

GRAND JURY INDICTS TWO RUEF ATTORNEYS AT ROCKPILE

Francis J. Murphy and A. S. Newburgh Held by the Grand Jury.

Inquisitorial Body Makes an Unannounced Visit to Learn for Itself How Matters Relating to County Prisoners Are Conducted.

The grand jury made an excursion to the county rock pile at Kelly's Bluff this afternoon. There was no blowing of trumpets in advance, the visit being intended as a surprise party.

This morning the seven grand jurors paid an unannounced visit to the county jail. They were told to wander at will, inspect the cells and corridors and talk with the prisoners. The grand jury today has revived interest in possible investigation as to the relations of the sheriff and the county court with regard to feeding and working county prisoners under the new law, which gives the custody to the sheriff and says that the work may be worked on the highways under the direction of the county court. It is possible that the jurors may consider it proper to make some recommendation in the matter. It is evident that the jurors will be fully informed concerning the feeding and working of the prisoners. Ever since June, since the new law went into effect, no county prisoners have been sent to the butte by the sheriff. He asked for the setting of a date when he and his attorneys might confer with the county court, but the members of the court sent no reply and nothing has been done.

A. S. Briggs, who has charge of the rock pile, was in the city this morning. He, of course, knew nothing of the prospective visit of the grand jurors, but announced that he intended to extend them an invitation to visit his institution before they finished their work. "I want them to come out and look into everything connected with the management of the place," he said. "I am going to ask them to come, and I want them to go and talk with every prisoner there. That is the way for them to judge as to the way things are run. We now have 18 county prisoners and 19 from the city. This is about half force, but during the last month we have turned out crushed rock at the rate of 140 yards per day. This is worth $1.50 per yard in the market. The material is about finished and the rock will now go on the Multnomah road, between the Base Line and Section Line roads."

TRIES TO COLLECT FROM CEMETERY

Declaring that the action of the city in placing a lien on Riverview cemetery to pay for the cost of improvements on Front street portends the sale of a portion of the cemetery, even of occupied lots, and that such action would be illegal, besides shocking the conscience of the people, Attorney C. W. Dolph this morning argued in support of a demurrer to the city's complaint before Judge Gantenben in the circuit court. Deputy District Attorney Grant intimated that there is a danger that the city will attempt to sell occupied lots where the dead are buried, but he drew no distinction between the property of the cemetery association owns, and Mr. Dolph declared that if the position of the city is sustained the effect will be to threaten the sale of lots without respect to occupancy. "It is unthinkable," he said, "that there is power to sell the sites where are buried Ladd, Lewis, Felling and the others who helped by their money and liberality to establish this cemetery. It would shock the conscience to say that occupied lots may be sold."

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—Francis J. Murphy and Adolph S. Newburgh, who have been associated with Henry Ah as counsel for ex-Boss Abe Ruef were indicted by the grand jury today on a charge of attempting to bribe John M. Kelly, a venireman in the Ruef case. Kelly created a sensation two weeks ago by deciding to accept the offer of A. S. Blake, a contractor, had offered him $1,000 to get on the jury and vote for Ruef's acquittal and Blake was indicted shortly thereafter.

Within an hour after the indictments were returned, Attorney Newburgh had appeared before the court and deposited $3,000 cash bail.

Attorney Murphy was subpoenaed by the grand jury last night to testify and it was expected that his story would be listened to before any action was taken. He was told to appear at the court from Justice by Detective Burns yesterday afternoon and when he learned that the grand jury was after him he called up the process servers and asked to be served with the summons. Murphy declared that he was not in hiding and expressed a willingness to go before the grand jury. He was greatly shocked when he learned today that the grand jury had met and returned the indictments after a deliberation of but 15 minutes.

It is rumored that Attorney Newburgh is accused of having carried on the negotiations with Contractor E. A. S. Blake the man indicted last week for attempting to bribe Kelly, broke down before the grand jury yesterday afternoon and made a confession.

Newburgh refused to talk about the case. He was before the grand jury for several hours yesterday and when he came out of the inquisitorial room he looked like an excited man.

The indictment of the attorneys has created another sensation in the Ruef case and the whole city is expecting the grand jury to return indictments against further action along the same line in connection with the Ruef trial now on.

CONFESSES TO MURDER OF BOY

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 17.—John Rea, the watchman at the Albra Gun club, was last Sunday shot and killed. Carl Moller in cold blood because he thought the boy was robbing a slough situated on the club's property, was formally charged with murder today on a warrant sworn out by Andrew Anderson, the lawyer who was in the boat with the murdered boy.

Rea Was Confessed.

Sheriff Barnett of Alameda county declares that he is in possession of enough evidence to convict Rea beyond the possibility of a doubt and that the case will be pushed vigorously. District Attorney Everett Brown of Alameda county, prepared the warrant sworn to today and will handle the prosecution of the case.

