

ALL PRECESS ARE ECLIPSE HIS YEAR

Stock, Exhibits and Crowds at State Fair Are Record Breakers—Illustrated Lectures Under Auspices of O. A. C. Draw Large Crowds.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Sept. 15.—Though rain fell last evening and during the night, the morning at the state fair has been excellent because of the cleared atmosphere and general freshness. Unless heavier rains fall the racetrack will be fast as yesterday, and the afternoon races are expected to be even better.
Interested crowds this morning thronged about the Oregon Agricultural college exhibits, where demonstrations in budding and grafting were given. Illustrated lectures were also presented on different subjects, including "Animal Husbandry," "Horticultural," "Engineering" and "Farm Tests," by leading lecturers of the college.
Tomorrow will be Salem day, one of the feature days of the fair. Thursday is Portland day, which with Salem day will make up the biggest two days of the fair, when the heaviest purses are hung up in the track and when the largest attendance is expected.
The state fair this year far surpasses any previous exposition at Salem, both in the number and quality of stock exhibits and attractions. The people of Salem have entered into a hearty co-operation with the fair board and accommodations have been provided to handle all visitors. The board of trade has gone into the hotel business, and the assistance of the residents, and listed 500 rooms in private homes.

FARMER DREAMS OF HIS MURDER

John Buchtern's Vision Caused Him to Write of His Suspicions.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Galveston, Texas, Sept. 15.—After welcoming the exact circumstances of his own murder and writing the story in detail four days before the crime was committed, John Buchtern, a wealthy farmer, is dead today, the victim of a negro whose appearance tallies with the assassin of the vision.
Buchtern dreamed that he was shot in the back by a man with a large scar across the back of his neck and whose forefinger was cut off at the first joint. Another man was with the assassin.
He was so impressed with the dream that he wrote it out in detail and mailed it to his cousin, James Barry.
Four days later Buchtern became involved in a quarrel with Raymond Newton, one of his negro cotton pickers. As the planter mounted his horse the negro shot him in the back.
Buchtern was captured and lynched, but the assassin was spirited away by officers and is held in the county jail here. He has a scar on his neck and has lost the first joint of his forefinger.

HAY NOMINATED FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 15.—With the addition of some missing precincts in the various counties and the revision of former figures by the official county canvass in several counties, the lead of M. E. Hay for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor by primary election grows. His nomination is assured. The figures on the two leading candidates for the office are: M. E. Hay, first choice, 21,227; second choice, 16,124; total, 37,351. C. E. Coon, first choice, 22,671; second, 12,680; total, 35,351. This gives Hay now a lead of 2,000.

Companies Incorporated.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Sept. 15.—Articles of incorporation have been filed in the office of the secretary of state as follows: Bone-Brock-DeWitt company, principal office, Hood River; capital stock, $6,000; incorporators, C. R. Bone, E. C. Brock and H. T. DeWitt.
Reed-Wallace company, principal office, Cottage Grove, Or.; capital stock, $10,000; incorporators, G. L. Reed, C. W. Wallace and J. T. Short.

BOY SHOT WHEN HANDLING RIFLE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Olympia, Wash., Sept. 15.—The body of Arthur Meyer, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer, of Chambers Prairie, was found yesterday just inside the gate of the David Chambers farm near this city. A 22-calibre rifle lying by his side and a bullet hole through his head told the grim story of his death. The bullet had entered the lad's mouth and passed out at the top of his head. It is thought that the lad probably attempted to blow the smoke out of the barrel after a shot and that in some manner the gun was discharged.

O. R. & N. FILES ANSWER TO RATE COMPLAINTS

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Sept. 15.—The O. R. & N. yesterday filed answers to the two complaints brought by the railroad commission alleging unfair and excessive rates on grain from eastern Oregon points to Portland. The railroad company denies all the allegations of the complaint, but acknowledges that the tariffs exist as they were stated in the complaint. The company denies that the rates are excessive.

HAWKING MACHINES

Cataract Sufferers Are Nothing but Hawkers, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

Is it possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from cataract, when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.
Hymel (pronounced High-o-mee) is a pleasant, medicated and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure cataract. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes, and crusts in the nose, in a few days.
It is guaranteed by Woodard, Clarke & Co. to do it or money back, and such a guarantee ought to be strong enough for anybody.

Entirely Cured by Hymel.

Having suffered from cataract for about two years, and having tried numerous remedies without any satisfactory results, I finally tried Hymel and am glad to state that after using about one and one-half bottles I am entirely cured. I have recommended it to others with satisfactory results.—C. N. Lindsey, 407 East First ave., Mitchell, S. D.
A complete Hymel outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hymel, costs only $1, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents each at Woodard, Clarke & Co. or direct, by mail, charges prepaid, from Booth's Hymel Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
Hymel also cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Croup of Infants, and any inflammatory disease of the respiratory tract.

