73 days, and every track record has been broken, some of them several times, but Green Seal's performance will long stand as a tribute to the horse and the trainer, L. Marion. The old record was 1:44 3-5.

Green Seal carried 109 pounds. He ran a grand race, under the skillful pilotage of Jockey Scoville. The event was the fourth, the Alaska handicap, the closing stake event of the season, worth $1,125 to the winner. It was Green Seal all the way. Scoville got a fast start and the horse made every post a winning one.

Given an Ovation.

On the back stretch turn the field closed in fast, but only for a moment. With the same finishing power that enabled this horse to equal the world's record for a mile and an eighth, a few weeks ago, Green Seal drew away and entered the stretch with a length to spare. It was a drive for the rest of the field down the stretch, but Green Seal galloped home nicely, winning easily. Edwin T. Fryer, closing very fast, got up in second place, and Royal Ben, after running a royal race close up to the heels of the flying leader, tired enough to go back to third.

It was a fitting finale to a season of splendid sport at The Meadows and the big crowd appreciating this gave Green Seal an ovation when the horse returned, not at all tired, to the judge's stand.

CANADIAN CHAMP INVITED TO FAIR

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 14.—Sprinter Kerr, the Canadian champion and winner of first place in the 200-meter dash at the London Olympic games, has been invited to attend the interstate fair and run three distances with Malcolmson, of this city. The distances are 100 and 300 meters and 300 yards, with handsome cups for winners. Butler, who is training Malcolmson, says he is much better than when at Portland last spring. Kerr wired from his home at Toronto that he would wire a definite answer early next week. The fair will pay all of his expenses.

SCHOLASTIC TEAMS LOOMING UP WELL

West Side High School—Smith, captain; position, tackle; coach, Hugh Boyd.

East Side High School—Cornell, captain; position, quarter; coaches, Paul Rader, Virgil Earl, Professor Fenstermacher.

Hill Military Academy—Graham, captain; position, guard; coaches, Jack Latourette, John Veatch.

Portland Academy—Captain, not elected; coaches, Professor Thorne, John Mackie.

Columbia University—Dean Walker, captain; position, fullback, coach, Gordon Moores.

Another week and the preparatory schools of the city will be open and the interscholastic football season will commence with the preliminary practice of the five teams. Hill Military academy and Portland academy at this time seem to be the only schools which have not a right to look forward to the championship. Both teams lost heavily by graduation.

East Side High has moved up several degrees nearer championship timber this week by the announcement that Joe Kehoe, halfback; Jack O'Brien, former end of Columbia university, Joe Jones, quarterback of Portland academy, and a quarterback from Everett High school by the name of Young will enter that school. These four men are all regarded as valuable timber and place the East Side school in excellent condition.

Dr. Paul Rader, Virgil Earl and Professor Fenstermacher will coach the team. Rader was fullback on the Multnomah team last year and is well known throughout the city. He is pastor of the Hassalo Street Congregational church. Earl was a prominent football man at the University of Oregon three years ago, and this year has been engaged as teacher at the East Side school. Fenstermacher is an old Princeton player, and is also a teacher.

They will have an abundance of good material to work on. The only place where they can possibly be in need of good players being in the line. Some of the best of their material is as follows: Kellogg, O'Brien and Hale, ends; the Leader brothers, Houck and Fisher for line positions; Cornell, captain; Jones and Young, quarters; Kehoe, Everest and Graham, halves, and Stanard and Cason, full back.

Their selections as to the ends and quarterback will take a whole lot of time, for they have an abundance of good, fast men for the places. Kellogg played end last year and did well, while O'Brien was on the Columbia team and did fairly well. Hale graduated from Hawthorne school and is in his freshman year. He is a cracker jack at handling the forward pass. He is a fair punter, too, and may possibly fit into the back field should he fail to make an end.

For quarter they have Cornell, Jones and Young and there will be a tall fight for the position. Cornell is captain-elect and last year played a fine game while Jones' play at Portland academy was very good. Young is a stranger, having made his reputation on the Everett high school team. He was considered a star at Everett.

Kehoe and Everest seem to have the call on the fullback and Cason on the fullback position. Everest is a youngster from Hawthorne school and is a promising player. He is all done up in a knot when he hits the line and is usually good for a comfortable gain. He is fast in an open field, too. Cason will probably fill the fullback position for he is a husky, youngster and strong.

It is quite doubtful whether Frazier and Fisher, last year's tackles, will be back, for Frazier hurt himself in the Hill Military academy game last year and cannot play and Fisher may quit school. Their loss will be felt.

Portland academy will be shy on good material this year, for they lost a number of good men by graduation. Huesner, Wilson, Norris, Cookingham, Moore, Summers and possibly Leonard will be the basis of their next season's team. Professor Thorne and Mackie will coach the team. Joe Jones, captain-elect, will be absent this year, as he has entered the East Side high school and a new captain will be elected.

West Side high school has not been able to get a professional coach as yet and will probably depend on Hugh Boyd, one of their teachers, to pilot them through the season.

Columbia university and Hill Military academy have still another week before opening day and little can be told as to their teams. Hill lost a number of fine men through graduation and the material in sight is not as promising as it might be, but a good team will be turned out. Columbia has great hopes.

SHOW DIRECTORS IN SALEM TODAY

Barns for Portland Livestock Display Will Be Ready Next Thursday.