Not Even on Ground.

It developed today that young Moller was not even on the property owned by the gun club when he was shot and the residents of Irvington are incensed at the affair.

Leigh Larzere, secretary of the gun club who denied all knowledge of the affair to the officers and newspaper reporters who questioned him, is condemned severely by the Irvington people for his conduct in tracing the crime.

District Attorney Brown stated today that there is no charge against which Larzere can be held but that he should be severely condemned for his action. Larzere is reported to have told the Irvington people that he would not be damn fool enough to tell anything about the case, and a movement is on foot among the people of the district to force Larzere to resign his position in the gun club.

Rea is today penitently willing to confess all the details of the crime. He says that he intended to tell all about the shooting at the time, but that he wanted to talk to Sheriff Barnett and not to the Irvington authorities.

Rea did not admit the shooting when I was questioned at first because I wanted to talk the matter over with Sheriff Barnett," he said today, "and I was excited when the officers had informed me what had happened. I did not aim at young Moller, I just held my gun loosely and shot in his direction. I did not even see Moller. Anderson was the only man I saw."

The testimony of boy Morgan, the carpenter, who handed the gun to Rea, contradicts this testimony, however. Morgan says that Rea took careful aim when he fired the fatal shot.

It was learned today that Porter Aabe, the attorney retained by the officers of the gun club, advised Rea to confess when he learned that Sheriff Barnett was in possession of enough evidence to obtain a conviction.

The verdict of the coroner's jury at San Jose yesterday in which it was declared that Moller met his death at the hands of persons unknown to the jury was a disappointment to the officials.

Rea will not be taken before the Alameda county grand jury as was first announced, but will be taken before Judge Bowers at Irvington next Monday for arraignment on the charge sworn today.

Miss Flesner came to Portland to marry Victor Finsel with whom she had been corresponding. Her rival Mr. Finsel discovered that the woman was suffering with pulmonary tuberculosis. He refused to call her part of the agreement. She was soon without money and appealed to the county for aid.

FLASHED LOTTERY TICKET TOO SOON

Flourishing a Chinese lottery ticket in his hand, Earl Worrell, a clerk in a hat store, marched along Third street late yesterday afternoon. "When I cash this I'll have more money than you ever saw," he said proudly to a companion. Doubtless he would have astonished the other young man with the sight of all his winnings in a few days, but for one obstacle, or rather two of them. Justice Olson and Deputy Constable Kierman passed the pair just as Worrell made his boast. They saw the ticket in his hand, and his arrest on a charge of having a lottery ticket in his possession followed in about three seconds. He has been held under $200 bail.

Bryan today refused to give up his speaking tour temporarily to take a rest, upon which he arrived here today, and it is said announced that he not only will continue speaking, but that his managers may decide that it will be best for him to visit the Pacific coast.

Strong demands and requests for the presence of Bryan on the Pacific coast have been received lately and while no decision has been reached, it is said to be more likely now than before that he will make the far western tour. Upon his arrival here today Bryan was advised by his physician that he has been exerting himself too vigorously and a short rest was urged upon him. His managers as well as the candidates he is supporting, insisted that he continue on the stump.

Stevens and Mrs. Inez Paul Stevens and their separate maintenance, divorce, polygamy and other suits filed and threatened, was yesterday Judge O'Day and Mr. Clark, the attorneys for the Stevens family had an amiable conference in the Chamber of Commerce building this morning, however, and it is believed the matter will be settled outside of court before the end of the week.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, Sept. 17.—An offer made in Wall street today to bet $5,000 to $10,000 on Hughes in the coming race for governor was not accepted. It is generally believed that it is too early for the betting and that the odds are not taken as strong evidence of what the odds will be.

3 BURNED IN EXPLOSION

Section Hands Enter Oil Tank at Lewisville With Lighted Lantern—Flames Shoot High in Air When Fumes Ignite.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Three men who went into an oil tank with a lighted lantern were rescued in St. Vincent's hospital this morning. All were burned about the face from the explosion which followed their entrance. The accident occurred at Lewisville, Or., along the line of the O. R. & N. at 4:30 this morning.

Peter Soukules lost practically all the skin off his face, together with his hair. His cousin Gus is less severely injured. The third man, W. Kuntz, was soon discharged from the hospital. Kuntz is a brakeman and was working on a gravel train. Peter and Gus Soukules, cousins, were employees of the Oregon Electric company on the same gravel train. At Lewisville the engine stopped at an oil tank for fuel. There were only two or three gallons of oil in the tank, and the brakeman lowered his lantern into the tank, which, it is explained, is a customary thing to do. Why there should have been an explosion at this time cannot be explained, but the flames suddenly leaped out of the tank and 20 feet above it, badly burning all three men. Kuntz has been taken to his home in Oregon. His injuries not being serious, though his arms and hands are badly burned.