PATTERSON DOES NOT KNOW WHY

His "Little Brother of the Rich" Just Grew, Like Topsy.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
New York, Sept. 15.—Joseph Medill Patterson is decidedly hazy on how to write "A Little Brother of the Rich." He said yesterday that he did not know why he wrote it, and as far as he knew he had no definite object in beginning the book. He did not intend by it to reform any one, and he did not have any one in particular in mind for any of his characters.
Mr. Patterson admitted that he did not know much about New York society, having never spent more than a month there at a time. He said that he made only occasional visits there while a student at Yale. He also said he had no other ground for selecting New York as the scene of the action in the book than that this city was the American metropolis, and that the people of all large communities would be more pronounced in the largest city than in smaller places.
He did not know why he called the book "A Little Brother of the Rich," except that there were "Little Sisters of the Rich" about here, and he might as well be "A Little Brother of the Rich," besides, he said, "the name was catchy."
The Son of Editor.
Mr. Patterson is a son of Robert Wilson Patterson, editor and owner of the Chicago Tribune, and grandson of the late Joseph Medill.
"I must hurry back to Chicago to work on the dramatization of the book," he said. "I am under contract with Liebler & Co. to write a novel as possible, but I am not at liberty to say when it will be produced. I expect to do all the writing myself."
"I don't know just why I wrote the book. Many things have made an impression on my mind. While at Yale I went to the express office one day to send a small package to New York. They charged me a dollar for it, and I went to the postoffice and asked them what it would cost to send it to Manila. The four dollars was the reply. That was the difference between private and public ownership."
"Then I studied the subway situation in both New York and Chicago, this packing of people in the trains between 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock, and I concluded that it just made me wroth to see how they impose on the public."
Mr. Patterson is a pronounced Socialist, and says he is one because of the oppression of the people by the trusts. "But," he said, "I had no clearly defined idea of attacking the trusts or making people better by writing the book. I don't believe I ever thought of that side of the matter and I did not intend to teach a moral."
"I don't know any one who lives in a palace in New York with a wife he doesn't love, and has another in a cottage in New Jersey he does love, but such things have happened, so I put it in the book. I was not thinking of any one specially as represented by any of the characters in the book. The name came to me and I put them down. I do not think the story is a bit overdrawn.

I had no special reference to New York society, and I have never lived here in my life, but what I said is true of the big cities, especially so in New York. I chose New York instead of Chicago for the same reason that one writing of conditions in English cities would choose London instead of Liverpool, or of conditions in French cities, Paris and not Havre.
I am a follower of Debs and a Socialist," Mr. Patterson said when asked about his political views.
"I think the trusts, the public utilities, such as railroads, telephone and telegraph companies, should belong to the government, and while men who have money, especially in the past, should be allowed to own stocks and bonds, for then they take a mortgage on the poor, and their children on the children of the poor."
"I have no definite plan as to how the government should get possession of these things, but the object is first to get possession of the government. I believe in Socialism, and I believe women. Many women now marry for a home and don't love the men they marry at all."

JAPANESE CAUGHT SEAL POACHING

Revenue Cutter Bear Overhauls Two Craft and Arrests Crews.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Sept. 15.—The department of justice was advised today of the capture of two Japanese vessels and between 30 and 40 Japanese sailors caught seal poaching within the three-mile limit off Sitka, Alaska, today. The revenue cutter Bear overhauled the foreign vessels and captured them after a chase.
The men were taken to Unalaska and will be later removed to Valdez for trial. On one of the schooners were found several small boats with blood, showing that the seals had been killed within the prescribed three-mile limit.

Timothy Kelly.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Albany, Or., Sept. 15.—Timothy Kelly, 84 year of age, one of the pioneers of Oregon, died yesterday at the home of his son, Michael Kelly, three miles east of Jefferson. He had been ill with heart trouble for some time.
Mr. Kelly was born in Ireland and came to America when 8 years old. He had resided in Oregon the past 35 years. He cast his first vote for President Van Buren, and had voted for every Democratic candidate for president since that time. In spite of his advanced age, his interest in politics continued active, and he attended the Democratic county convention here last spring and was committeeman from Shelburn precinct in the last campaign.
Mr. Kelly leaves four children—Michael Kelly and Mrs. Dan Donabue, residing near Jefferson; Mrs. William Moore of Cottage Grove, and Mrs. Hudson of Atchison, Kan.