By Thursday of this week the Country club and Livestock association will be prepared to throw open the 12 huge show barns at the club grounds for the receiving of exhibits in the various divisions of the first annual Pacific National show. While the show does not open until next Monday, the management thought best to have the quarters for the stock in readiness several days ahead, so that any exhibits which the owners desire to place can be accommodated. The management has been assured by the O. R. & N. company that its spur track from the main line to the row of show barns will be completed in time to handle any offerings of stock by the latter part of the week.

Of the 12 barns, four are for horses, four for cattle, two for sheep, one for swine and one for goats. They are the last word in up-to-date construction, having been modeled after the barns of the international livestock show at Chicago, and are equipped with every modern convenience of sanitation, ventilation, feeding, watering and handling of exhibits. The grouping of these buildings with respect to the divisions which will be quartered in them is such that more barns may be built as the demands for space require, and still the general convenience of arrangement now existing be maintained.

The arrangement of the program for the different days of the week, covering both the races and the livestock show, is such that neither department of the meet will interfere with the full enjoyment of the other. The appearance of the exhibits in the show ring and the judging, as well as the grand parade of prize-winners in front of the grandstand, will take place before the opening of the race card in the afternoon, and the great combination sale, at which the finest stock ever offered to the breeders of Oregon will be disposed of, is scheduled for Thursday and Friday mornings.

A number of directors and officials of the County club and Livestock association, as well as officials of the whole north Pacific fair circuit, are at Salem today, attending the opening of the state fair. One of the chief purposes of their visit is to interest every exhibitor in the stock show, and every harness horse owner. Because of the fact that the Portland meet immediately follows the state fair, Portland people may have an opportunity of seeing almost an exact reproduction of the state fair in this city next week.

The majority of the entries for the novel "mule derby," which will be one of the feature attractions of "grand opening day" next Monday, will be secured from the Vancouver army post, while one or two of the "speeders" will come from Portland and one or two from eastern Oregon. It is expected that about eight or ten mules will start in this unique event, and they will be driven by amateur talent exclusively.

DUCK HUNTERS RETURN FROM DAY'S SHOOT, LOADED DOWN WITH BIRDS

Portland's brigade of duck hunters returned to the city yesterday afternoon well supplied with birds, in spite of the fact that most of the shooters were driven out of the blinds in the early morning by the intense heat. At Deer island ducks were plentiful, the six hunters picked up 158 ducks after three hours' shooting. Dr. Mackenzie, Will Lipman, Jack Cullison, Morris Abrahams, A. L. Mills and George Leitholf were in the blinds at the island.

Jess Grogan, Ray and Ivan King and A. Woelin who shoot on the King place, averaged 20 ducks each.

At the Dead Willows, on the Columbia side of Sauvie's island, Jack Dillon, J. J. Fitzgerald, L. A. McNary and Captain Hogan had fine shootin, bringing back something like 25 ducks each. Charles Henry, John Kiernan and Charles Gardner had a couple of hours' good shooting on the Gardner place, averaging 20 birds apiece.

The Dead Willows' hunters report having seen large numbers of geese, the first flights of the season, coming in from the north.

Owners of preserves down the river are greatly encouraged over the duck situation and are anticipating a fine shooting season.

MOORES TO COACH COLUMBIA TEAM

U. of O. End Will Not Be Seen in Winged M Uniform This Fall.

Gordon Moores, the fast end who graduated from the University of Oregon this June and who, it was hoped, would turn out for the Multnomah eleven this fall, has turned professional and will not be seen in a football uniform again. Moores, Saturday, signed a contract to coach the Columbia university team at a contract which calls for $300 for the season's work.

Plowden Stott had signed to coach the Columbia university, but objections were raised by the directors of the club and he resigned. Moores' selection followed.

Moores will make a good coach, for he was one of the headiest players at Oregon last year and has had much valuable work under good coaches. He will take up the study of law in Judge Fenton's office this morning and much of his spare time will be devoted to the work of turning out a good football team at Columbia. He may take charge of the track team in the spring.

MANY DRUNKS IN DRY LA GRANDE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

La Grande, Or., Sept. 12.—La Grande, dry in name since July 1, has supported in some fashion at least eight places which were formerly saloons, but since the date above mentioned have been running as buttermilk palaces. During the last three weeks especially, a good many more drunks have been seen on the streets than the inhabitants of a dry town and county have a right to expect to see, and in order to make the city dry in fact as well as in name, Chief of Police Walden has given his subordinates strict orders that every so-called soft drink place be closely watched, and any violation of the law will be speedily punished, at least in the city of La Grande. Taxpayers and citizens generally were becoming indignant over the state of affairs, and as the county officials have seemed lethargic, the city police have taken hold, and have promised a speedy reversal of conditions.

I CURE MEN

MY FEE FOR A CURE IS $10 IN ANY UNCOMPLICATED DISORDER

PAY ME WHEN CURED

For 25 years I have been proving my ability, and my business methods have always been strictly reliable. My unqualified success is due to a thorough medical education, supplemented by years of experience in men's special diseases only. My treatment is as correct as modern science can make it. Others may offer inducements such as cheap treatment or quick treatment, but my foremost claim is for thoroughness, which in the long run—in EVERY CASE—means the cheapest and the best.

The Decay of Wood

is due to bacteria. Just as cholera and smallpox and other ills that vex our flesh are due to bacteria. So long as bacteria are excluded wood cannot decay. Good paint excludes, and so long as a building is protected by good paint it will remain sound and firm. RAY STATE paints will preserve your buildings indefinitely.
